Coronavirus Disease (COVID-19): Pathophysiology, Epidemiology, Clinical Management and Public Health Response (volume I.B) Zisis Kozlakidis, Denise L. Doolan, Shen-Ying Zhang, Yasuko Tsunetsugu Yokota, Tatsuo Shioda, Rukhsana Ahmed, Mohan Jyoti Dutta, Ata Murat Kaynar, Michael Kogut, Hannah Bradby, Slobodan Paessler, Alex Rodriguez-Palacios, Alexis M. Kalergis, Longxiang Su, Abdallah Samy, Zhongheng Zhang, 2023-04-25 Volume I.B An outbreak of a respiratory disease first reported in Wuhan, China in December 2019 and the causative agent was discovered in January 2020 to be a novel betacoronavirus of the same subgenus as SARS-CoV and named severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2). Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) has rapidly disseminated worldwide, with clinical manifestations ranging from mild respiratory symptoms to severe pneumonia and a fatality rate estimated around 2%. Person to person transmission is occurring both in the community and healthcare settings. The World Health Organization (WHO) has recently declared the COVID-19 epidemic a public health emergency of international concern. The ongoing outbreak presents many clinical and public health management challenges due to limited understanding of viral pathogenesis, risk factors for infection, natural history of disease including clinical presentation and outcomes, prognostic factors for severe illness, period of infectivity, modes and extent of virus inter-human transmission, as well as effective preventive measures and public health response and containment interventions. There are no antiviral treatment nor vaccine available but fast track research and development efforts including clinical therapeutic trials are ongoing across the world. Managing this serious epidemic requires the appropriate deployment of limited human resources across all cadres of health care and public health staff, including clinical, laboratory, managerial and epidemiological data analysis and risk assessment experts. It presents challenges around public communication and messaging around risk, with the potential for misinformation and disinformation. Therefore, integrated operational research and intervention, learning from experiences across different fields and settings should contribute towards better understanding and managing COVID-19. This Research Topic aims to highlight interdisciplinary research approaches deployed during the COVID-19 epidemic, addressing knowledge gaps and generating evidence for its improved management and control. It will incorporate critical, theoretically informed and empirically grounded original research contributions using diverse approaches, experimental, observational and intervention studies, conceptual framing, expert opinions and reviews from across the world. The Research Topic proposes a multi-dimensional approach to improving the management of COVID-19 with scientific contributions from all areas of virology, immunology, clinical microbiology, epidemiology, therapeutics, communications as well as infection prevention and public health risk assessment and management studies.

Parameterized and Exact Computation Frank Dehne, Rod Downey, Michael Fellows, 2004-10-14
The central challenge of theoretical computer science is to deploy mathematics in ways that serve the creation of useful algorithms. In recent years there has been a growing interest in the two-dimensional framework of parameterized complexity, where, in addition to the overall input size, one also considers a parameter, with a focus on how these two dimensions interact in problem complexity. This book presents the proceedings of the 1st International Workshop on Parameterized and Exact Computation (IWPEC 2004, <http://www.iwpec.org>), which took place in Bergen, Norway, on September 14-16, 2004. The workshop was organized as part of ALGO 2004. There were seven previous workshops on the theory and applications of parameterized complexity. The first was organized at the Institute for the Mathematical Sciences in Chennai, India, in September, 2000. The second was held at Dagstuhl Castle, Germany, in July, 2001. In December, 2002, a workshop on parameterized complexity was held in conjunction with the FST-TCS meeting in Kanpur, India. A second Dagstuhl workshop on parameterized complexity was held in July, 2003. Another workshop on the subject was held in Ottawa, Canada, in August, 2003, in conjunction with the WADS 2003 meeting. There have also been two Barbados workshops on applications of parameterized complexity. In response to the IWPEC 2004 call for papers, 47 papers were submitted, and from these the program committee selected 25 for presentation at the workshop. In addition, invited lectures were accepted by the distinguished researchers Michael Langston and Gerhard Woeginger.

