Truck Route Planner and Journal Rahmouni K,2019-12-27 Plan Your Trip Trip planning can save money in many waysA professional driver knows the importance of road trip planning. A well planned trip is profitable. It also raises a trucker's comfort level and eases the stress level of the day.Knowing where you're going to stop for meal breaks, fuel and rest, is absolutely imperative.There are all sorts of unexpected events that could occur on the road, but having a plan can make you more prepared. The better you have your trip planned out (driving hours, routes, weather scouting, etc.), the safer your journey will be.  CONSEQUENCES OF NO PLANS FOR A TRIP  Running out of fuel Over fueling before scaling, can cause an overweight issue, adversely affect the driver's schedule No convenient restaurant or truck stop for meals No proper rest area or truck stop parking for the night Not knowing where repair shops are located, or other essential services Potential danger...could end up in unknown, unsafe areas. Could cost the driver money if he takes the wrong route (extra miles) Driving time (hours of service) wasted and money wasted (extra fuel) and potentially late for a delivery Poor planning can damage your driving record. It's not worth the risk.
