HC 739 - Linking Emissions Trading Systems Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Energy and Climate Change Committee,2015-02-17 Carbon pricing is a necessary element in spurring climate change mitigation action. In this report it's argued that emissions trading, as an established and well recognised policy instrument for controlling greenhouse gas emissions, is increasingly popular and spreading around the world. As they develop, emissions trading systems should be designed so that they are compatible with each other. Aligning design elements early on will help improve the prospects of linking different systems in future and, therefore, maximise opportunities for cost-effective emissions reductions. As the world's oldest and largest market, the EU Emission Trading System will play a critical role in facilitating linking between different markets. Before it can do this, however, it must be seen as a credible market. The issue of surplus allowances must be addressed urgently and there should be moves to remove these from the system as soon as possible. Any new climate agreement must crucially allow parties to meet their Intended Nationally Determined Contribution's (INDCs) by transferring parts of their contributions to other parties and financing emissions reduction activities in other countries. The use of carbon markets will greatly improve the prospects of keeping global average temperatures below 2°C. Any agreement reached at the UNFCCC COP 21 in Paris at the end of 2015 should promote the use of carbon markets and facilitate the future linking of emissions trading systems. The UNFCCC could also play a critical role in providing basic standards including monitoring, reporting and verification.

The main site tells the story of Georgia's history from the Bronze Age to the early 20th century. It's the story of 'The Land of the Golden Fleece' - the ancient Kingdom of Colchis, whose ingenious gold, silver and precious stonework can be seen in the Treasury. The Greek, Ottoman and Iranian Influence visible in many of the treasures is testament to Georgia's role as a crossroads through the centuries. The GNM also records Georgia's modern history, tracing the rise of a united Georgian state, how it resisted Soviet Occupation and survived the Red Terror. However, perhaps most significantly of all, here visitors can come face-to-face with the earliest homonid known to have left Africa - a 1.8 million-year-old discovery made by the GNM's Director, Professor David Lordkipanidze, that has rewritten our understanding of early European humanity. In this beautifully illustrated book, Professor Lordkipanidze illuminates his personal highlights from the collection with his considerable expertise.

The Lessons of Jesus Christ Lisa C. Bousson,2013 Eventually, we all question our existence. Is this all there is? Why do I feel like I'm going in circles, never getting anywhere? As spiritual beings, we travel the same road, and yet, your road is unlike any other. As you look back on your life's journey, taking note of the twists and turns, you'll begin to understand that each bend in the road presented an opportunity, steering you toward where you are today, and eventually to where you are meant to be. Whether or not you fully accept that you're being led by a divine source, The Lessons will help you create compassion for yourself and others, while understanding the various aspects of your physical and spiritual lives. The passages are simple, complex, intuitive, logical, and speak to your heart. As you read these pages, the lessons from Jesus ring true to your soul, bringing understanding and ultimately acceptance for yourself and the path you're on.
