Result-oriented Management Jan Schouten, Wilhelmus Josephus Petrus Alphonsus Beers, 2010 Obtaining maximum results by ensuring clear agreements between managers and employees. This is what result-oriented management (ROM) is about. It is a management style that is particularly successful. ROM is based on the fact that people get more enjoyment from their work and obtain better results if they know clearly what is expected of them, if they are involved in defining targets, have sufficient room to decide how they can meet them and are given feedback about their performance. Managers define the goals and set priorities and make the resources available that are needed: time, money and capacity. The employees give their time, knowledge and skills and define the conditions needed for producing the targeted results. They then take personal responsibility for achieving these results. Fascinating theory and practical assignments will help you adopt this contemporary management for yourself Wim van Beers is organisational consultant, mediator and director of Executive Coaching. He is also responsible for Quality and Skills Management within Schouten & Nelissen. Jan Schouten is a psychotherapist, organisational consultant and writer. In 1977 he introduced the concept of Assertive Training to the Netherlands to a large group of people (1981) via a television channel, all within a short space of time. Assertiveness is now part of everyday life in the Netherlands. Jan Schouten is also founder of the Schouten & Nelissen Group. Bron: Flaptekst, uitgeversinformatie.

BPM - Driving Innovation in a Digital World Jan vom Brocke, Theresa Schmiedel, 2015-02-21 This book shows how business process management (BPM), as a management discipline at the intersection of IT and Business, can help organizations to master digital innovations and transformations. At the same time, it discusses how BPM needs to be further developed to successfully act as a driver for innovation in a digital world. In recent decades, BPM has proven extremely successful in managing both continuous and radical improvements in many sectors and business areas. While the digital age brings tremendous new opportunities, it also brings the specific challenge of correctly positioning and scoping BPM in organizations. This book shows how to leverage BPM to drive business innovation in the digital age. It brings together the views of the world's leading experts on BPM and also presents a number of practical cases. It addresses managers as well as academics who share an interest in digital innovation and business process management. The book covers topics such as BPM and big data, BPM and the Internet of Things, and BPM and social media. While these technological and methodological aspects are key to BPM, process experts are also aware that further nontechnical organizational capabilities are required for successful innovation. The ideas presented in this book have helped us a lot while implementing process innovations in our global Logistics Service Center. Joachim Gantner, Director IT Services, Swarovski AG Managing Processes – everyone talks about it, very few really know how to make it work in today's agile and competitive world. It is good to see so many leading experts taking on the challenge in this book. Cornelius Clauser, Chief Process Officer, SAP SE This book provides worthwhile readings on new developments in advanced process analytics and process modelling including practical applications – food for thought how to succeed in the digital age. Ralf Diekmann, Head of Business Excellence, Hilti AG This book is as an important step towards process innovation systems. I very much like to congratulate the editors and authors for presenting such an impressive scope of ideas for how to address the challenging, but very rewarding marriage of BPM and innovation. Professor Michael Rosemann, Queensland University of Technology

The Structuration of Managing for Results : A Practice Perspective on Middle Managers in the Dutch Central Government Michel

Léon Ehrenhard,2009

Complexity Management in Engineering Design – a Primer Maik Maurer,2017-02-21 The treatise supports understanding the phenomena of complexity in engineering, distinguishes complexity from other challenges and presents an overview of definitions and applied approaches. The historical background of complexity management is explained by highlighting the important epochs, their key actors and their discoveries, findings and developments. Knowing about the appearance of early system awareness in ancient Greece, the creation of mechanical philosophy in the 17th century and the discovery of classic physics enables the reader to better comprehend modern system sciences and management approaches. A classification of complexity management approaches by research fields indicates current focus areas and starting points for future discussions. In a comprehensive map, the classification points out mutual overlaps between engineering disciplines in terms of similar complexity management approaches. Finally, the treatise introduces a generic complexity management framework, which is based on structural management approaches.

