Hark the Sound of Tar Heel Voices Daniel W. Barefoot,2008 Hark the Sound of Tar Heel Voices provides 220 years in the very words of the men and women who created and nurtured UNC-Chapel Hill. Perhaps most entertaining are the off-beat narratives from people like the early professor who tried to discipline students for stealing horses and hurling furniture at faculty, the cheerleader responsible for the embarrassing one-time basketball appearance of UNC Rameses, and the future chancellor who didn't graduate on time because he flunked the swimming test. Here for the first time is a collection of personal accounts from the people who transformed a picturesque wooded hill into a world-famous university.

The University of North Carolina, 1900-1930 Louis Round Wilson,1957 The story of the great transition of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from a good small college in 1900 to a full-statured modern state university in 1930, with a solid claim to leadership in southern higher education, is told by a man who was an on-the-spot witness and in many ways a major participant as well. Originally published in 1957. A UNC Press Enduring Edition -- UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print. These editions are published unaltered from the original, and are presented in affordable paperback formats, bringing readers both historical and cultural value.

Long Shot Leah Church,2023-12-05 The chance of playing on any Division 1 college basketball team ... 1.3%. The chance of playing at your dream school ... practically 0%. It was a long shot to say the least. The road to Chapel Hill would begin early in Leah's young life and be comprised of mountain-tops and valleys and sunshines and storms. The journey was one of the highest of highs and lowest of lows. It would be a path that tested, challenged and grew her faith. The path to dreams is often found to have side paths and crossroads with different options. Unforeseen roadblocks can make navigation difficult, often trying your faith and testing your strength. Leah kept going ... and with God made the long shot. You will be encouraged and challenged by her testimony.
