Déjà New Marketing John Bradley Jackson,2010-06 Deja Vu. Have you ever had the feeling that you have experienced a sales and marketing challenge before, but were uncertain about what to do next? Have the conventional tools become less effective for you? You tried direct mail, networking, print advertising, and cold calling. Nothing seems to work anymore. Welcome to the new normal. New and different marketing techniques are needed for you to remain competitive and to stay in business. This new landscape is very complex: - Facebook, LinkedIn, and Twitter have replaced the water cooler as the customer hangout. - E-mail marketing letters are often considered SPAM and don't even get opened. - Bricks and mortar stores are now being trumped by websites that offer e-commerce, online chat, blogs, and deep discounts. - Personal selling has never been harder since customers seem to hide behind voice mail and e-mail. - Getting your website found in a Google search is increasingly difficult as the battle for keywords rages. You need to do something better and different --- you need Deja NEW Marketing. John Bradley Jackson is Director of the Center for Entrepreneurship at California State University, Fullerton and is an expert in marketing, sales, and new venture creation. Known affectionately as Professor JJ, Jackson brings street-savvy marketing and sales experience from both Silicon Valley and Wall Street. He is the author of First, Best, or Different: What Every Entrepreneur Needs to Know About Niche Marketing. His resume includes public speaker, blogger, philanthropist, and horseman. He lives in Yorba Linda, California with his wife and three children.

U. S. Postal Service DIANE Publishing Company,1996-10-01 In FY 1994, almost one-half of the USPS's total mail revenue of $47.7 billion was from bulk business mail; this represents over 118 billion pieces of the 177 billion pieces of mail processed. This document reports on the USPS's controls over postage paid on presorted/barcoded mailings submitted by business customers. Also evaluates the current system of controls for such mailings to assess whether those controls reasonably ensure that mailer-claimed discounts are granted only when earned. Charts and tables.

The New Economy and Beyond Dennis W. Jansen,2006-01-01 What is the New Economy, what makes it new, and what are the implications for antitrust, regulation and macroeconomic policy? Providing a non-technical and compelling analysis of the modern macro-economy, the contributors to this volume, eminent scholars all, provide their views on the New Economy from a variety of perspectives. The phrase The New Economy means many things to many people. It is often used to refer to the information economy, the high-tech economy, or to the explosive growth of the World Wide Web. It has also been used to refer to the expansion and stock market boom of the last decade. Despite these confusions and excesses in the term s usage, there is indeed something new about the New Economy. The initial set of three chapters explores what may be the defining feature the resurgence of productivity growth in the United States in the 1990s and its link to the IT revolution. Macroeconomic policy challenges are also discussed. The second set of papers concentrates on what is perhaps the second defining feature of the New Economy the idea of network economies. The contributors consider challenges for regulatory policy, look at internet pricing policies, and challenge some aspects of network economics. The volume concludes with a discussion of how the US postal service, an important exemplar of the changing world, responds to competition. Students, scholars and all those interested in gaining a better understanding of the global economy will find this volume a valuable resource.
