How Money Walks - How $2 Trillion Moved Between the States, and Why It Matters Travis H. Brown, 2013 Between 1995 and 2010, millions of Americans moved between the states, taking with them over $2 trillion in adjusted gross incomes. Two trillion dollars is equivalent to the GDP of California, the ninth largest in the world. It's a lot of money. Some states, like Florida, saw tremendous gains ($86.4 billion), while others, like New York, experienced massive losses ($58.6 billion). People moved, and they took their working wealth with them. The question is, why? Why did Americans move so much of their income from state to state? Which states benefitted and which states suffered? And why does it matter? Using official statistics from the IRS, How Money Walks explores the hows, whys, and impact of this massive movement of American working wealth. Consider these facts. Between 1995 and 2010: The nine states with no personal income taxes gained $146.2 billion in working wealth The nine states with the highest personal income tax rates lost $107.4 billion The 10 states with the lowest per capita state-local tax burdens gained $69.9 billion The 10 states with the highest per capita statelocal tax burdens lost $139 billion Money—and people—moved from high-tax states to low-tax ones. And the tax that seemed to matter the most? The personal income tax. The states with no income taxes gained the greatest wealth, while the states with the highest income taxes lost the most. Why does this matter? Because the robust presence of working wealth is the leading indicator of economic health. The states that gained working wealth are growing and thriving. The states that lost working wealth lost their most precious cargo—their tax base—and the consequences are dire: stagnation, deterioration, an economic death spiral as they continue to raise taxes

Money-Saving Homes Marius Smook,2017-03-22 Who wants to spend thirty years paying off a home loan when that time can be reduced by many years, thereby saving thousands of dollars in the process? LEED AP (Homes), Real Estate EcoBroker and Money-Saving Home Consultant, Marius Smook, shows how you can do this by making money-saving choices for optional features and appliances when buying a new home. Smook describes each money-saving home feature choice that a new home buyer is presented with, the potential savings that each choice can realize, and how those savings can be used to reduce a mortgage loan term when added to the monthly loan repayments. For those who make the right choices and can manage the savings appropriately, the result can be saving many thousands of mortgage interest dollars while also enjoying the benefits of living in a more comfortable home that has greater value and can resell for more - and all of this while benefiting the environment at the same time. Free of technical jargon and complicated financial concepts, this book is an easy read for the non-technical and non-financially savvy, as well as a new perspective for experts in either field. For any home buyer or current homeowner who does not relish the idea of being shackled to a financial institution for thirty years, this book is a unique resource to support their efforts to save money and achieve financial freedom.

How To Save Money Buying A House The Hyperink

Team, 2012-02-08 ABOUT THE BOOK Owning your own home is a significant achievement that not only provides you with shelter and security, but brings great satisfaction and happiness. For most people a house purchase is the largest investment they will ever make, a financial commitment that will last many years. Looking for ways to save money up front will make it easier to keep up with mortgage payments in case of unexpected financial setbacks. Saving money is not the same thing as buying cheap. Poorly-constructed homes with shoddy workmanship may sell at a lower price, but any savings are lost when the homeowner has to start repairing or replacing things. Buying a cheap house that will not appreciate in value over time is also false economy. It's important to like the house you buy, and simply choosing based on price won't accomplish that. The best way to save money on a house purchase is to plan thoroughly in advance. Do your research, and you can save a ton of money buying a house.. MEET THE AUTHOR The Hyperink Team works hard to bring you high-quality, engaging, fun content. If ever you have any questions about our products, or suggestions for how we can make them better, please don't hesitate to contact us! Happy reading! EXCERPT FROM THE BOOK While your ultimate goal is to buy a home you like in a neighborhood that suits you and your family, you also want this significant investment to retain its value. Buying in the suburbs will save you money, but resale value and equity growth in neighborhoods outside the city may be much lower than at the city center. Take time to educate yourself on the housing market. Learn what adds value (i.e., location near schools, a second bathroom) and what things are pricey perks (i.e., a swimming pool, marble flooring). Gain an understanding of the relationship between house and neighborhood. A extensively renovated and customized house priced at $500,000 in a neighborhood where the average selling price is $250,000 may actually represent poorer dollar value than the same house in a neighborhood where all houses average $500,000. Know what you want. Is a single-family detached house the best option, or would you prefer a condominium? If your lifestyle doesn't require a backyard, save money by purchasing an apartment instead. Housing cooperatives are another money-saving option people may not be aware of. Do you want a brand new house? You may need to look in areas outside the city core, but new home builders offer deals and incentives that can really lower the cost. Do your research and talk to people about their homes. Ask questions. What is the upside and downside of owning a condominium or townhouse? How do you enter a housing cooperative? What is involved in owning a house with a yard? Are there hidden costs to be aware of that may cost more in the long run? Buy a copy to continue reading!

