Who Are They? Taylor Storm,2013-09-01 Start the Who--? Series with Who Are They? The Extreme Limit A FEW TEASERS: · He murdered my husband! · making a deal with the devil was the only way he could survive – · Like a horror movie--one that she wanted to shut out, but couldn't because the sad fact was that this was her life. · “Mommy!” she heard Elias’ voice. Oh, no! This wasn’t a sight for a child to witness.... · How can you all sit there and have this murderer in our presence? · Maybe throw a little sex into the equation. That never hurt anyone before. · She couldn’t allow her son to be raised like this and be around such an evil person. · “Mom, I am a model!” She lied. Hang on to your seat as this story unfolds with its intertwined web of lies, sex, crime, and a plethora of unusual events as they climax, and convey deep emotions and vivid images, while the twosomes evolve into sexual triangles of turmoil. Their marriage was a complete hoax. They never even slept in the same bed and could hardly stand the sight of each other. They had become like one of those couples that did nothing but nag in each other’s presence and whine about how pathetic they were to one another. Not a day passed when they did not fight or express how much hate they felt for one another, and...Julie and Andrew... Their daughter, Jenna, was a beautiful, aspiring model, promising to be faithful to her love, Morgan. Morgan goes on an extensive business trip to South Africa, and when he comes home intended to propose to Jenna, but discovers Crowley....

The Extremes Christopher Priest,1999 Teresa Simon has just become a widow, her husband shot in a seemingly unprovoked attack by a gunman on the loose. Teresa and Andy both worked for the FBI and used virtual reality programs to help them re-enact critical situations. Teresa goes to England to investigate another horrific mass killing which occurred on the same day and in very similar circumstances. But she finds only the reflection of her own grief. Until, that is, Teresa joins GunHo - a virtual reality company. Relief comes in the worlds and personalities of other people's existence until she enters the mind of Gerry Grove, the town's assassin and is terrified by what she discovers - about herself.

Mainstream Culture Refocused Xueping Zhong, 2019-01-31 Serialized television drama (dianshiju), perhaps the most popular and influential cultural form in China over the past three decades, offers a wide and penetrating look at the tensions and contradictions of the post-revolutionary and pro-market period. Zhong Xueping's timely new work draws attention to the multiple cultural and historical legacies that coexist and challenge each other within this dominant form of story telling. Although scholars tend to focus their attention on elite cultural trends and avant garde movements in literature and film, Zhong argues for recognizing the complexity of dianshiju's melodramatic mode and its various subgenres, in effect refocusing mainstream Chinese culture. Mainstream Culture Refocused opens with an examination of television as a narrative motif in three contemporary Chinese art-house films. Zhong then turns her attention to dianshiju's most important subgenres. Emperor dramas highlight the link between popular culture's obsession with emperors and modern Chinese intellectuals' preoccupation with issues of history and tradition and how they relate to modernity. In her exploration of the anti-corruption subgenre, Zhong considers three representative dramas, exploring their diverse plots and emphases. Youth dramas' rich array of representations reveal the numerous social, economic, cultural, and ideological issues surrounding the notion of youth and its changing meanings. The chapter on the family-marriage subgenre analyzes the ways in which women's emotions are represented in relation to their desire for happiness. Song lyrics from music composed for television dramas are considered as popular poetics. Their sentiments range between nostalgia and uncertainty, mirroring the social contradictions of the reform era. The Epilogue returns to the relationship between intellectuals and the production of mainstream cultural meaning in the context of China's post-revolutionary social, economic, and cultural transformation. Provocative and insightful, Mainstream Culture Refocused will appeal to scholars and students in studies of modern China generally and of contemporary Chinese media and popular culture specifically.

Drug smuggler nation Stephen Snelders, 2021-02-09 Why did the international drug regulatory regime of the twentieth century fail to stop an explosive increase in trade and consumption of illegal drugs? This study investigates the histories of smugglers and criminal entrepreneurs in the Netherlands who succeeded in turning the country into the so-called 'Colombia of Europe' or, 'the international drug supermarket'. Increasing state regulations and interventions led to the proliferation of a 'hydra' of small, anarchic groups and networks ideally suited to circumvent the enforcement of regulation. Networks of smugglers and suppliers of heroin, cocaine, cannabis, XTC, and other drugs were organized without a strict formal hierarchy and based on personal relations and cultural affinities rather than on institutional arrangements. These networks created a thriving underground industry of illegal synthetic drug laboratories and indoor cannabis cultivation in the Netherlands itself. Their operations were made possible and developed because of the deep historical social and cultural 'embeddedness' of criminal anarchy in Dutch society. Using examples from the rich history of drug smuggling, Drug smuggler nation investigates the deeper and hidden grounds of the illegal drug trade, and its effects on our drug policies.

Neoliberalism and Global Cinema Jyotsna Kapur,Keith B. Wagner,2011-05-09 In cinema studies today, rarely do we find a direct investigation into the culture of capitalism and how it has been refracted and fabricated in global cinema production under neoliberalism. However, the current economic crisis and the subsequent Wall Street bailout in 2008 have brought about a worldwide skepticism regarding the last four decades of economic restructuring and the culture that has accompanied it. In this edited volume, an international ensemble of scholars looks at neoliberalism, both as culture and political economy, in the various cinemas of the world. In essays encompassing the cinemas of Asia, Africa, Latin America, Europe, and the United States the authors outline how the culture and subjectivities engendered by neoliberalism have been variously performed, contested, and reinforced in these cinemas. The premise of this book is that the cultural and economic logic of neoliberalism, i.e., the radical financialization and market-driven calculations, of all facets of society are symptoms best understood by Marxist theory and its analysis of the central antagonisms and contradictions of capital. Taking a variety of approaches, ranging from political economy, ideological critique, the intersection of aesthetics and politics, social history and critical-cultural theory, this volume offers a fresh, broad-based Marxist analysis of contemporary film/media. Topics include: the global albeit antagonistic nature of neoliberal culture; the search for a new aesthetic and documentary language; the contestation between labor and capital in cultural production; the political economy of hollywood, and questions of gender, sexuality, and the nation state in relation to neoliberalism.

The Creation of Wing Chun Benjamin N. Judkins,Jon Nielson,2015-07-21 Looks at southern Chinese martial arts traditions and how they have become important to local identity and narratives of resistance. This book explores the social history of southern Chinese martial arts and their contemporary importance to local identity and narratives of resistance. Hong Kong's Bruce Lee ushered the Chinese martial arts onto an international stage in the 1970s. Lee's teacher, Ip Man, master of Wing Chun Kung Fu, has recently emerged as a highly visible symbol of southern Chinese identity and pride. Benjamin N. Judkins and Jon Nielson examine the emergence of Wing Chun to reveal how this body of social practices developed and why individuals continue to turn to the martial arts as they navigate the challenges of a rapidly evolving environment. After surveying the development of hand combat traditions in Guangdong Province from roughly the start of the nineteenth century until 1949, the authors turn to Wing Chun, noting its development, the changing social attitudes towards this practice over time, and its ultimate emergence as a global art form.
