How to Shoot Video That Doesn't Suck Steve Stockman, 2011-06-02 Newly updated and revised, How to Shoot Video That Doesn't Suck is a quick and easy guide that will make your video better instantly—whether you read it cover to cover or just skim a few chapters. It's about the language of video and how to think like a director, regardless of equipment (amateurs think about the camera, pros think about communication). It's about the rules developed over a century of movie-making—which work just as well when shooting a two-year-old's birthday party on your phone. Written by Steve Stockman, the director of the award-winning feature Two Weeks, plus TV shows, music videos, and hundreds of commercials, How to Shoot Video That Doesn't Suck explains in 74 short, pithy, insightful chapters how to tell a story and entertain your audience. In other words, how to shoot video people will want to watch. Here's how to think in shots—how to move-point-shoot-stop-repeat, instead of planting yourself in one spot and pressing “Record” for five minutes. Why never to shoot until you see the whites of your subject's eyes. Why to “zoom” with your feet and not the lens. How to create intrigue on camera. The book covers the basics of video production: framing, lighting, sound (use an external mic), editing, special effects (turn them off!), and gives advice on shooting a variety of specific situations: sporting events, parties and family gatherings, graduations and performances. Plus, how to make instructional and promotional videos, how to make a music video, how to capture stunts, and much more. At the end of every chapter is a suggestion of how to immediately put what you've learned into practice, so the next time you're shooting you'll have begun to master the skill. Steve's website (stevestockman.com) provides video examples to illustrate different production ideas, techniques, and situations, and his latest thoughts on all things video.

There are three approaches to character animation: keyframe animation, motion capture, and simulation.

How to Shoot Video That Doesn't Suck Steve Stockman, 2011-01-01 Offers step-by-step instructions for making films and videos with tips, personal anecdotes, and exercises.

3D Video Laurent Lucas, Céline Loscos, Yannick Rémon, 2013-12-04 While 3D vision has existed for many years, the use of 3D cameras and video-based modeling by the film industry has induced an explosion of interest for 3D acquisition technology, 3D content and 3D displays. As such, 3D video has become one of the new technology trends of this century. The chapters in this book cover a large spectrum of areas connected to 3D video, which are presented both theoretically and technologically, while taking into account both physiological and perceptual aspects. Stepping away from traditional 3D vision, the authors, all currently involved in these areas, provide the necessary elements for understanding the underlying computer-based science of these technologies. They consider applications and perspectives previously unexplored due to technological limitations. This book guides the reader through the production process of 3D videos; from acquisition, through data treatment and representation, to 3D diffusion. Several types of camera systems are considered (multiscopic or multiview) which lead to different acquisition, modeling and storage-rendering solutions. The application of these systems is also discussed to illustrate varying performance benefits, making this book suitable for students, academics, and also those involved in the film industry.

Summary of Steve Stockman's How to Shoot Video That Doesn't Suck Everest Media, 2022-07-07T22:59:00Z Please note: This is a companion version & not the original book. Sample Book Insights: #1 The viewer will give the video his time, and the video will give him an experience that he'll enjoy. If the video gives the viewer a good time, he'll even pay it by watching its commercials. But if the video gives the viewer a bad time, he wants out immediately. #2 The first step to preventing bad video is to accept that you must entertain or die. If you don't, your audience will leave you. You don't need explosions or nudity to entertain. All you need is competent, compelling video that intrigues your target audience. #3 Select 10 random YouTube videos and try to watch them all. Stop when you feel like changing the channel. How many seconds have you watched. At what moment are you bored. Why. What kept you interested. #4 Every video needs a clear intent. The intent is what you're trying to accomplish when you make the video. A result happens after the video is done, and you don't have much control over it. If your intent is to show absurd behavior, you can guess that when you shoot something that strikes you as absurd or funny, you're on the right track.

Design, Implementation, and Performance of a Scalable Multi- Camera Interactive Video Capture System Martin Frankel, Jon A. Webb, 1995 Abstract: We describe a system for interactive, real time, multi-camera video capture and display. The system uses largely general purpose, programmable hardware, and as a result is flexible and expandable. The computational framework and data storage is provided by the iWarp parallel computer, which we describe in light of the performance requirements of real time video. Video display is accomplished using a High Performance Parallel Interface network to write to a high resolution frame buffer. Video can be displayed as it is captured, with only a single frame latency. We provide interactivity with a VCR-like graphical interface running on a host workstation, which in turn controls the operation of the capture system. As a whole, this system allows a user to interactively monitor, capture, and replay video with the ease of use of a VCR, yet with flexibility and performance that is unavailable in all but the most expensive digital VCRs. We describe the implementation in detail, and discuss possible future enhancements.
