Making it Personal Tanya Kant, 2020-02-25 Targeted advertisements, tailored information feeds, and recommended content are now common and somewhat inescapable components of our everyday lives. With the help of searches, browsing history, purchases, likes, and other digital interactions, technological experiences are now routinely personalized. Companies with access to this information often downplay the fact that users' personal data serves as a key form of monetization, and their privacy policies tend to use the terms personalization and customization to legitimize the practice of tracking and algorithmically anticipating users' daily movements. In Making it Personal, Tanya Kant sheds light on the dilemmas of algorithmic personalization, exploring such key contemporary questions as: What do users really know about the algorithms that guide their online experiences and social media presence? And if personalization practices seek to act on our behalf, then how can users constitute, retain, or relinquish their autonomy and sense of self? At the heart of the book are new interviews and focus groups with web users who-through a myriad of resistant, tactical, resigned or trusting engagements-encounter algorithmic personalization as part of their lived experience on the web. Tanya Kant proposes that for those who encounter it, algorithmic personalization creates epistemic uncertainties that can emerge as trust or anxiety, produces an ongoing struggle for autonomy between user and system, and even has the power to intervene in identity constitution. In doing so, algorithmic personalization does not just generate filter bubbles for individuals' worldviews, but also creates new implications for knowledge production, the deployment of cultural capital as an algorithmic tactic, and, above all, formations of identity itself.

Geoscience Information A.P. Harvey, 2012-12-06 The International Conference on Geological Information represents the first major attempt to bring together geoscience information specialists from all over the world. The purpose of the conference was to assess the current state-of-the-art in geoscience information from both the regional and functional point of view. It was hoped that the conference could take steps to bring about increased international cooperation and collaboration in the field of geological information. The papers ranged over the whole spectrum of documentation from primary publishing back to the user, including data. Perhaps a keyword for the conference might be cooperation. The idea of, and need for, cooperation was stressed in almost every talk. The final panel session was devoted to a discussion on the formation of a proposed International Association for Geological Information. Despite the growing pressure on information managers, stimulated by increasing international activities in geology, the global perspective of plate tectonics and worldwide concern for the availability of non-renewable resources, there does not exist an international organisation specifically concerned with geological information. Delegates agreed that there was no need for a new professional society of individuals but that a federation or similar organisation might be desirable. In the final session it became apparent that if the geological information community is to make the best use of all the systems and developments available there is very clearly a need to know what exists in all these areas at present. An urgent task is to identify these systems.

Copyright 2018 I am not affiliated or paid by any services listed here. I just use them. Well, it was a challenging 2017 with my dozens of blogs and dozens of social media outlets. I'm glad to enter 2018 and spend less time on setting up my auto posting to blogs and social media sites with RSS Feeds. It took several hundred hours to find a solution to the problem in 2017. Nobody helped me, but I wished some had offered help. Especially those from the RSS Posting web services. But, it took experimentation and trial and error.....much of it. And, it was very frustrating. The problem began late 2016 when Twitterfeed shut down. This free service helped me to do several things:
