An optimization strategy with SV-neutrosophic quaternion information and probabilistic hesitant fuzzy rough Einstein aggregation operator Jia-Bao Liu, Rashad Ismail, Muhammad Kamran, Esmail Hassan Abdullatif Al-Sabri, Shahzaib Ashraf, Ismail Naci Cangul, 2023-01-01 The single valued neutrosophic probabilistic hesitant fuzzy rough Einstein aggregation operator (SV-NPHFRE-A0) is an extension of the neutrosophic probabilistic hesitant fuzzy rough set theory. It is a powerful decision-making tool that combines the concepts of neutrosophic logic, probability theory, hesitant fuzzy sets, rough sets, and Einstein aggregation operators. SV-NPHFRE-A0 can be applied in many fields, including livestock decision making. Making judgments about a wide range of issues, including feed formulation, breeding program design, disease diagnostics, and market analysis, is part of the process of managing livestock. By combining data from many sources, SV-NPHFRE-A0 can assist decision-makers in livestock management in integrating and evaluating diverse criteria, which can result in more informed choices. It also provides a more accurate and comprehensive representation of decision-making problems by considering the multiple criteria involved and the relationships between them.

The Wreck of the Sv. Nikolai Kenneth N. Owens, Alton S. Donnelly, 2001-01-01 In 1808 the Sv. Nikolai, owned by the Russian American Company, set sail from New Arkhangel (modern-day Sitka, Alaska) to explore and identify a site for a permanent Russian fur trading post on the mainland south of Vancouver Island. Heavy seas drove the ship aground in late December, forcing twenty-two crew members ashore, including Anna Petrovna Bulygin, the wife of ship captain Nikolai Isaakovich Bulygin. Over the next several months the shipwrecked crew clashed with Hohs, Quileutes, and Makahs, but with little knowledge of the country, the castaways soon found themselves owing their lives to the very tribes they had fought with upon arrival. The tribes captured and enslaved several of the crew members. In 1810 an American captain sailing for the Russian American Company ransomed the survivors. ø This volume combines two source accounts of the event. The first is the story of a Russian survivor, Timofei Osipovich Tarakanov, the expedition's leader after the shipwreck. The second is a Quileute account, preserved orally for nearly a century before being recorded in 1909. Combined, these wonderful accounts tell a tale of adventure with moments of high drama, heroism, a touch of comedy, and eventual tragedy.

Impact of the Concept of Shared Value (SV) on Developing Countries (Creating Shared Value) Frank Machens, 2013-08

First published in the key article "The Big Idea: Creating Shared Value" by KRAMER and PORTER, the Concept of Creating Shared Value (CSV) describes a new approach in the relation between companies and societal needs. The implementation of this Concept in Developing Countries appears to be particularly promising. This Thesis is giving exact definitions of relevant terms as "Developing Country", CSV and the related Concept of Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR). Hereby, CSV itself is getting initially and critically discussed. Following is the fundamental methodical instrument, the Case Studies. Three well-chosen CSV-projects are analysed and their impact on the affected Developing Countries is displayed. Eventually, the key advantages of CSV in this particular field are highlighted, but also relevant questions concerning the competitiveness of CSV are raised.
