Mobile Cartography Tumasch Reichenbacher,2004 It established new concepts for mobile cartography and showed the differences, but also the similarities towards traditional cartography and web cartography. The main focus is on the elaboration of adaptive methods for visualisation of geographic information for mobile usage, i.e. on mobile devices. Adaptation takes place in the components such as the mobile user, his/her activities with associated goals, as well as the situation they are placed in. The usage scenarios described were helpful for the implementation of a rudimentary, prototypical adaptive geovisualisation service for mobile users. The service for the example of point symbol maps was implemented based on open-standard formats and served as a proof of concept. It basically demonstrates how a mobile client can send as Simple Object Access Protocol (SOAP) encoded context parameters to a web service attract researchers around the world. This volume contains the papers presented at Computer Graphics International 2002, in July, at the University of Bradford, UK. Digital Content Creation Rae Earnshaw, John Vince, 2012-12-06 The very word digital has acquired a status that far exceeds its humble dictionary definition. Even the prefix digital, when associated with familiar sectors such as radio, television, photography and telecommunications, has reinvented these industries, and provided a unique opportunity to refresh them with new start-up companies, equipment, personnel, training and working practices - all of which are vital to modern national and international economies. The last century was a period in which new media stimulated new job opportunities, and in many cases created totally new sectors: video competed with film, CDs transformed LPs, and computer graphics threatened traditional graphic design sectors. Today, even the need for a physical medium is in question. The virtual digital domain allows the capture, processing, transmission, storage, retrieval and display of text, images, audio and animation without familiar materials such as paper, celluloid, magnetic tape and plastic. But moving from these media to the digital domain introduces all sorts of problems, such as the conversion of analog archives, multimedia databases, content-based retrieval and the design of new content that exploits the benefits offered by digital systems. It is this issue of digital content creation that we address in this book. Authors from around the world were invited to comment on different aspects of digital content creation, and their contributions form the 23 chapters of this volume.

Software Quality - ECSQ 2002 Jyrki Kontio, Reidar Conradi, 2003-08-01 Software professionals and companies live in a new world today. Increasingly complex systems need to be built faster and cheaper. While many of the established approaches in software quality are still valid, the software quality community is going through a paradigm shift that requires a re-assessment of our current method and tool portfolio, as well as creating new and more effective solutions. We have selected two themes for this conference to highlight this paradigm shift. Our first theme, "production of attractive and reliable software at Internet speed" sums up the dilemma many software organisations face. In order to be competitive, software should contain advanced features and run reliably – yet it should be developed quickly and cost effectively for the right market window. Finding the right balance between these objectives is a critical question that will determine business success in the years to come. Our second theme, "production of software with a dynamic partnership n- work" highlights the current trend of using partnerships and subcontractors as integral players in the software development process. Partnerships sometimes need to be created quickly to respond to a market opportunity, yet the costs and speed of cooperation must be competitive. Different companies have different processes, quality tools and cultures, yet they should cooperate seamlessly for the best result.
