On-Camera Flash ,2015-10-19 Photographers are always looking for perfect light. Unfortunately, the quality of available light, and the situations in which photos are created, are rarely perfect. This is especially true when photographing weddings or portraits on location. So while finding beautiful existing light is every photographer's ideal, it isn't always possible. This is the point at which photographers tend to reach for a portable, on-camera flash. Indeed, these intense light sources can prove invaluable, but only if you know how to use them effectively. In the hands of an inexperienced photographer, on-camera flash will produce images that look flat and lifeless—images with harsh shadows, washed-out skin tones, cavernous black backgrounds, and other unappealing visual characteristics. In this book, acclaimed wedding and portrait photographer Neil van Niekerk shows you how to avoid the pitfalls photographers new to speedlights often encounter so that you can produce professional images using on-camera flash. You'll learn to use simple accessories to manipulate the quality of light from your flash and how to improve a lighting scenario by enhancing rather than overwhelming the existing light. When the available light is too low and too uneven to be combined with flash, he shows you how to override it completely with flash and, with some thought and careful application of specialized techniques, still get results that look great. On-camera flash is one of the most challenging light sources to master, but with the techniques in this book you'll learn to use it with confidence. For wedding and environmental portrait photographers who must work in ever-changing lighting scenarios, this can mean better images and better sales.

Great on Camera Larry Becker, 2020-04-13 7 Undeniable Truths... People do business with people or companies they know, like, and trust. The best way to connect with someone and build trust, is in person. And when that's not an option, the second best way to connect and build trust is with video. Online videos have exponentially more engagement than pictures and written text. Videos are used by companies of every size. Consumers expect/demand video. Most people are uncomfortable being on camera. There are countless ways to be bad on camera and most people make mistakes they don't even realize. There's no question that everyone in business, from Fortune 100 companies to solopreneurs, can leverage video to connect better with your target market, as well as existing customers. The problem is that most people aren't comfortable being on camera. Then an even bigger problem is that, once people come to grips with the fact that they have to be on camera, most people make mistakes that send the wrong message to the viewer. And the crazy part is that they have no idea they're sending a negative message on camera. Great On Camera is all about understanding everything you need to know so you can be your best on camera, connect with your target market, build trust, and make sales.
