Tracking Sonja Needs, 2016-05-17 Tracking is a great way to channel your dog's energy and challenge their mind. There are different avenues of tracking from sports trials (earning titles), to search and rescue (professional working dogs), to dogs who only participate for fun and energy release. Tracking as a dog sport is intended to exercise the mind and body of your dog. Tracking is an ideal activity for dogs which have high drive (motivation and energy for a task) and require a means for release. Any breed of dog can do tracking and many dogs will excel at tracking where they have failed at other dog sports. Tracking challenges your dog with a task, they utilize their innate physical and mental abilities to the fullest extent, as nature had intended. In this book, we focus on Tracking as a sport or for fun. We use techniques and methods used by professional tracking and trailing dog handlers. We cover everything from laying your first track, progressing your training and troubleshooting. Learn about scent, how it moves and how it is affected by the environment so that you can start to understand your dog's behaviour and support them. Understanding scent also makes it easier for you to make well planned practice tracks for you and your training partners.

Motivational Moments in Women's Track and Field Mark Stanbrough, Dr, 2013-12 In Motivational Moments in Women's Track and Field, read inspirational stories of female athletes who overcame adversity to achieve success. Sixty female track and field athletes from all over the world and multiple generations are featured in this book. Stories are of well-known athletes like Wilma Rudolph, who overcame polio as a child to become an Olympic champion, or unknown athletes who never made it to the Olympics, such as Gretel Bergmann, who faced discrimination because she was Jewish, or Doris Brown Heritage, who faced gender discrimination when women were not allowed to run distance events. Some, such as Alice Coachman, faced racial discrimination, but overcame the adversity to become successful. Many won multiple medals at the greatest athletic stage in the world. However, some had their dreams crushed when they were not allowed to compete in the Olympic Games due to war, boycotts, or injuries. Motivational Moments in Women's Track and Field is written for those who are currently competing, coaching, have participated in track and field or are simply a track and field or sports fan. The stories convey the history of track and field and are designed to inspire, encourage, motivate, and teach valuable life lessons. Each story is accompanied by questions designed to invoke thought as to how one can apply the lessons learned to athletics and to the bigger game of life. The stories are rich in history and are designed to be read in a few minutes. The stories pay honor to all the young women who compete, and make the attempt and pursue excellence. These stories of great athletes teach us how to think positive, to focus our attention on what is important, and how to overcome obstacles to reach our goals.

Following Tracks Dwight Wilson, 2014-10-09 Tracking has been around since the dawn of man. It's something that I feel is natural and instinctual within the human species. Our ability to reason, problem solve, learn, and adapt has given us the ability to progress, to modernize, and to become civilized. Now the hunt is at the local super market with meat wrapped and processed, vegetables no longer in the ground, and processed food in boxes. However some cultures still hunt. Some tribes still live the old ways. They are few, and their knowledge is fading. I wanted to share some stories about my life. I'm an ordinary person, struggling with my imperfections, flaws, and shortcomings as a human being trying to hold down a job, live in the city and still maintain a wild heart. Tracking gave me life, a connection to the Earth, and it has given my life a purpose and meaning. This book has tracking stories, life lessons, and my heart put into it. I hope you enjoy it. My personal approach to tracking is more of a holistic approach. I think tracking humans makes my wildlife tracking better and tracking wildlife makes my man tracking better. To me, it's just tracking. It's a tool. It's only a small part of the hunt. Only one skill needed to live with the Earth. Tracking is bigger than one lifetime. To understand and interpret the story on the ground is almost a lost art.

A Crack in the Track (Thomas & Friends) Rev. W. Awdry,2001-12-26 What does it take to bring the entire Island of Sodor Railway System to a halt? Just a crack in the track. Well, a crack in the track and some hail on rail . . . and a toad in the road, and a fuss on the bus. In fact, one thing leads to another until just about everything that can go wrong does go wrong. Luckily, there's a breakdown train with a couple of cranes that can fix a big mess (and they don't mind the rain).
