Availability and integrity model of Automatic Identification System (AIS) Information Krzysztof Jaskólski,2014-08-01 Doctoral Thesis / Dissertation from the year 2014 in the subject Nautical Science, , course: -, language: English, abstract: Automatic Identification System (AIS) is a data exchange system which was introduced to improve shipping safety and the possibility of exchanging data, at a country and international level, about ships heading to or from ports, as well as exchanging data relating to passengers and dangerous or environment-polluting cargo carried by ships. The main purpose of introducing AIS was to offer a wider spectrum of available, continuous and reliable navigational data. Apart from being useful for traffic control in a marine area, AIS data can be a very important source of information used in collision avoidance process. However, some reservations are voiced with regard to the unconditional reliance on the data transferred through this channel. The information integrity problem had been raised already at the stage of system implementation and some fragmentary outcomes were published in the past. However, it can be assumed that the results from the system introduction period may not represent reality. Thus, it seems reasonable to base the assessment on theoretical analysis, through the development of multi-criteria model describing the AIS information integrity. The research was performed on data recorded in the period between 04.04.2006 r. and 08.01.2012 r. (selected 55 weeks- 385 days) in the laboratory of Institute of Navigation and Hydrography. Only full 24-hour recordings of AIS signals were selected for the analysis. Fifty five measurement sessions were used to determine the limit probability for availability and integrity exponential of information system, expected value of system lifetime, expected value of system failure time, failure rate, renewal rate. Utilizing homogenous Markov Chains, prediction of the state of availability and integrity of selected AIS information components was carried out. The proposed research approach in many cases gave differentiated results. The research outcomes presented in the paper lead to the conclusion that AIS could deliver useful supplementary information in the process of collision avoidance.

A.I.s Jack Dann,Gardner R. Dozois,2004 Ten masters of speculative fiction explore the future of computerized intellect and how humanity will interact with machines that can outthink--and outsmart--them. Includes stories by Nancy Kress, Gregory Benford, and Robert Reed. Original.

Enhance the AIS data availability by screening and interpolation Daiyong Zhang,Jia Li,Qing Wu,Xinglong Liu,Xiumin Chu,Wei He, The AIS broadcasts the ship’s navigation data automatically and autonomously through VHF band. It plays an important role in collision avoidance and maritime situational awareness. However, in inland waterways, it is common that the AIS data-link was obstructed by the river bank and mountains, or sometimes the AIS was encountered with the electromagnetic interference.

A Silent Warrior Steps Out of the Shadows Guy Thomas,2021-04-30 Guy Thomas is best known as inventor of S-AIS, the most impactful invention in the marine world since radar, but his life as a Navy spook was even more unusual and eventful. The first career officer of his classified field to step Out of the Shadows to describe operations at the tactical level in combat off Vietnam and on covert missions off Russia, Korea, China, and the Middle East, his very unique multi-service career as a subject matter expert on surveillance systems took him into the highest offices of the Intelligence Community. As the first officer to step Out of the Shadows”, the security review took 19 months and involved the NSA, FBI, and CIA, plus the US Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard, as well as the National Security Council, all places he had worked with in a career of over 50 years. He goes on to describe the origins and initial trials of Satellite AIS (S-AIS). A must-read” for National Security and Technical Intelligence buffs.

AIs Gardner Dozois,Jack Dann,2013-06-15 A mind is a terrible thing to replace. Ten masters of speculative fiction explore the future of computerized intellect, and how humanity will interact with machines that can outthink them--and are learning to outsmart them. Computers were designed to think faster than the human mind. But solving mathematical equations and retaining dizzying amounts of information are minor achievements compared to the processing technology of tomorrow's artificial intelligences...machines capable of thinking independently without human input - and evolving into self-maintaining sentient beings. Ride the brainwaves of mechanical intellect with some of today's masters of speculative fiction, as a woman tries to outsmart a runaway A.I. and save the lives of her children...scientists lose control of a supercomputer with the power and omnipotence of a god...and a sentient starship falls in love with its pilot. These and seven more stories of man and machine await you in... An Internet of Things Approach for Extracting Featured Data Using AIS Database: An Application Based on the Viewpoint of Connected Ships Wei He ,Zhixiong Li ,Reza Malekian,Xinglong Liu,Zhihe Duan, Automatic Identification System (AIS), as a major data source of navigational data, is widely used in the application of connected ships for the purpose of implementing maritime situation awareness and evaluating maritime transportation.

AIS Unleashed Richard Fairman BA JP,2014-09-27 AIS is the revolution in marine navigation With an AIS receiver any yachtsman can identify any AIS equipped vessel within VHF range. The vessels name is displayed with vessel details such as course speed and turning rate. Previously AIS equipment cost more than £100. Now with this book an AIS receiver can be made from a low cost VHF receiver. The modification is simple and for the first time AIS for less than £30.00 is a real possibility.

The AIS Rodney A. Viereck,1990 This report describes an instrument, the Arizona Imager/Spectrograph (AIS), developed for the Geophysics Laboratory by the University of Arizona for use on the space shuttle. The instrument is a combination of spectrographs and imagers intended for the study of optical emissions in the vicinity of spacecraft. It includes nine spectrographs, which cover the spectral range from 115 to 1100 nm, with spectral resolutions ranging from 0.5 nm at short wavelengths to 1.3 nm at long wavelengths, and twelve imagers which ahve narrow, medium, and wide fields of view and optical bandpass filters to select particular wavelengths. The images and spectra are focused onto intensified CCD's. The design of this instrument is discussed and examples of test data are presented. Keywords: Spectrographs; Imagers; Space shuttles; Space flight. (RH).
