Contracted to Mr. Collins S. J. Turner,2019-01-05 When Rebecca D'Angelo hears about a position at Collins Enterprises for an account executive paying a whopping $75,000 annual base salary, she can't wait to apply. Putting together an impressive resume and a stunning portfolio, she marches downtown to the enormous office building with her aspirations high. Stopping at her favourite coffee shop to grab a latte on her way, she's feeling excited about her future possibilities at Collins Enterprises. With zing in her step she walks up to the building and reads the notice posted on the front door. The notice reads: DEADLINE - Resumes for Account Executive position must be received no later than 10am this morning to be considered. Rebecca looks at her watch, it's 9:51am. SHIT! She's not even sure where to go. Rebecca runs inside heading for the information desk when she runs into what feels like a brick wall. Her portfolio and resume thankfully protected by a plastic case as her latte flies through the air. Large hands wrap around her arms helping her to her feet as a deep rumbling voice echoes above her. Jesus Christ! This is not a school yard young lady! When she looks up, her eyes lock with the CEO himself, Aiden Collins. His crisp white dress shirt and very expensive Armani suit displaying remnants of her freshly brewed latte. SHIT! I'm so sorry! She says, trembling as she picks up her plastic portfolio. The deadline. Is all she can manage to say as she holds the cheap case in front of her. Yes. Well, give it to me and I'll see that it gets in. Mr Collins says, extracting the portfolio from her hand. Thank you! I'm sorry, I'll pay for the cleaning costs of your suit. She yells, as he walks away with a wave of his hand. Feeling deflated, Rebecca heads back to her shitty car, and her shitty life. 'You can forget about this job, Becca!' Something else will come up, eventually. You can imagine her surprise when she not only gets called in for an initial interview, but makes it to the final round of the interviews. The only problem, the final interview is with the CEO, Aiden Collins himself. Double SHIT! The interview is not at all what she expects. In fact, Aiden Collins is not at all what she expects. Rebecca D'Angelo's boring life is about to get very interesting to say the least. Due to Adult content, suggested age is 18+

Crashing to the floor, her latte and portfolio launch into the air. Her first thought – thankfully, my documents are in a protective cover. Then a set of large hands wrap around her arms and a deep rumbling voice echoes above. “Jesus Christ! This is not a schoolyard, young lady!” Rebecca slowly peers up, her eyes anchoring on the most gorgeous creature she has ever seen. His beautiful cobalt blue eyes shine like stars against a perfect bronze tan, emphasized by neatly combed black hair that flawlessly tapers to meet a designer beard. She can feel the power radiating off his 6’4” GQ cover body as he wipes her latte from his crisp white shirt and expensive Armani suit. There’s no mistaking who this man is – Aiden Collins, CEO of Collins Enterprises. Shit! Surprisingly, she’s made it to the final round of interviews. Though, today’s interview will be conducted by the one and only – Aiden Collins himself. Yep. That’s right. That means her fate at Collins Enterprises now lies solely in his hands. On the bright side, it’s been three weeks since the latte incident, and after all, she has made it this far. That must mean he’s forgotten. Right? – I absolutely love this book!!! Discovering the City of Sodom Steven Collins, Latayne C. Scott, 2016-03-15 The fascinating, true account of the quest for one of the Old Testament's most infamous cities. Like many Christians today in the academic world, Dr. Steven Collins felt pulled in different directions when it came to apparent conflicts between the Bible and scholarly research and theory—an intellectual crisis that inspired him to lay it all on the line as he set off to locate the lost city of Sodom. Recounting Dr. Collins's quest for Sodom in absorbing detail, this adventure-cum-memoir reflects the tensions that define biblical archaeology as it narrates a tale of discovery. Readers follow “Dr. C” as he tracks down biblical, archaeological, and geographical clues to the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, narrowing the list of possible sites as he weighs evidence and battles skeptics. Finally, he arrives at a single location that looms as the only option: a massive ancient ruin called Tall el-Hammam in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan. Many scholars who were initially opposed to Dr. Collins's theory now concede that history books may need to be rewritten in light of his groundbreaking discovery. It—along with several other recent finds—is challenging the assumptions of academics and asserting a new voice in the controversy of biblical archaeology and the dispute over using the Bible as a credible historical source.  From respected archaeologist Dr. Steven Collins and award-winning author Dr. Latayne C. Scott comes the fascinating, true account of the frustrating search and exciting excavation of the city the Bible calls Sodom, which scholars and others had “misplaced” for hundreds of years. Like many modern-day Christians, Dr. Collins struggled with what seemed to be a clash between his heritage of belief in the Bible and the research regarding ancient history and human evolution. This crisis of faith led him to embark on a quest to put both his archaeological education and the Bible to the test by seeking out the lost ancient city, an expedition that has led to one of the most exciting finds in recent archaeology. Challenging the assumptions of academics around the world, Discovering the City of Sodom may well inspire a revision of the history books. Dr. Collins has become a new voice in the controversy over using the Bible as a credible source of understanding the past—and opened a new chapter in the struggle over the soul of biblical archaeology.

