Plant Physiology 7A F.C. Steward,2012-12-02 Plant Physiology: A Treatise, Volume VIA: Physiology of Development: Plants and Their Reproduction explores the various problems of development and reproduction that arise as plants, responsive to environmental stimuli, develop a vegetative plant body and produce seeds and fruits or organs of perennation. This book considers the morphological aspects of plant growth and development as well as the growth and reproduction of fungi, physiological aspects of vegetative reproduction and flowering, and perennation and dormancy. This volume is organized into four chapters and begins with an overview of growth and development, with reference to organization and patterns of development in vascular plants and the initiation and development of plants. The discussion then shifts to vegetative, sexual, and asexual reproduction in fungi, along with heterokaryosis and morphogenesis. The next chapter explores reproduction in plant biology, focusing on vegetative and sexual reproduction, sex determination, and photoperiodism. This book concludes by considering the physiological mechanisms underlying the production of organs of perennation and the establishment of dormancy. This text will be of value both to graduate students and to established investigators with specific interest in plant physiology.

Les champignons ectomycorhiziens des arbres forestiers en Afrique de l'Ouest Amadou Bâ,Robin Duponnois,Moussa Diabaté,Bernard Dreyfus,2011 La symbiose ectomycorhizienne, phénomène naturel vieux d'environ 250 millions d'années, résulte d'une association mutualiste entre le mycélium d'un champignon du sol et les racines d'une plante hôte. Dans ce partenariat à deux, le champignon mobilise des nutriments du sol, en particulier le phosphore, au bénéfice de la plante hôte. En retour, le champignon reçoit de la plante hôte du carbone qu'il est incapable de fabriquer. La symbiose apporte une indéniable valeur ajoutée aux deux associés. Elle est ainsi au coeur des recherches pour optimiser les opérations de reboisement et de réhabilitation des sols dégradés et pour lutter contre la désertification. Cet ouvrage présente une synthèse des travaux sur les champignons ectomycorhiziens conduits par l'IRD et ses partenaires en Afrique de l'Ouest. Outre des données fondamentales sur la diversité et l'écologie de la symbiose, cet ouvrage décrit les méthodes d'étude des champignons, en particulier les techniques de mycorhization contrôlée, pratique sylvicole utilisée pour la production de plants forestiers. Un chapitre est consacré aux champignons comestibles, source de nourriture appréciée des populations qui peut également contribuer au développement socio-économique régional. L'ouvrage s'adresse à un large public (étudiants, chercheurs, enseignants, gestionnaires de l'environnement, décideurs) et constitue une référence actualisée sur les symbioses ectomycorhiziennes et leur impact dans les écosystèmes forestiers ouest-africains.

Filming History from Below Efrén Cuevas, 2022-01-11 Traditional historical documentaries strive to project a sense of objectivity, producing a top-down view of history that focuses on public events and personalities. In recent decades, in line with historiographical trends advocating “history from below,” a different type of historical documentary has emerged, focusing on tightly circumscribed subjects, personal archives, and first-person perspectives. Efrén Cuevas categorizes these films as “microhistorical documentaries” and examines how they push cinema’s capacity as a producer of historical knowledge in new directions. Cuevas pinpoints the key features of these documentaries, identifying their parallels with written microhistory: a reduced scale of observation, a central role given to human agency, a conjectural approach to the use of archival sources, and a reliance on narrative structures. Microhistorical documentaries also use tools specific to film to underscore the affective dimension of historical narratives, often incorporating autobiographical and essayistic perspectives, and highlighting the role of the protagonists’ personal memories in the reconstruction of the past. These films generally draw from family archives, with an emphasis on snapshots and home movies. Filming History from Below examines works including Péter Forgács’s films dealing with the Holocaust such as The Maelstrom and Free Fall; documentaries about the Israeli-Palestinian conflict; Rithy Panh’s work on the Cambodian genocide; films about the internment of Japanese Americans during the Second World War such as A Family Gathering and History and Memory; and Jonas Mekas’s chronicle of migration in his diary film Lost, Lost, Lost.

Catalogue of Geadephaga (Coleoptera, Adephaga) of America, north of Mexico Yves Bousquet, 2012-11-28 This publication provides a comprehensive review of the nomenclature and distribution of the Geadephaga of America, north of Mexico. Overall 2439 valid species-group taxa in 208 genera are catalogued along with their synonyms. Besides the usual information pertaining to author(s), date and page of publication, the type locality, location of name-bearing type, first reference establishing each synonym, and etymology for many patronymic names are provided for species-group names. Genus-group names are listed with the author(s), year of publication, page citation, type species with manner of fixation and etymology for most. The geographical distributions of all species-group taxa are briefly summarized and their state and province records are indicated. About 2500 references are listed with publication dates for many in order to assess priority of names. Several new nomenclatural acts are introduced including one new genus-group taxon, one new replacement name, three changes in precedence, five new genus-group synonymies, 65 new species-group synonymies, one new species-group status, and 12 new combinations. The work includes also a discussion of the notable private North American carabid collections, a synopsis of all extant world Geadephagan tribes and subfamilies, a brief faunistic assessment of the fauna, a list of North American fossil Geadephaga, a list of North American Geadephaga larvae described or illustrated, a list of species described from specimens mislabeled as from North America, and a list of unavailable names listed from North America.