The Smart First-Time Home Buying Guide Thomas. K.

Lutz, 2019-04-17 Home Prices Are Too High Buying a home is the pinnacle of adulthood, but as we all aware, home ownership isn't exactly easy to navigate, especially for younger folks. Unless you're completely debt-free, get help from parents, and disciplined enough to live below your means to save money, buying your first home in the future can seem more like a fantasy than an actual possibility. In The Smart First Time Home Buying Guide, we will be mainly focus on why and how to save up our money to have the down payment for our first home purchase, so we can be prepared when there is a home buying opportunity in the future. What is a Downpayment? A down payment is a big sum of money you need when buying a home. You may borrow money from the bank in the form of a home loan or mortgage, but a portion of the total cost must come directly from you. The down payment acts as an insurance of sorts for your lender. It is Not just About HOW to Save, But WHY You Should Save As we all know, there's a correlation between inflation and home prices. If we don't save up now, the global home price will slowly keep going up. Now is the time to be prepared and save up, so when there's home price correction underway, you will have the purchasing power to own a home. The truth is that we all know how to save, but most of us are not aware of the reason why we need to save and that becomes problematic. In this book, we will go in depth on this topic. We will also be sharing unique ways to save up for a down payment and ways to save a lot faster than an average person. This is What You are About to Discover.. ✓ Why is Saving so Important in General? ✓ Why is it Important to Own Your Home, Rather Than Rent? ✓ Budgeting and Keeping Track of Your Spending ✓ Extreme Ways to Save Fast ✓ The Important Things You Should Know Before Buying a Home Would You Like To Know More? --Don't Gamble on the Future--Download now and Learn The Quickest ways to Save! Energized Home Efficient Ideas April a Andrews, 2023-04-02 Making a few small changes can have a huge impact on your home, whether your goal is to save a few dollars on your gas bill or find a better way to fuel your house overall. Many people will be shocked to learn that they can lose up to 25% or more of the energy in their home without having to, so why bother with cost efficiency when you can pay the bills? Your money might be wasted. The good news is that improving your home's energy efficiency doesn't have to be particularly difficult. Additionally, it does not have to be excessively expensive. Some home improvements will be reasonably expensive to put into effect. These are typically the factors that must be taken into account if you want to save a lot of money. You can improve your home's ability to use energy more wisely in just about every way you can think of, as you will see in this e-book. But in the first few chapters, we must consider whether making the change is worthwhile. There are some goods and businesses that make claims that you will save a lot of money, but you end up investing a lot and don't end up saving anything. The best course of action for anyone looking to increase their home's capacity to use energy wisely is to take a good look at what the product or need is, how it is used, the cost of the product, the cost of the installation, and then determine if it has the potential to make up those funds through energy savings. Many people won't. And others will. You will discover actions you can take right away to increase the energy efficiency of your home throughout this e-book. Additionally, you'll learn various strategies for cutting costs on your basic needs. Your home will be more energyefficient and environmentally friendly, and you'll find yourself saving money.
