Deceptive Advertising Jef Richards,2013-12-16 This is the first book designed to assist behavioral scientists in the preparation of scholarly or applied research regarding deceptive advertising which will ultimately affect public policy in this area. Because there was an inadequate foundation upon which to build a program of research for this topic, a three-part solution has been devised: 1) a review of how deception is viewed and regulated 2) a theory of how consumers process deceptive information 3) a sensitive and consistent means of measuring deceptiveness. This text provides detailed discussions regarding the intersection of law and behavioral science and its application to deceptive advertising. In so doing, it offers a solid foundation upon which to base expanded behavioral research into how consumers are deceived by advertising claims, and what cognitive processes are involved in that deception.

Radio Ads Len Kaplan,2009-05-16 Why people hate the radio ads? Why more and more people agree to pay money subscribing for satellite radio only to avoid hearing the commercials? Is it because they donât need to know about new offerings? Is it because they donât need any new products and services? Is it because advertisements themselves are intolerably bad? Or, probably, there are more serious reasons for this hatred? Author found out this reason. With this discovery, it was easy to suggest the ways to revitalize the âdeadâ business and foresee the breakthrough innovations that recover the efficiency of radio advertisements.
