Bah Bah for Barbara Craig Biorn,2021-07-22 During the summer of 1957, a teenage girl named Barbara Luhman decides to compete at the County Fair with a 4-H lamb. Determined and competitive, Barbara carefully chooses a lamb, but faces competition and an unexpected surprise from some of her siblings. As the date of the fair draws near, Barbara and her lamb prepare in their quest for a purple ribbon. Based on a true story, 'Bah Bah for Barbara' is a heartfelt story of growing up on a large family farm in Goodhue, Minnesota.

The Big Bah-Ha C. S. E. Cooney,2011-04-01 Beatrice, who only moments ago was the eldest member and leader of the Barka gang, just woke up dead. She was almost, probably, 12. Either the slap rash got her (as it gets everyone over the age of 12) or the Flabberghast got tired of waiting for her to drop dead and took her skin for a door and her bones for his stew. Who can say? What she can say is that she didn't get to wake up in heaven. Instead, she's in the Big Bah-Ha, a place that's supposed to be a comfort to children after they pass on. Only something's very, very wrong here and, despite all her bravery and cunning, she's not quite sure how to fix it, or if she'll survive the afterlife long enough to try. Advance Praise for The Big Bah-Ha Physicists are discovering, to their horror, that future events cast their shadows into the past. If this be so, the fear of clowns so often seen in children may have its origin in this story. It is deep and wise and fabulous, and will leave you shuddering and strangely at peace. You could found a religion on it - or it may found a religion without you. Or found some new thing that humankind has not yet seen. Only God knows what would happen after the founding. As someone (you'll find out who) says deep in the story, 'We're all clowns now.' - Gene Wolfe, multiple award winner and author of The Sorcerer's House C.S.E. Cooney is a remarkable young writer whose passion and elegance have thrilled me for some time now. I want the real world to be more like the magic she fashions and the truth she speaks. For now, we'll all have to settle for her poems and her prose. - Catherynne M. Valente, multiple award winner and author of The Habitation of the Blessed Ladies and Gentlemen, I give you a P.T. Barnum production of Dante's Inferno, scripted by Shel Silverstein, directed by Federico Fellini - if you can envision this unfolding around you in the Big Top, then you might have a grasp of what awaits you in C.S.E. Cooney's dizzy-giggle plunge into funhouse Hell. A cotton candy nightmare that bounces and crawls with carrion-eating clowns, murderous balloon beasts and deadly tent-spinners, The Big Bah-Ha wows with madcap twisted invention - and in its few short pages, you can't help but come to love its plucky, pint-sized heroes, and be moved by the big heart that's beating underneath. - Mike Allen, Nebula nominee and editor of Clockwork Phoenix The Big Ba-Ha is a macabre post-apocalyptic fairy tale, a rollicking fantasy of a band of near-feral children who brave a plague-ridden landscape on a desperate quest. To rescue one of their own, they will ally with the monstrous and enigmatic Flabberghast - who arrived only after the world ended and eats the bones of the dead - and penetrate the mystery of Chuckle City, home to ravenous packs of balloon animals, murderous Gacy boys, and the elusive Gray Harlequin. The Big Ba-Ha - it's The Goonies meets The Road Warrior, perfectly suited for both ordinary children and gifted adults, and one of the most original fantasies I've read in a long time.- John O'Neill, Founding Editor of Black Gate

Sis Boom Bah Jane Heller, 2016-04-24 This "breezy" tale by the bestselling author "explores the bitterly antagonistic relationship between two sisters, and the murder mystery they become embroiled in" (Publishers Weekly). Soap opera writer Deborah Peltz can handle any kind of drama, except for her sister Sharon's. A wedding planner in Boca Raton, Sharon thinks she has the answers to everything, but with three divorces under her belt, she should be the last person on the planet to dole out all that eyeroll-worthy advice. Normally, Deborah survives by keeping her distance, safe in the bustle of New York, but when their mother has a heart attack in Florida, she drops everything to be near her. Burying the hatchet with her sister is a challenge in itself, but when they both fall for their mother's handsome cardiologist, winning him over and earning an invite to his place becomes an obsession. But when they find him dead in his waterfront home, neither sister wants to be near the place. Now the prime suspects in his murder case, they must stick together to stay alive. Hiding out in the Bahamas may be their only chance—if they don't kill each other first... "Delightful." —People "If you loved Divine Secrets of the Ya-Ya Sisterhood, pick up Sis Boom Bah." —Newark Star-Ledger

