Fog Modification by Use of Helicopters Vernon G. Plank,1970 Results of helicopter clearing experiments conducted at the Greenbrier Valley Airport, Lewisburg, West Virginia, during the period 7 to 29 Sep 1969, are presented and discussed. Thirty-five hover experiments and runway- clearing experiments were performed on 10 separate days with fog layers ranging from 125 to 525 ft in depth. The hover experiments, which were successful in virtually all cases, yielded clearings that varied from 400 to 2800 ft in length extent. The largest clearings occurred with the shallowest fog during tests conducted within one hour or so of the natural dissipation time of the fog. The runway-clearing experiments were successful in clearing the full 6000 ft extent of the runway on two occasions, were partially successful on four occasions and were unsuccessful on 12 occasions. Six helicopter landings were accomplished through artificially-created clearings. Quantitative information is described concerning the wake penetration distances of the helicopters, the steady-state clearing times, the total entrainment (mixing) values and the persistence times of the clearings following helicopter departure from the test sites. The temperature, humidity and wind speed values within the cleared zones are also given for certain of the experiments.

Observing Photons in Space Martin C. E. Huber,Anuschka Pauluhn,J. Len Culhane,J. Gethyn Timothy,Klaus Wilhelm,Alex Zehnder,2013-12-11 An ideal resource for lecturers, this book provides a comprehensive review of experimental space astronomy. The number of astronomers whose knowledge and interest is concentrated on interpreting observations has grown substantially in the past decades; yet, the number of scientists who are familiar with and capable of dealing with instrumentation has dwindled. All of the authors of this work are leading and experienced experts and practitioners who have designed, built, tested, calibrated, launched and operated advanced observing equipment for space astronomy. This book also contains concise information on the history of the field, supported by appropriate references. Moreover, scientists working in other fields will be able to get a quick overview of the salient issues of observing photons in any one of the various energy, wavelength and frequency ranges accessible in space. This book was written with the intention to make it accessible to advanced undergraduate and graduate students.

Flow-Induced Alignment in Composite Materials T D Papathanasiou,D C Guell,1997-10-21 The purpose of aligning short fibres in a fibre-reinforced material is to improve the mechanical properties of the resulting composite. Aligning the fibres, generally in a preferred direction, allows them to contribute as much as possible to reinforcing the material. Flow induced alignment in composite materials details, in a single volume, the science, processing, applications, characterisation and properties of composite materials reinforced with short fibres that have been orientated in a preferred direction by flows arising during processing. The topics discussed include fibre alignment and materials rheology; processes that can produce fibre alignment in polymeric, liquid crystal polymeric, and metallic composites; materials characterization and mechanical properties; and modelling of processes and materials properties. The technology of fibre-reinforced composites is continually evolving and this book provides timely and much needed information about this important class of engineering materials. The book is an essential reference work for industry and an indispensable guide for the research worker, advanced student and materials scientist.