Evaluation and Effective Public Management Joseph S. Wholey,1983

Managing Natural Catastrophies Anja Christina Reissberg,2012-07 This book will assess the O'ahu disaster management system's current ability to manage a high-impact low-probability (HILP) event, a Category 4 or 5 hurricane striking the Hawai'ian island of O'ahu. It will investigate through one of the core diagnostic tool of management cybernetics, the Viable System Model (VSM), deficiencies of the existing disaster management system used across the United States and offers suggestions to improve its effectiveness. Further, this book represents a general assessment of the application of management cybernetics to disaster management systems worldwide.

Chinese Multinationals Jean-Paul Larçon,2009 Examines the rise of Chinese companies in international markets. This book provides an overview of the strategies of Chinese multinationals in terms of international marketing and branding, M&As and international joint ventures, management of technology, organization and human resource management.

Managing Performance Michael Armstrong,Angela Baron,2005 Managing performance is a critical focus of HR activity. Well-designed strategies to recognise and improve performance and focus individual effort can have a dramatic effect on bottom-line results. The problem is to determine what the processes, tools and delivery mechanisms are that will improve performance in your organisation, as well as determine which ones are best avoided. The authors have tracked performance management processes over the past seven years, and their comprehensive survey reveals what leading organisations are doing to manage their employees' performance and how they are delivering results. With detailed illustrations from the real world, and clear practical advice, this text shows you how to improve the management of your employees' performance. Managing Performance will help you: design performance management processes that reflect the context and nature of the organisation; create supportive delivery mechanisms for performance management; and, evaluate and continuously develop performance management strategies to reflect the changing business environment.

Innovations in Older Adult Care and Health Service Management: A Focus on the Asia-Pacific Region Madhan

Balasubramanian, Angie Shafei, Zhanming Liang, 2024-02-14 Population aging is a consistent global demographic trend. The growth in both the size and proportion of older adults has threatened the sustainability of health systems in meeting healthcare needs of the population. Countries in the Asia-Pacific Region may face even more complex health system challenges due to the diversity in culture, management and leadership styles, composition of health service provision, investment in research infrastructure and innovation adaptation, data availability, and gaps in information technology. The Asia-Pacific is home to more than half of the world's population and comprises countries across five Asia-Pacific subregions: East and North-East Asia, North and Central Asia, Pacific, South East Asia, South, and South West Asia. The economies are diverse, including six high-income countries (such as Australia, Brunei, Japan, New Zealand, South Korea, and Singapore), low-income countries (Nepal and North Korea), and middle-income countries. The region also includes some of the fastest-growing economies in the world, including China, India, Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia, and the Philippines.

Innovative Health Partnerships Daniel Low-Beer, 2011-11-29 Over the last ten years, the financing and diversity of new players in global health have increased significantly. Ten years ago it would have been difficult to predict some of these changes — Bill Gates programming global health rather than software; NGOs formally governing a US$20 billion health fund; WHO convening a range of partnerships; financial markets launching bonds to support vaccines. This volume assesses the range of innovative partnerships which are now near the heart of health diplomacy. It then describes the negotiations to integrate new players into development, which has changed health governance at global and country level. The chapters represent unique and concrete perspectives on these issues — from activists, private sector, country ministers of health, district health workers, multilaterals and those working in these partnerships — from the global right down to the community level. Contents: Common Themes: Origins and Diversity of Health