DIY Homemade Face Cover for Beginners Bob Marsh, 2020-05-03 Are you interested in knowing how to make a face mask by yourself, with the use of cheap and affordable materials in your home? The guide in this book contains all you need to know about making your homemade medical face mask. Medical face masks are majorly used to avoid or reduce the risk of bacterial contamination or virus transmission or possible infections that can be transmitted through the air. The face mask helps to protect one from external pathogens. This is done by blocking some of the droplets that people secrete into the environment when they sneeze, talk, and cough. The medical face masks give adequate protection against dust, bacteria, viruses, and other pollutants that are suspended in the air. By using face masks, it is possible to avoid infection with various diseases that transmit airborne droplets. You will learn all the things you need to know about the medical face mask, as well as essential tips to protect yourself and your family against infection disease germs and bacteria. Graph-Theoretic Concepts in Computer Science Ludek Kucera, 2003-07-01 The 28th International Workshop on Graph-Theoretic Concepts in Computer Science (WG 2002) was held in Cesky Krumlov, a beautiful small town in the southern part of the Czech Republic on the river Vltava (Moldau), June 13–15, 2002. The workshop was organized by the Department of Applied Mathematics of the Faculty of Mathematics and Physics of Charles University in Prague. Since 1975, WG has taken place in Germany 20 times, twice in Austria and The Netherlands, and once in Italy, Slovakia, and Switzerland. As in previous years, the workshop aimed at uniting theory and practice by demonstrating how graph-theoretic concepts can be applied to various areas in Computer Science, or by extracting new problems from applications. The workshop was devoted to the theoretical and practical aspects of graph concepts in computer science, and its contributed talks showed how recent research results from algorithmic graph theory can be used in computer science and which graph-theoretic questions arise from new developments in computer science. Altogether 61 research papers were submitted and reviewed by the program committee. The program committee represented the wide scientific spectrum, and in a careful reviewing process with four reports per submission it selected 36 papers for presentation at the workshop. Therefore the referees' comments as well as the numerous fruitful discussions during the workshop have been taken into account by the authors of these conference proceedings.

Graph-Theoretic Concepts in Computer Science Hajo Broersma,Thomas Erlebach,Tom Friedetzky,Daniel Paulusma,2008-12-05 The 34th International Workshop on Graph-Theoretic Concepts in Computer Science (WG 2008) took place in Van Mildert College at Durham University, UK, 30 June – 2 July 2008. The approximately 80 participants came from various countries all over the world, among them Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Czech Republic, France, Greece, Hungary,Israel, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Spain, Switzerland, UK and the USA. WG 2008 continued the series of 33 previous WG conferences. Since 1975, the WG conference has taken place 21 times in Germany, four times in The Netherlands, twice in Austria as well as once in Italy, Slovakia, Switzerland, the Czech Republic, France, Norway and now in the UK. The WG conference traditionally aims at uniting theory and practice by demonstrating how graph-theoretic concepts can be applied to various areas in computer science, or by extracting new problems from applications. The goal is to present recent research results and to identify and explore directions of future research. The continuing interest in the WG conferences was reflected in the number and quality of submissions; 76 papers were submitted and in an evaluation process with four reports per submission, 30 papers were accepted by the Program Committee for the conference. Due to the high number of submissions and the limited schedule of 3 days, various good papers could not be accepted. There were excellent invited talks by Giuseppe Di Battista (Università Roma Tre, Italy) on algorithmic aspects of (un)-stable routing in the Internet, by Leszek Gąsieniec (University of Liverpool, UK) on memory-efficient graph exploration, and by Martin Grohe (Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, Germany) on algorithmic meta theorems.

Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning Methods in COVID-19 and Related Health Diseases Victor Chang,Harleen Kaur,Simon James Fong,2022-06-28 This Springer book provides a perfect platform to submit chapters that discuss the prospective developments and innovative ideas in artificial intelligence and machine learning techniques in the diagnosis of COVID-19. COVID-19 is a huge challenge to humanity and the medical sciences. So far as of today, we have been unable to find a medical solution (Vaccine). However, globally, we are still managing the use of technology for our work, communications, analytics, and predictions with the use of advancement in data science, communication technologies (5G & Internet), and AI. Therefore, we might be able to continue and live safely with the use of research in advancements in data science, AI, machine learning, mobile apps, etc., until we can find a medical solution such as a vaccine. We have selected eleven chapters after the vigorous review process. Each chapter has demonstrated the research contributions and research novelty. Each group of authors must fulfill strict requirements.
