Chemical Laboratory Safety and Security National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Chemical Sciences and Technology, Committee on Chemical Management Toolkit Expansion: Standard Operating Procedures, 2016-08-07 The U.S. Department of State charged the Academies with the task of producing a protocol for development of standard operating procedures (SOPs) that would serve as a complement to the Chemical Laboratory Safety and Security: A Guide to Prudent Chemical Management and be included with the other materials in the 2010 toolkit. To accomplish this task, a committee with experience and knowledge in good chemical safety and security practices in academic and industrial laboratories with awareness of international standards and regulations was formed. The hope is that this toolkit expansion product will enhance the use of the previous reference book and the accompanying toolkit, especially in developing countries where safety resources are scarce and experience of operators and end-users may be limited.

Promoting Chemical Laboratory Safety and Security in Developing Countries National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Chemical Sciences and Technology, Committee on Promoting Safe and Secure Chemical Management in Developing Countries, 2010-09-07 There is growing concern about the possible use of toxic industrial chemicals or other hazardous chemicals by those seeking to perpetrate acts of terrorism. The U.S. Chemical Security Engagement Program (CSP), funded by the U.S. Department of State and run by Sandia National Laboratories, seeks to develop and facilitate cooperative international activities that promote best practices in chemical security and safe management of toxic chemicals, including: Partnering with host governments, chemical professionals, and industry to assess and fill gaps in chemical security abroad. Providing technical expertise and training to improve best practices in security and safety among chemical professionals and industry. Increasing transparency and accountability for dangerous chemical materials, expertise, and technologies. Providing opportunities for collaboration with the international professional chemical community. The Department of State called on the National Academies to assist in the CSP's efforts to promote chemical safety and security in developing countries.

Prudent Practices in the Laboratory National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Chemical Sciences and Technology, Committee on Prudent Practices in the Laboratory: An Update, 2011-03-25
Prudent Practices in the Laboratory--the book that has served for decades as the standard for chemical laboratory safety practice--now features updates and new topics. This revised edition has an expanded chapter on chemical management and delves into new areas, such as nanotechnology, laboratory security, and emergency planning. Developed by experts from academia and industry, with specialties in such areas as chemical sciences, pollution prevention, and laboratory safety, Prudent Practices in the Laboratory provides guidance on planning procedures for the handling, storage, and disposal of chemicals. The book offers prudent practices designed to promote safety and includes practical information on assessing hazards, managing chemicals, disposing of wastes, and more. Prudent Practices in the Laboratory will continue to serve as the leading source of chemical safety guidelines for people working with laboratory chemicals: research chemists, technicians, safety officers, educators, and students.

Practical Guidelines for Statistical Monitoring of Fisheries in Manpower Limited Situations J. F.

Caddy,G. P. Bazigos,1985 The main categories and uses of fisheries-related information by fisheries administrations for stock assessment, resource management, investment, planning and economics analysis, and for social and nutritional studies are briefly discussed in this document, and the appropriate scale of these activities is illustrated using as example the constraints faced by fisheries administrators of small island states in funding and manpower in the fisheries sector. Special emphasis is placed on the types of data that can be collected by fisheries officers, and which already exist, and are available to them from other sources. Mapping current information on the resources, the fishermen, and their employment status, the seasonality of the fishing operations, the type and number of boats and gear used, location of wharfs, landing sites, markets, shore plant and boat repair and building facilities, not to mention catches and other biological information and the main routes for transshipment and import/export of fish products, is a necessary first step towards considering the type and scale of statistical monitoring, and in designing a filing and monitoring system for the fishery. In planning such a system of work, the administrator will have to ensure that the fisheries officer coordinates with other organizations collecting relevant data, in order to make optimal use of existing manpower. Collection methods based on the interview approach and sampling surveys may have to be used with care, and emphasis given instead to the commissioning of data gathering by key individuals (data sources) outside the government and strategically located within the fishery system, and to the use of simple logbooks or sales slips (which may be legislated as a requirement for licensing of fishermen or dealers). The field activities of officers should where possible, follow a present sampling design in order to maximize utility of these observations.

E-Business Essentials Nick Bontis, 2004-09-01 This special issue of QJEC marks the final instalment of the journal. The QJEC has had a long-standing history of international scholarship focused on the emerging field of electronic commerce with a broad, interdisciplinary approach. It has established the field's intellectual foundation with state-of-the-art research from business, computer science, engineering, law, psychology, and sociology. This particular issue focuses on an eclectic group of papers that are international in scope with authors from Canada, Australia, France, Germany, South Africa and Italy. The papers range in topics from valuing dot com companies, to mobile health and portals, to supply chain management.

Windows 2000 Active Directory Edgar Brovick,Doug Hauger,2000 Annotation Windows 2000 is one of most anticipated software releases in history and is a realization of a vision for desktop computing that Microsoft has been articulating for the past six years. The keystone and most eagerly anticipated new feature in the new administrative power inherent in the Windows 2000 Active Directory (AD). Windows 2000 Active Directory will provide the ideal foundation for achieving synergy between information about users, network infrastructure elements, and applications. Active Directory will provide the means to manage the entire network infrastructure from a single application. Active Directory will be a huge stumbling block for most administrators who need to get Windows 2000 up and running. Windows 2000 Active Directory will offer hands-on insight into the workings of the new and complex world of Active Directory. Through the use of case studies, troubleshooting tips, check lists, mitigation recommendations, and technological explanations, the reader will receive the expert advice of experienced authors and beta testers.
