Supreme Court Overrules High Court in the Adecco Transfer Pricing Case (trademark Licence Agreement). N. Bjørnholm, 2020 On 25 June 2020, the Danish Supreme Court overruled the High Court and sided with the taxpayer in the Adecco case. The dispute concerned the arm's length nature of trademark royalties paid by Adecco Denmark to the Swiss related intellectual property owner and parent. This article discusses the ruling in more detail and provides some comments on what can be deduced from it.

The Landmark Adecco Decision - a Deterrent Against "cherry Picking"? F.

Henninger, 2020 This case discusses whether royalties charged by Adecco Switzerland to Adecco Denmark for the use of the group's IP in Denmark were at arm's length in light of Danish domestic tax law and the OECD Transfer Pricing Guidelines. However, the case goes beyond mere transfer pricing issues and addresses whether royalties paid to Adecco Switzerland were deductible to the extent that the expense was necessary to generate income in Denmark. The Danish Supreme Court held that there was no basis for the Danish tax authorities' royalty adjustment, thereby setting aside previous rulings of the Danish National Tax Tribunal and High Court.

Sport Development in the United States Peter Smolianov,Dwight Zakus,Joseph Gallo,2014-09-15 The development of both elite, high performance sport and mass participation, grassroots-level sport are central concerns for governments and sports governing bodies. This important new study is the first to closely examine the challenges and opportunities for sports development in the United States, a global sporting giant with a unique, market-driven sporting landscape. Presenting an innovative model of integrated sports development, the book explores the inter-relationship between elite and mass sport across history, drawing on comparative international examples from Australia to the former USSR and Eastern bloc countries. At the heart of the book is an in-depth empirical study of three (traditional and emerging) sports in the US - tennis, soccer and rugby - that offer important lessons on the development of elite sport, methods for increasing participation, and the establishment of new sports in new markets. No other book has attempted to model sports development in the United States in such depth before. Therefore this should be essential reading for all students, researchers, administrators or policy-makers with an interest in sports development, sports management, sports policy, or comparative, international sport studies.

Decent Flexibility Dr Fred C. A. van Haasteren, 2017-07-30 Within the context of social law, temporary agency work has always been subject of debate. The pursuit of more flexible forms of labour is at odds with maintaining decent labour relations. For that reason, ever since it was established, the UN organisation for labour issues, ILO, has focused on private work placement. In its early years it tended to prohibit or severely restrict private work placement, but gradually it came to acknowledge that, for instance, temporary agency work had positive aspects, and that a total ban was pointless. In 1997, this culminated in ILO convention 181, which was widely supported. This did not end the debate on non-standards forms of paid work. Which forms of work can be considered decent? How do they relate to human rights? What are the effects of globalisation? In the European context, too, (cross-border) temporary agency work has attracted extensive attention. Lastly, the Netherlands has its own, unique form of public-private regulation. The guiding principle in this book is whether Convention 181 still has value in this day and age. What are the developments in temporary agency work in the social domain? How do they relate to the wide range of flexible work forms that are increasingly catching up with temporary agency work? Decent flexibility is the challenge. Dr Fred van Haasteren (1949) started his career as a scientific associate at the Society and Enterprise Foundation (SMO). From 1978 onward, he worked in the Dutch temporary agency sector. In 1982 he became a board member of Randstad Nederland; in 1991 he became Vice-President of Randstad Holding. Among other things, he was also President of the platform of European temporary agency employers and of the global temporary agency employer umbrella organisation CIETT. He is still a board member of the Dutch Labour Standards Foundation (SNA) and an independent member of the NCP OECD. The social policy pursued by temporary employment agencies has always been at the centre of his activities.
