Wills of Richmond County, Virginia, 1699-1800 Robert Kirk Headley,1983 Richmond County wills are extant only from 1699, but the compiler of this useful work has bridged the gap by substituting information from Order Books, 1692-1699, thereby extending the possibilities for genealogical enquiry. The entries, which consist mainly of abstracts of wills and inventories and refer to about 8,000 persons, are arranged throughout the work in chronological order.

Richmond County and the Seaboard Air Line Railway Stephen Edwin Massengill,Frederick Marchant,C. Vernon Vallance,2005 Richmond County and the Seaboard Air Line Railway presents vintage photographs by talented photographer Frederick Frank Marchant (1872-1942). The images document the bustling railroad town of Hamlet and the county seat of Rockingham in North Carolina during the first quarter of the 20th century. Marchant, a native of Pennsylvania, arrived in Hamlet in the early 1900s. By 1907, he was working as a commercial photographer and as the official picture taker for the railroad company. Marchant developed a keen eye for interesting subjects, and some of his work took on a photojournalistic quality. His photographs, many of which he published as postcards, record rail activity in the Hamlet area, which became the hub of the Seaboard Air Line.

Georgia Free Persons of Color. Volume V: Richmond County, 1799-1863 Michael A. Ports, 2016-08-09 In 1818 the Georgia legislature enacted a law requiring free persons of color to register with the inferior court of the county of their residence. Registers survive for only 21 of Georgia's counties. Many registers include the names, ages, places of birth, residence, time of coming into the state, and occupation of each free person of color

History of Richmond County (Staten Island) New York Richard Mather Bayles, 2017-12-21 Excerpt from History of Richmond County (Staten Island) New York: From Its Discovery to the Present Time The preparation of a history like this involves the employment of a great variety of means, drawing from a multitude of sources. The compiler is frequently obliged to accept the statements of others without knowing upon what data those statements are made. The utter impossibility of any one man being able, during the brief term of one human life, to go to the bottom of every fact stated in a work of this kind must be too apparent to need explanation. There are a hundred ways by which errors may creep in. The editor can but use his best judgment as to the reliability of the authorities upon which he depends for statements, and his constant and most careful vigilance in guarding against erroneous statements. This he has done in the preparation of this work, and that vigilance has been rendered more effective by the experience the editor has had heretofore in the preparation of similar works in other fields.
