Dictionary of Pharmaceutical Medicine Gerhard Nahler, 2017-03-17 This dictionary defines various terms typically used in pharmaceutical medicine. A new, 4th edition includes adaptations of the text to the steadily increasing regulatory requirements, particularly in the area of genetics/gene therapy, product quality (e.g., protection against falsified medicines) and of product safety (pharmacovigilance). Further evolving areas that are covered by the 4th edition are typical “grey zones” (health effects often borderline to medicinal products) such as cosmetics and dietary supplements where misleading information is prohibited on one hand but where any health claims need formal authorisation on the other. These but also other areas are reviewed and presented in an updated and – if justified – in an enlarged form.

Dictionary of Pharmacovigilance Amer Alghabban, 2004 Pharmacovigilance is, in essence, the process of monitoring the everyday use of medicines to identify previously unrecognised adverse drug reactions, thereby assessing their risk/benefit balance in order to determine what action, if any, is necessary to improve their safe use. As a discipline, pharmacovigilance impacts on many specialist areas such as pharmacoepidemiology, medical practice, public health, but is most intimately linked to clinical research, development and drug licensing. The discipline along with its operational and legal facets, for both regulatory authorities and pharmaceutical industry, envelop colossal terminology that has precise legal and scientific significance. Such terminology may vary from country to country, or more confusingly, different countries may use identical or similar abbreviations, terms or phrases to mean different entities. The Dictionary of Pharmacovigilance contains a comprehensive list of abbreviations, terms and phrases (in English) giving definitions of commonly (and rarely) encountered pharmacovigilance terms. Examples include: Absolute Risk Increase (ARI), Bayesian Confidence Propagation Neural Network (BCPNN), Confounding Factor, Case narrative, Causality Assessment, Company Core Safety Information (CCSI), Data mining, 15-day report, Rechallenge, Directive 2001/83/EC, EU Birth Date, Expert report, FDA Form 1639, Historical control, Number Needed to Harm, Toxikinetis, Post-Marketing Surveillance, Qualified Person, Source Data Verification (SDV), Spontaneous Reporting, Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS), Warning Letter, Product Withdrawal.

English-Maltese Dictionary of Pharmaceutical and Medical Terms Kirsty Camilleri, 2014 Scientific, medical and pharmaceutical terms present particular difficulties in translations. With the demand to provide Maltese translations for documents required for a registration of a medicinal product within the pharmaceutical regulatory environment, the need to standardise pharmaceutical and medical terms in Maltese was felt. This prompted the research group in Pharmacy Practice at the Department of Pharmacy of the University of Malta to take up a research project to identify terms that are used to describe action and properties of medicines, unwanted effects and pharmaceutical dosage form presentation. In 2003 compilation on an English-Maltese Dictionary of Pharmaceutical and Medical Terms was initiated by Eliza Vella (A to E), continued by Miran Sapiano (F to K) and followed by Ruth Bonnici (L and M). Kirsty Camilleri completed letters N to Z and standardized all the work. This compilation will contribute as a resource for pharmacists, healthcare professionals and individuals who are involved in the preparation of written information in Maltese. It is also useful to the general public to share the use of the terms in Maltese and English. Disseminating patient information about drugs and disease in Maltese supports healthcare professionals in achieving the responsibility of ensuring patient safety through the use of clear and understandable resources.