Contracted To Mr. Collins 2 SJ. Turner,2021-08-03 – ‘I Really enjoyed this book. The characters are relatable and lovable. I had a hard time putting it down. – M. Warde After a run-in with Rebecca’s ex, Alex, the brothers decide to take her up island to meet their grandparents. Excitement is running high until the following morning when they’re set to leave. Max has a sudden awakening that causes friction between him and his brother. Still, with tension high, the planned trip moves forward, and both brothers do their best not to raise alarms, but Nan is no fool. Nan and Pop take an instant shine to Rebecca and never having grandparents of her own, she’s just as taken by them. Not to mention the tiny village of Gold River they live in. With the help of Nan and Pop, the brothers finally mend their relationship, and Aiden suggests relocating. It will rid them of Rebecca’s ex, hopefully for good this time and allow them the leisurely lifestyle she’s always dreamed of. Especially now that there is a baby coming. The decision is made, and the land next to Nan and Pop is purchased. All Aiden has to do now is go back to Victoria for a few weeks to settle Natasha into his position. Rebecca will be okay alone with Max till he gets back, right? Unfortunately, Aiden misjudged Max, and now he’s not even sure if it’s worth returning.

Three Moments of the Day Christopher S. Collins,2014-09-22 Retreat master Christopher Collins introduces a powerful approach to both the Sacred Heart devotion and classic Ignatian spirituality. In the tradition of Michael Gaitley’s bestselling 33 Days to Morning Glory, Three Moments of the Day presents a classic Catholic tradition in a way that is fresh and compelling. Jesuit retreat master Christopher Collins introduces three simple, yet powerful prayer habits that are at the foundation of both the Sacred Heart devotion and Ignatian spirituality and that assist the reader in turning intentionally toward the Sacred Heart of Christ. In Three Moments of the Day, Collins guides readers through the morning offering, evening reflection, and how to ponder the gift of the Eucharist throughout the day.

That is until Rebecca D'Angelo came along. The day she was supposed to be applying for her dream position, she came in like a flurry, accidentally tossing her latte on Aiden, the CEO of Collins Enterprises. It was love at first sight. Except, one was too embarrassed, and the other was too angry to know what hit him at the time, honestly. Both amazed and thrilled that she has made it through to the final round of the interviews, Rebecca's a bundle of nerves when she finds out that Aiden will be conducting them. She's even more so shocked when not only does he hand her two contracts to consider, but he insists on taking her to lunch. Of course, neither lunch nor the contracts are quite what Rebecca's expecting, and before she knows it, her life takes a significant turn. However, things aren't quite what Aiden is expecting either. Max has cancelled the trip Aiden had explicitly sent him on to get him out of town so he could explore Miss D'Angelo without interference. Now, Rebecca is on Max's radar. An adventure is inevitable when Max takes them all to Jamacia but when Max declares his love for Rebecca, a silent war begins to brew between the two brothers and some serious lines get crossed. In the end, a decision will need to be made and ultimately it will be placed in Rebecca's hands. Will it be Max or Aiden? Surely she can't have both.
