The game has stood the test of time, from popularity in 14th century Iceland, played throughout the Shakespearian era and on French Sailing ships in the 1600s. The game has been appraised for its simplicity, requiring only six dice and a tracking board. The result: a ton of fun! Dice game is one of the oldest games known to mankind. Archeologists believe that as early as 5000 years ago, dice game was played using fragments of real animal bones that were thrown to the ground and read from their arrangement.