Black Girl Shine Aissatou Bah,2020-03-12 Black Girl Shine is poetry depicting the fruit of a young Black woman's growth. While that growth is still ongoing, readers can experience the magic, fear, resilience and uniqueness of being unapologetically Black. The book tells the story of finding comfort in being in one's skin and the uncomfortable journey towards self love. It is divided into five parts, with each section serving a specific purpose: Black Girl Magic, We The People, Royalty, From Within and Push & Pull. This poetry book is inspired and made possible by the Black people, curly girls and female bosses in the author's life.

Post-Conflict Institutional Design Abu Bakarr

Bah,2020-01-15 Since gaining independence from colonial rule, most African countries have been struggling to build democratic and peaceful states. While African multiparty politics may be viewed as a democratic system of governance, in reality it is plagued by ethnic and regional political grievances that undermine meaningful democracy. By examining post-conflict institutional reforms in several African countries, this book sheds light on the common causes of violent conflicts and how institutional design can affect the conditions for peace and democracy in Africa. Focussing on conceptual and practical questions of designing ethnically and regionally inclusive state institutions and the way institutions are perceived by the citizenry Post-Conflict Institutional Design addresses political autonomy and control over resources, issues which are often key sources of ethnic and regional grievances. Crucially, it examines the meanings of institutional reforms as well ethnic and regional representation.

Accused: My Story of Injustice (I, Witness) Adama Bah, 2021-10-05 Launching a propulsive middle grade nonfiction series, a young woman shares her harrowing experience of being wrongly accused of terrorism. Adama Bah grew up in East Harlem after immigrating from Conakry, Guinea, and was deeply connected to her community and the people who lived there. But as a thirteen-year-old after the events of September 11, 2001, she began experiencing discrimination and dehumanization as prejudice toward Muslim people grew. Then, on March 24, 2005, FBI agents arrested Adama and her father. Falsely accused of being a potential suicide bomber, Adama spent weeks in a detention center being questioned under suspicion of terrorism. With sharp and engaging writing, Adama recounts the events surrounding her arrest and its impact on her life—the harassment, humiliation, and persecution she faced for crimes she didn’t commit. Accused brings forward a crucial and unparalleled first-person perspective of American culture post-9/11 and the country’s discrimination against Muslim Americans, and heralds the start of a new series of compelling narrative nonfiction by young people, for young people.

In the Land of Refuge H Afnn, 2006-01-01 This book relates the story of the evolution of the Bb-Bah' community, beginning with the birth of the Bb in 1819 and then traced over the next century and a half in the city of His birth, Shiraz. Its author, Mrz Habbu'llh Afnn, was himself born in the House of the Bb, reared by the widow of the Bb who shared with him many stories of the Bb's life, and then spent nearly a year with Bah'u'llh, and some ten years in close proximity to 'Abdu'l-Bah. He served for a half century as the hereditary custodian of the House of the Bb and as such was uniquely qualified to tell the story of the Bb-Bah' Faiths in the sacred city of Shiraz in remarkable and moving detail. This fascinating history, lucidly translated for the first time into English by Dr. Ahang Rabbani, is carefully annotated and supplemented with many details and scholarly notes about key personalities and places of interest to both Bah's and students of history in general. This volume-the first of its kind on the development of local Bah' communities of Iran-is a significant contribution to understanding the forces and events that propelled the Bah' Faith forward in a single location and thus greatly enriches both Iranian studies and the historical literature of the Bah' Faith.

Thrive Stephanie Butland, 2012-09-03 There's still a part of us that thinks surviving cancer is a bit of freakish good fortune – the medical equivalent of having a cannonball go right through your middle and living to tell the tale – and so often it's hard to know how to 'do' life after cancer. Thrive: The Bah! Guide to Wellness after cancer focuses on moving on from a major physical, social and psychological trauma. Like Stephanie's first book, How I Said Bah! to cancer: A Guide to Thinking, Laughing, Living, and Dancing Your Way Through, Thrive uses a blend of storytelling, practical advice, humour, thinking techniques and strategies, visualisations, meditations, questions, candour and common sense designed to help those who have had a cancer to get from survival to a place where they are truly thriving.