Partnerships (Richard Manning) Negotiating with New Partners to Increase the Effectiveness and Volume of Aid: The Role of Global Funds (Paul Isenman and Alexander Shakow) Managing Health Partnerships at Country Level (Hareya Fassil and Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus) Managing for Results: A “Common Currency” to Coordinate Health Development (Daniel Low-Beer) Country Health Systems and Global Health Partnerships: What are the Challenges, How to Think about Them, and What to Do Differently (Dean Shuey and Rebecca Dodd) Limitations of Partnerships: Taking the Agenda Forward (Margret Thalwitz) Integrating New Partnerships at Global Level: Global Health Programmes: Negotiating Aid Effectiveness into New Partnerships (Prerna Banati and Daniel Low-Beer) Malaria: Partnerships in Malaria Control (Bernard L Nahlen and Richard W Steketee) Innovative Approaches to Financing Development: The GAVI Alliance (Bjorg Sandkjaer) PEPFAR: A Results-Driven Approach to International HIV Support (Katherine Marconi, Paul Bouey and Mark Dybul) Private Foundations: Their Role in Financing and Health Governance (Nina Ingenkamp and Daniel Low-Beer) Private Sector: New Ways of Doing Business (Dida Connor, David Evans and Brian Brink) Civil Society Partners: Claiming Spaces for Civil Society in Global Health (Josh Galjour and Asia Russell) Integrating New Partnerships at Country Level: Governance and Sustainable Financing in Southern Africa: Swaziland, a Case Study (Alan Whiteside) Negotiating Aid Reform in Vietnam: Unpacking “Country” Ownership (Rebecca Dodd and Jean-Marc Olivé) Ethiopia: Aligning Stakeholders Behind National Health Plans (W Lemma, N Kedir, G Azene, B Abdosh, J Aliy and O Bushen) India: Scaling HIV Prevention Through Partnerships — The Avahan Experience (Aparajita Ramakrishnan, Sema K Sgaier and Ashok Alexander) Russia: Key Characteristics of the NGO AIDS Response: Assertive Leadership, Professional Reputation, and Broad Partnerships (Alexey Bobrik) State Fragility: Working with Partners to Achieve Health Results in African Countries (Erling Høg) Health Communities: Social Capital and Effective Partnerships — Building on Community Responses (Daniel Low-Beer) Conclusions — Towards an Innovative Global Health Partnership (Daniel Low-Beer)

Readership: This book targets university courses in development, health, international relations, politics, and those working in development at both the national and international level. The book aims to become a reference source for relevant courses at graduate and undergraduate level, and to a wider general audience interested in health development.

Keywords: Health; Development; Governance; Partnerships; International Relations; HIV; Malaria

Key Features: First book on a major development of the last decade — innovative health partnerships — to describe the range of partnerships in real global and country situations, and to challenge their effectiveness. Supported by concrete case studies from the global level right down to the community level, putting the issues of global governance and health within the country's context. Unique perspectives from those involved in health partnerships — activists, private sector, country ministers of health, district health workers, multilaterals, academics, private sector managers, and those working in these partnerships. Opens up frank discussion on the innovations and challenges in health partnerships.

Reviews: “Partnerships are fashionable, but the conditions that bring about their success or failure are elusive. Daniel Low-Beer has brought together experts from public health, civil society, and policymaking to investigate how partnerships work, what they have delivered, and what lessons one can learn from their experiences. The result is an important and urgent analysis, with global implications — one that should make all of us in global health stop and pause. Please read this book.” Richard Horton Editor-in-Chief of the Lancet “This book captures the innovative and challenging period of health partnerships since 2000 and in the process illuminates some of the key issues in the debate on aid effectiveness and aid architecture today. The range and quality of contributors provide compelling material on the diversity of actors and instruments now in play in international development efforts in the field of health, with a good balance between overarching issues and global partnerships, and the negotiation of diversity in real country contexts.” Richard Carey Former Director for Development Co-operation, OECD-DAC “This volume is a highly valuable contribution to the current discourse on global health and development aid effectiveness. It takes stock of lessons learned by different countries and innovative partnership strategies. It also illustrates the critical challenges still faced by the global health community, using concrete and compelling examples in a wide range of situations. Importantly, it also elucidates a new ‘diplomacy of diversity’ for global health partnerships — which we have found very useful in our country.” Tedros Ghebreyesus Minister of Health, Ethiopia

The Geography of Beer Nancy Hoalst-Pullen, Mark W. Patterson, 2020-03-02 This book builds on the highly successful Geography of Beer: Regions, Environment, and Society (2014) and investigates the geography of beer from two expanded perspectives: culture and economics. The respective chapters provide case studies that illustrate various aspects of these themes. As the beer industry continues to reinvent itself and its economic and cultural geographies, this book showcases historical, current, and future trends at the local, regional, national, and international scales.

