Unique David Linden,2020-09-29 Inspired by the abundance of unique personalities available on dating websites, a renowned neuroscientist examines the science of what makes you, you. David J. Linden has devoted his career to understanding the biology common to all humans. But a few years ago he found himself on OkCupid. Looking through that vast catalog of human diversity, he got to wondering: What makes us all so different? Unique is the riveting answer. Exploring everything from the roots of sexuality, gender, and intelligence to whether we like bitter beer, Linden shows how our individuality results not from a competition of nature versus nurture, but rather from a mélange of genes continually responding to our experiences in the world, beginning in the womb. And he shows why individuality matters, as it is our differences that enable us to live together in groups. Told with Linden's unusual combination of authority and openness, seriousness of purpose and wit, Unique is the story of how the factors that make us all human can change and interact to make each of us a singular person.

What Makes Humans Unique Michael Robbins, 2023-09-08 Through an integrated multi-disciplinary theory, Michael Robbins proposes that the human mind consists of two mental structures: the one we share with other animate creatures and a capacity for reflective representational thought which is unique. As an alternative to Freud's model of the human mind as structured by the id, ego, and superego, this book contends that the prolonged period of post-natal immaturity – otherwise known as neoteny – which is specific to humans, gives rise to reflective representational thought that in turn allows for the acquisition of complex knowledge. Robbins examines how Freud's conception of the human mind was limited by his ignorance of the related disciplines of sociology, primatology, cultural anthropology, and most notably evolution, which were then in their infancy, to explore the implications of the non-unitary nature of the human mind for us as individuals, as a society, and for our future as a species. Drawing on a broad range of influences from psychoanalysis to anthropology, biology, psychology, sociology, and politics, this book will be of interest to students and scholars of these disciplines alike.

What Makes Biology Unique? Ernst Mayr, 2007-04-16 This book, a collection of essays written by the most eminent evolutionary biologist of the twentieth century, explores biology as an autonomous science, offers insights on the history of evolutionary thought, critiques the contributions of philosophy to the science of biology, and comments on several of the major ongoing issues in evolutionary theory. Notably, Mayr explains that Darwin's theory of evolution is actually five separate theories, each with its own history, trajectory and impact. Natural selection is a separate idea from common descent, and from geographic speciation, and so on. A number of the perennial Darwinian controversies may well have been caused by the confounding of the five separate theories into a single composite. Those interested in evolutionary theory, or the philosophy and history of science will find useful ideas in this book, which should appeal to virtually anyone with a broad curiosity about biology.

How guilty are the bystanders who saw w.

Unique Altitude Chamber for Infectious Disease Research Under Aerospace Profiles E. Staten Wynne, Lawrence F. Busch, Irving Davis, 1968 An altitude chamber has been developed which is adapted to infectious disease research. Long-term mammalian experimentation can be carried out under pressures ranging from ambient to 50,000 ft. simulated altitude; oxygen contents ranging from near 100% to as low as compatible with mammalian life; PCO₂ up to 10%; and temperature from ambient to 10C. Records continuously register these parameters and the relative humidity. A lock allows entry without interruption of the experiments. Personnel safety features include individual oxygen regulators, an intercommunication system, windows for visual monitoring, manually operated valves for emergency recompression, an external location of electrical connections and switches, fireproof clothing, and a sprinkler system automatically activated by ultraviolet radiation. A high-intensity ultraviolet unit initially used for decontamination of exhaust gases is being replaced by an incinerator. Ample penetrations are available for telemetry or other instrumentation. Use of gases such as helium, as well as low-level cobalt-60 radiation, can be instituted with minor modifications. (Author).
