Horrorsexual: The Queer Erotic Fright Fiction Of M.Christian Christian Muncy, QUEER EROTICA ON THE FRIGHT SIDE OF THE BED! Like your queer erotica spiced with a touch of the terrifying? Enjoy mixing your sexy gay fiction with the heady spice of terror? Get off on explicit tales of man-on-man passion mixed with the shivers and shakes of your most shocking nightmares? If you do - and, peering into your soul, we know you do -- then Horrorsexual waits for you in the stygian darkness where forbidden lusts dance hand-in-hand (and tentacle-in-tentacle) with paralyzing fear to give you a reading experience like no other. From the fevered imagination of M.Christian, we present fourteen uniquely twisted tales of outrageously hot sex combined with a spine-tingling creepiness that will haunt, and erotically exhilarate you, for years to come! Here are stories of ghosts and specters, cannibalism and dark revenge, serial killers and vampires, and even more disturbing surprises around every corner told by a highly regarded master of queer erotic fiction. Stories in Horrorsexual: The Queer Erotic Fright Fiction Of M.Christian include: "Echoes" - What's worse than being haunted by the vengeful spirit of an ex-lover? For Red, it's when terror pushes him over the edge ... and into even deeper darkness. "Suddenly, Last Thursday" - Sebastian likes to play dangerous games with people, but when he takes things too far he bites far more than he could ever chew. "Matches" - Dying was the best thing that'd ever happened to Mr. Skila. But, as with all good things in his sad ex-life, even being a ghost was too good to last... "That Sweet Smell" - JJ could make or break an entertainer's career on a whim. But when it came to Sidney, JJ had only one thing on his mind--something far worse than just crushing his dreams of success. "Chickenhawk" - The bait was laid out, the trap was set, and the needle was in his hand. But who is the prey and who is the predator? "Whatever Happened To...?" - Bouncin' Betty used to be a star but now, broken and bitter, there was just one, very dark and disturbing thing that gave this old drag-celebrity any pleasure. "Friday Night At The Calvary Hotel" - Everyone has at least one of them: a dark and twisted fetish we'd love to enact but are just too frightened to make a reality. But one night, in a seedy hotel, someone will do just that... "Bitch" - Quinn hated his neighbors. Their laughter was too loud, they flaunted their toned bodies, and, worse still, they were happy. He wished someone would do something about them. Then, to his terror, someone does. "Counting" - In the near future, religious fanatics despotically rule over San Francisco. But the city has a hero, one on a mission to bring his own unique form of terror to the terrible. Or maybe he's wants something else entirely... "Wet" - You might call Doud a vampire but he'd disagree. One thing he most definitely is, however, is lonely. And more sexy, terrifying Man on Man fiction. M.Christian is today's premiere erotic shapeshifter, with too many stories to tell to be fenced in by only one gender or identity. Reading these tales is like climbing on for a sexual magic carpet ride through different times and places, diverse bodies, and infinite possibilities. M.Christian is a literary stylist of the highest caliber: smart, funny, frightening, sexy —there's nothing he can't write about ... and brilliantly. —Tristan Taormino

Indie TV James Lyons, Yannis Tzioumakis, 2023-03-27

This edited collection is the first book to offer a wide-ranging examination of the interface between American independent film and a converged television landscape that consists of terrestrial broadcasters, cable networks and streaming providers, in which independent film and television intersect in complex, multifaceted and creative ways. The book covers the long history of continuities and connections between the two sectors, as seen in the activities of PBS, HBO or Sundance. It considers the movement of filmmakers between indie film and TV such as Steven Soderbergh, Rian Johnson, the Duplass brothers, Joe Swanberg, Lynn Shelton and Gregg Araki; details the confluence of aesthetic and thematic elements seen in shows such as Girls, Breaking Bad, Master of None, or Glow; points to a shared interest in regional sensibilities evident in shows like One Mississippi or Fargo; and makes the case for documentaries and web series as significant entities in this domain. Collectively, the book builds a compelling picture of indie TV as a significant feature of US screen entertainment in the 21st Century. This interdisciplinary landmark volume will be a go-to reference for students and scholars of Television Studies, Film Studies and Media Studies.

Breaking Down is Waking up Russell

Razzaque, 2014-05-13 Razzaque explores an entirely new way of understanding psychological and mental distress based on clinical case studies from a mental hospital. His extraordinary conclusion: mental illness can be a form of spiritual awakening. The book describes new forms of treatment for mental illness inspired by Eastern approaches and centering, in particular, around practices such as mindfulness and meditation. These therapies offer both patients and their families the inspiring idea that the approach to their psychological difficulties should go beyond just treating episodes of mental illness but also, where possible, help the individual to complete the process of spiritual growth they have begun. Dr Razzaque argues passionately that our society as a whole could benefit from developing an awareness of the spiritual power of this process of transformation. Written in the tradition of the bestselling medical doctors, Stanford's Irvin D. Yalom and Britain's Oliver Sacks, Breaking Down is Waking Up, will speak to both professionals in the field of mental health as well as those suffering from mental illness, their family and friends and, indeed, all those who have an interest in exploring the deepest layers of what it really means to be human.

