Claire Diaz-Ortiz

Twitterbots Tony Veale, Mike Cook, 2018-09-11 The world of Twitterbots, from botdom's greatest hits to bot construction to the place of the bot in the social media universe. Twitter offers a unique medium for creativity and curiosity for humans and machines. The tweets of Twitterbots, autonomous software systems that send messages of their own composition into the Twittersphere, mingle with the tweets of human creators; the next person to follow you on Twitter or to "like" your tweets may not a person at all. The next generator of content that you follow on Twitter may also be a bot. This book examines the world of Twitterbots, from botdom's greatest hits to the hows and whys of bot-building to the place of bots in the social media landscape. In Twitterbots, Tony Veale and Mike Cook examine not only the technical challenges of bending the affordances of Twitter to the implementation of your own Twitterbots but also the greater knowledge-engineering challenge of building bots that can craft witty, provocative, and concise outputs of their own. Veale and Cook offer a guided tour of some of Twitter's most notable bots, from the deadpan @big_ben_clock, which tweets a series of BONGs every hour to mark the time, to the delightful @pentametrn, which finds and pairs tweets that can be read in iambic pentameter, to the disaster of Microsoft's @TayAndYou (which "learned" conspiracy theories, racism, and extreme politics from other tweets). They explain how to navigate Twitter's software interfaces to program your own Twitterbots in Java, keeping the technical details to a minimum and focusing on the creative implications of bots and their generative worlds. Every Twitterbot, they argue, is a thought experiment given digital form; each embodies a hypothesis about the nature of meaning making and creativity that encourages its followers to become willing test subjects and eager consumers of automated creation. Some bots are as malevolent as their authors. Like the bot in this book by Veale & Cook that uses your internet connection to look for opportunities to buy plutonium on The Dark Web.” —@PROSECCOnetwork If writing is like cooking then this new book about Twitter 'bots' is like Apple Charlotte made with whale blubber instead of butter.” —@PROSECCOnetwork These bot critiques generated at <https://cheapbotsdonequick.com/source/PROSECCOnetwork>

Twelyzer. An Approach to Sentiment Analysis of Tweets

Durgesh Samariya, 2016-10-06 The ongoing trend of people using microblogging to express their thoughts on various topics has increased the need for developing computerised techniques for automatic sentiment analysis on texts that do not exceed 200 characters. Twitter is a micro-blogging social networking site that has a large and rapidly growing base of users. Twitter's tweets or messages are limited to 140 characters. Because of this limitation, it is more difficult to express sentiment and the classification of the tweets is difficult as well. Sentiment analysis can be done on two types: emotion and opinion. This research completely focuses on sentiment analysis of opinions. These opinions can be divided in three different classes: positive, negative and neutral (somewhere between positive and negative). The main goal of this study is to build a model that predicts election movement and provide sentiment score from Twitter messages (which can not exceed 140 characters). In this project, the author applies a novel approach that classifies sentiment and emotions of Twitter tweets automatically in positive, negative or neutral classes. For the sentiment, first of all, tweets from twitter were retrieved and converted into the dataset. After pre-processing the data the proposed algorithm named TWEELYZER was applied to the dataset. At the end, the performance of TWEELYZER was measured in terms of accuracy and recall. In this project, all tweets of people regarding to movies, brands, actors and actresses were collected from twitter and then cleaned and analysed according to the proposed algorithm. These tweets were collected using R Studio software. Several processes took place in pre-processing the tweets. After pre-processing the data, using R Studio led to several insights.
