What's Wrong with Microsoft Windows, Word and MSN Derek Kelly,2001-10 What's Wrong with MICROSOFT Windows, Word and MSN is a hard-nosed, no holds barred, critique of a few Microsoft software products by a long-time user. It describes the author's adventures in trying to use these software products for productive work. If you have used any of these products, you are sure to identify with his frustrations and anger. Isn't it time you let Bill Gates and Microsoft know that these products really suck? Wouldn't you someday like to see really user-centered, human-centered software that is a joy to use?

The designer for this series (including The Right Word!) is Paul Kepple, director, Headcase Design, Philadelphia, PA.

What's Your Word Level? ,

What's in a Word-list? Dawn Archer,2016-02-24 The frequency with which particular words are used in a text can tell us something meaningful both about that text and also about its author because their choice of words is seldom random. Focusing on the most frequent lexical items of a number of generated word frequency lists can help us to determine whether all the texts are written by the same author. Alternatively, they might wish to determine whether the most frequent words of a given text (captured by its word frequency list) are suggestive of potentially meaningful patterns that could have been overlooked had the text been read manually. This edited collection brings together cutting-edge research written by leading experts in the field on the construction of word-lists for the analysis of both frequency and keyword usage. Taken together, these papers provide a comprehensive and up-to-date survey of the most exciting research being conducted in this subject.
