Life and Death in Changi Tom Kitching, 2002 Englishman Thomas Kitching died, aged 54, in Changi Prison in April 1944. Interned by the Japanese in 1942, Kitching, who was the Chief Surveyor of Singapore, faithfully kept a diary from December 1941.

The Changi Book Lachlan Grant, 2015-08-01 The story of Changi, told by those who lived through it. In the tradition of The Anzac Book comes this fascinating collection of accounts of life in the notorious Changi prison camp. Changi is synonymous with suffering, hardship and the Australian prisoner-of-war experience in WWII. It is also a story of ingenuity, resourcefulness and survival. Containing essays, cartoons, paintings, and photographs created by prisoners of war, The Changi Book provides a unique view of the camp: life-saving medical innovation, machinery and tools created from spare parts and scrap, black-market dealings, sport and gambling, theatre productions, and the creation of a library and university. Seventy years after its planned publication, material for The Changi Book was rediscovered in the Australian War Memorial archives. It appears here for the first time along with insights from the Memorial's experts. 'A moving insiders' account of life in Changi.' —Peter FitzSimons 'A fresh perspective on Changi: illuminating stories from the inside.' —Les Carlyon

Dear Philip Freddy Bloom, 1980 When Singapore fell to the Japanese on 15 February 1942 a young American newspaper woman and her husband were taken prisoner. They had been married just nine days before, on her twenty-eighth birthday. As a British doctor serving with the Royal Army Medical Corps he was sent to the military prisoner-of-war camp at Changi. She was interned in the Changi women's civilian prison. The two of them were separated for the next three and a half years and during that time she kept a diary in the form of a letter to her husband Philip. He read it only when they were at last united. The it was put away with other family papers until it came to light some thirty-five years later. 'Dear Philip' is a touching account of one young woman's war spent mainly in overcrowded and sometimes extremely uncomfortable conditions with over four hundred other women. For five months Freddy Bloom was put into a cell in the infamous Kempe-Tai Interrogation Headquarters with fifteen men who were being systematically tortured for information that would convict their colleagues. She survived and returned to the camp to continue her love letter to Philip. Much has been written about men's suffering and survival in the Second World War. Not much about women's. 'Dear Philip' is a love story with a difference - and a war story too, but one devoid of blood and thunder, full of love and quiet determination. -- dust jacket.

Diary of a Girl in Changi, 1941-45 Sheila Allan,1994 A wartime diary kept by a 17-year-old woman (of Australian and Malaysian descent) imprisoned during World War II. Sheila Bruhn's account is a woman's view of war and the Japanese occupation of Malaysia.

Messing With Your Mind Ian Burns,2018-02 Four women murderers? Can you carry two contradictory thoughts in your mind at the same time and still tie your shoelaces? What about three, four, five, six...? What would you do for $20 million? $60 million? Does doing something good justify doing something bad? Was the vastly experienced and decorated detective really responsible? Can you work it out? Is there a plot or is it a plot? Is it possible to work it out? When everything comes together and is fully explained, will you know what happened? Or will you find that have you a bout of Depersonalisation Disorder? Cognitive dissonance... Dammit. Why don't you just ignore all this ?

relax, open your autobiography of Sigmund Freud and let me mess with your mind?

Stories From Somewhere Ian Burns, 2018-06-25 An anthology of stories, written between 1984 and 2017. Where do they come from? They must come from somewhere, and these certainly do. From outback Australia, from England, from France, Malaya, Singapore, Thailand... From the past...drama and farce; fantasy and stark reality; the deeply personal and the absolutely frivolous. Childhood escapades. ...and more...

The Last Sunrise Robert Ryan, 2014-03-25 The real history of World War II's most daring fighter squadron is the inspiration for this riveting novel of adventure and romance in the Far East. Three years after the liberation of Singapore, transport pilot Lee Crane is finally ready to leave. The Berlin airlift is on, and there's decent money to be made if you possess both your own plane and a practiced disregard for safety. One last drink with his Indo-Air fly buddies at the Long Bar in Raffles hotel and Crane is gone. Then he sees her: the tall, beautiful redhead he had every reason to believe was dead. If Elsa is alive—and still angry, judging by the sock to the jaw she greets him with—what else might Crane have gotten wrong about the past? In 1941, Lee Crane was a Flying Tiger, one of dozens of American pilots recruited to join the Chinese Air Force in the fight against the Japanese. Wild in the air and on the ground, the Tigers broke hearts all over Burma, and Crane was no different—until he fell in love with a stunning Anglo-Indian widow. But in the chaos of war, Crane lost track of the woman of his dreams, and spent the next seven years convincing himself it wasn't meant to be. Now a chance encounter with another long-lost beauty has him ready to plunge back into the past, praying he will come up with a different answer this time. The Last Sunrise is the 2nd book in the Post-War Trilogy, which also includes After Midnight and Dying Day.

The Post-War Trilogy Robert Ryan, 2018-10-30 Three post-World War II adventure novels

inspired by real events—from an acclaimed British author who “skillfully blends fact with fiction” (Time Out London). After Midnight: Ryan’s novel, based on a true story, begins with a letter from Australian bomber pilot Bill Carr to his daughter on her first birthday in 1944. That same day, he takes off on a mission over the mountains of Northern Italy and is never heard from again. Twenty years later, Lindy Carr arrives in Italy to find out what happened to her father. Her guide is Jack Kirby, a daredevil motorcycle racer and pilot who flew Mosquito fighters in the war and spent time among the Italian partisans. What Jack and Lindy uncover in the Italian Alps will change both their lives forever. “Ryan’s mastery of 1940s detail and his ability to discover intriguing but unvisited byways of the war can be taken for granted; but the more recent storyline shows him equally adept at handling a 1960s setting.” —The Sunday Times

Ryan’s research is impressive. . . . Bold and successful.” —The Sunday Times

Dying Day: In this Cold War spy thriller based on actual case files, a woman is willing to do whatever it takes to bring her sister home. In the darkest days of World War II, Laura McGill and her sister, Diana, ventured behind enemy lines on behalf of Britain’s Special Operations Executive. Now it is 1948, four years since Diana disappeared inside occupied

France, and Laura has reached a point of desperation that leads her to kidnap the head clerk of the SOE at gunpoint to learn the name of the spy who ran her sister's last mission. That spy, James Hadley Webb, will take Laura to the divided city of Berlin, where he is waging a shadow war of influence and intrigue—and losing. Laura's arrival may be just what Webb needs to stop his agents from dying. "Thrilling post war espionage action." —Tatler

Clash Nirmalya Kumar, 2024-03-15 Amazon and Walmart, with more than half a trillion in revenues annually, are the two largest companies in the world. They have not only redefined the retail industry—Walmart in the 1980s/1990s and Amazon since 2000—but have also been the benchmark for business best practices (e.g., the use of IT, supply chain, data analytics, customer orientation). This year, it is anticipated that Amazon will dethrone Walmart as the world's largest company, a position that Walmart has occupied for more than two decades. By examining these two companies and their business models in depth, Professor Nirmalya Kumar elucidates on the more general phenomenon of incumbents competing with disruptors (e.g., Volkswagen vs Tesla, Marriott vs Airbnb) as well as the move to omnichannel retail where physical stores must coexist with online retailers.
