Non-G-10 Countries and the Basle Capital Rules

Ms.Claudia Helene Dziobek,Mr.Olivier Frecaut,Ms.María Nieto,1995-03-01 The 1988 Basle Capital Accord has introduced the norm of a risk-based capital ratio of 8 percent. It was negotiated among the G-10 countries to strengthen their international banks' capital base while simultaneously levelling the playing field for competition. Since 1988, a large number of non-G-10 countries, although not members of the "Basle Club," have introduced similar risk-based capital ratios, hoping to achieve similar effects in terms of enhanced safety and competition in their banking markets. This paper explains why the endeavor failed in most cases and discusses what the required conditions would be for effective implementation of the Basle rules beyond the G-10 countries.

The Basle Express Manning

Coles,2023-04-12T00:00:00Z British Intelligence agent Tommy Hambledon had the mistaken notion when he arrived at Innsbruck that he had left behind all connections with Herr Bastien, who had been shot in the railway compartment they shared on the Anglo-Swiss Express. But when he was commanded by a belligerent Austrian taxi driver to disrobe, and then forced at gunpoint to hike barefoot over the Alps, Hambledon ruefully decided that his vacation was over.