Breaking Through Gaia Bowen, 2016-02 Your own empowerment is what will have a ripple effect in changing and inspiring yourself and others. This funny life journey is packed full with moments of the the rocket ship blasting off and leaving us behind to catch up, and other times it is the turtle, sometimes it can't move fast enough, low and steady so that we may integrate this human life fully, leaving no stone unturned. This poetry book is a reflection of all the emotions and breakthroughs from 2010 to 2015 that have left me completely shattered, heartbroken and dissolved, and the love that poured in after. From one extreme to the other, peace and freedom have come from acknowledging and accepting them all. I hope this inspires you to go to the depths of your core as well, so that you may have the courage to also know true freedom.

Cultural Activism Begüm Özden Firat, Aylin Kuryel Aylin Kuryel, 2011-03 This volume addresses contemporary activist practices that aim to interrupt and reorient politics as well as culture. The specific tactics analyzed here are diverse, ranging from culture jamming, sousveillance, media hoaxing, adbusting, subvertising, street art, to hacktivism, billboard liberation, and urban guerilla, to name but a few. Though indebted to the artistic and political movements of the past, this form of activism brings a novel dimension to public protest with its insistence on humor, playfulness, and confusion. This book attempts to grasp both the old and new aspects of contemporary activist practices, as well as their common characteristics and internal varieties. It attempts to open up space for the acknowledgement of the ways in which contemporary capitalism affects all our lives, and for the reflection on possible modes of struggling with it. It focuses on the possibilities that different activist tactics enable, the ways in which those may be innovative or destructive, as well as on their complications and dilemmas. The encounter between the insights of political, social and critical theory on the one hand and activist visions and struggles on the other is urgent and appealing. The essays collected here all explore such a confrontational collaboration, testing its limits and productiveness, in theory as well as in practice. In a mutually beneficial relationship, theoretical concepts are rethought through activist practices, while those activist practices are developed with the help of the insights of critical theory. This volume brings scholars and activists together in the hope of establishing a productive dialogue between the theorizations of the intricacies of our times and the subversive practices that deal with them.

My Friend You Donald Clark,2018-09-27 My Friend You is a true story chronicling a young Afro-American man's four-year tour of duty in the marine corps during the Vietnam War era. The book contains its share of wartime drama, but upon reading further, it doesn't take you long to realize this book is not a typical Vietnam War story, but, instead, it tells about the love and devotion the young marine has for two orphaned children he met in mid-July of 1965 when he was flying as a volunteer crewman aboard a marine medevac helicopter and was dispatched to rescue a party of seventeen children. During the rescue, the young marine was awkwardly introduced to a pretty orphaned ten-year-old girl Kim and her protective teenage brother, Lanh. The three quickly bonded, and their interactions inexplicably triggered the marine's paternal senses to befriend them both, thus, changing his life forever. Some fifty-two years have passed since I promised those kids I would tell the world about their story, and I plan to do just that, God willing.

No Hiding in Boise Kim Hooper, 2021-06-15 A 2021 INDIE NEXT Pick A Women's National Book Association 2021 Great Group Read When Angie is awakened by a midnight call from an officer with the Boise Police Department, she thinks there must be a misunderstanding. The officer tells her that her husband was involved in a shooting at a local bar, but how can that be possible when her husband is sleeping right next to her? Except when she turns to wake him, he isn't there. Tessa is the twenty-three-year-old bartender who escapes to a backroom storage closet during the shooting. When it comes to light that five people were killed, she is burdened with the question of why she survived. Joyce wakes up to a knock at her front door, a knock she assumes is her wayward son, Jed, who must have lost his keys. It's not Jed, though. Two police officers tell her that Jed is dead, shot at the bar. Then they deliver even worse news: "We have reason to believe your son was the shooter." So begins the story of three women tied together by tragic fate—a wife trying to understand why her now-comatose husband was frequenting a bar in the middle of the night, the young woman who her husband was apparently pursuing, and a mother who is forced to confront the reality of who her son was and who she is.

Breaking Up Is Hard to Do Ed Gorman, 2013-12-31 At the height of the Cold War, a dead woman turns up in a bomb shelter Black River Falls used to be a boring small town, but at the pinnacle of the Cuban Missile Crisis, nowhere in America can be boring anymore. Sex Pots Paul Mathieu, 2003 Over the past twenty years debates about pornography have raged within feminism and beyond. Throughout the 1970s feminists increasingly addressed the problem of men's sexual violence against women, and many women reduced the politics of men's power to questions about sexuality. By the 1980s these questions had become more and more focused on the issue of pornography--now a metaphor for the menace of male power. Collapsing feminist politics into sexuality and sexuality into pornography has not only caused some of the deepest splits between feminists, but made it harder to think clearly about either sexuality or pornography--indeed, about feminist politics more generally. This provocative collection, by well-known feminists, surveys these arguments, and in particular asks why recent feminist debates about sexuality keep reducing to questions of pornography.
