Social Media in Southeast Italy Razvan

Nicolescu,2016-10-07 Why is social media in southeast Italy so predictable when it is used by such a range of different people? This book describes the impact of social media on the population of a town in the southern region of Puglia, Italy. Razvan Nicolescu spent 15 months living among the town's residents, exploring what it means to be an individual on social media. Why do people from this region conform on platforms that are designed for personal expression? Nicolescu argues that social media use in this region of the world is related to how people want to portray themselves. He pays special attention to the ability of users to craft their appearance in relation to collective ideals, values and social positions, and how this feature of social media has, for the residents of the town, become a moral obligation: they are expected to be willing to adapt their appearance to suit their different audiences at the same time, which is crucial in a town where religion and family are at the heart of daily life.

Taken on the Same Day As the Other Photo ,2017-10-03

This artist book takes an original set of eighteen photographs that depict the artist's father standing in various locations across a city unbeknown to the viewer and presents them throughout the 100 pages of the artist book. The sequencing and folding of the images play on the temporal state of a photograph, the separation of the image from the place and context it was taken, and the resistance of the photograph to exist as a mnemonic object in the space of this book. This work is neither a narrative nor an account of her father's journey, but draws on relations between conventional photographic language and the potential it has to engage with the non-linear and eclectic presentation of images and our encounter with them.

Valero,2019-02-21 Social media marketing is not traditional marketing. It's the new version of customer service. And if you're an introvert? Chances are you are better at social media marketing than you thought! Social media was created by the most introverted members of our society-computer nerds-to avoid socializing in person. While introverts may be slow to adopt social media, once they do? They love the natural distance that socializing online provides. Best of all? You can do it absolutely alone. Just you, your cat, and a laptop. If you're an introvert who has avoided social media marketing? This guide is for you. It covers everything from getting to know the various platforms to reviewing your current marketing, brainstorming, and sketching out a one-month campaign. You'll find a dozen examples covering a variety of small businesses and nonprofits.

Being in Pictures Joanne Leonard, 2008 “Joanne Leonard will play an important role in the history of 20th-century culture, art, and photo history for her daring and innovative subject matter . . . her complex and multi-layered works address women’s life narratives, twinship, dementia, miscarriage, parenting, and the stages and conditions of female subjectivity.” —Griselda Pollock, University of Leeds Being in Pictures: An Intimate Photo Memoir interweaves the extraordinary photography and collage work of artist Joanne Leonard with personal narrative to reveal the creative possibilities of feminist art. Leonard’s early photographs were largely documentary, capturing scenes from inner-city Oakland and the Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. As her art evolved she began to challenge the boundary between personal and public images, and her work turned to autobiographical and daringly intimate themes, including a failed marriage, a miscarriage, single motherhood, her identity as twin and daughter of a Jewish immigrant, and the problems of aging and memory. Leonard’s evocative and often dreamlike creations reveal “the tensions between realism and idealization, photography and fantasy.” These are pictures that both capture and re-create life in images that are haunting, tender, heartbreaking, and sometimes shocking—but always completely true.