Diagnosing the System for Organizations Stafford Beer, 1985-06-26 Stafford Beer is undoubtedly among the world's most provocative, creative, and profound thinkers on the subject of management, and he records his thinking with a flair that is unmatched. His writing is as much art as it is science. He is the most viable system I know. Dr Russell L Ackoff, The Institute for Interactive Management, Pennsylvania, USA. If anyone can make it [Operations Research] understandably readable and positively interesting it is Stafford Beer everyone in management should be grateful to him for using clear and at times elegant English and even elegant diagrams. The Economist In Brain of the Firm and The Heart of Enterprise Stafford Beer worked out the scientific laws that govern any viable system. They constitute the basis for this book which is concerned solely with the application of those laws to the understanding of any particular enterprise. In the form of a Handbook or Manager's Guide, Diagnosing the System deals with the fundamental problem of management how to cope with complexity itself. It shows you how to design (or redesign) an enterprise in conformity with the laws of viability, and will help you to diagnose faults in your organizational structure. (www.eu.wiley.com).

Managing Sport Facilities Gil Fried, Matthew Kastel, 2020-02-06 Managing Sport Facilities, Fourth Edition With Web Study Guide, merges the historical and theoretical foundations of the sport facility industry with real-world challenges and insights to create an engaging, modern guide for effective sport facility management. This updated edition provides a comprehensive knowledge base for the wide-ranging duties of sport facility managers and prepares students to enter the field ready to confront the responsibilities they will face on the job. Joining field expert Gil Fried for this fourth edition is Matthew Kastel, a practicing stadium manager with over 25 years of experience. Together, the authors blend extensive research and insights from the professional industry with everyday occurrences at sport facilities. With an increased focus on in-depth, real-world examples of issues facing facility managers today, this edition takes a detailed look at different types of facilities, including stadiums, arenas, fitness centers, parks, and multiuse facilities, and it addresses the various challenges that each presents. Contributions from industry professionals provide an inside look at their facility's unique issues and concerns, from systems and operations to maintenance and green practices. To emphasize practical applications of the content, a new web study guide includes seven Day in the Life videos that follow the daily routine of a facility executive and offer students an inside look at real-life facility management. Additional tools further enhance learning and are accompanied by activities and assignments that guide students in applying the concepts: Video clips of interviews with industry professionals provide multifaceted career insights and advice. Gil's Sportsplex, an in-depth sport facility case study, covers strategic planning, construction, financial analysis, and more. Sample blueprints highlight the construction and anatomy of a sport facility. A list of Internet resources for each chapter encourages further learning. Also new to this edition is a chapter on midevent management, which covers strategies for managers to use during events as issues arrive so they are prepared for all phases of a facility event. Throughout the book, examples capture the essence of being a facility manager. Opening chapter scenarios introduce industry executives and show how the material applies to daily activities. Facility Focus sidebars provide facts about facilities and strategies for facility success, while Behind the Scenes sections present unique concerns and strategies to make facility managers more successful professionals. Students will develop practical knowledge, which will prepare them to make decisions in all areas of facility management, including building design and construction, operations, marketing, legal issues, finance, and event management. Managing Sport Facilities, Fourth Edition, teaches the foundational and application skills necessary for facility managers to respond effectively to new challenges. It is an essential resource for guiding students to success in a sport facility management career. Note: The web study guide is included with all new print books and some ebooks. For ebook formats that don't provide access, the web study guide is available separately.
