Reproduction and Its Discontents in Mexico Nora E. Jaffary, 2016-10-13 In this history of childbirth and contraception in Mexico, Nora E. Jaffary chronicles colonial and nineteenth-century beliefs and practices surrounding conception, pregnancy and its prevention, and birth. Tracking Mexico's transition from colony to nation, Jaffary demonstrates the central role of reproduction in ideas about female sexuality and virtue, the development of modern Mexico, and the growth of modern medicine in the Latin American context. The story encompasses networks of people in all parts of society, from state and medical authorities to mothers and midwives, husbands and lovers, employers and neighbors. Jaffary focuses on key topics including virginity, conception, contraception and abortion, infanticide, monstrous births, and obstetrical medicine. Her approach yields surprising insights into the emergence of modernity in Mexico. Over the course of the nineteenth century, for example, expectations of idealized womanhood and female sexual virtue gained rather than lost importance. In addition, rather than being obliterated by European medical practice, features of pre-Columbian obstetrical knowledge, especially of abortifacients, circulated among the Mexican public throughout the period under study. Jaffary details how, across time, localized contexts shaped the changing history of reproduction, contraception, and maternity.

Do negro, a história de sua escravidão, de escravo de ganho e de aluguel, de submissão da mulher negra ao patrão, que a tinha como mulher e objeto de consumo. Escravizadas que formaram casais. Na verdade, mães de muitos filhos que integrariam uma sociedade futura na região. Jerdivan, nesse seu trabalho, vai fundo nas pesquisas de batistérios da Paróquia de Nossa Senhora do Bom Sucesso da Vila do Pinhancó, nossa querida Pombal. Nos comentários desse grande historiador, uma exposição, um verdadeiro documento da origem e ramificações familiares de um povo.
