SCOTUS H. H. Charles,2021-10-19 At one time the Judiciary was believed to be the least dangerous branch of the government. Others, before the author, have recognized that this is no longer true if it ever was. SCOTUS: The Most Dangerous Branch reviews twelve key decisions of the Supreme Court beginning with a decision rendered before the Civil War down to one rendered in April 2021. These reviews are considered different from the many others that have rightfully criticized the results of these decisions. The review here parses each decision to show how a “Majority” of five has relied on selective choices to reach predetermined decisions that reflect their personal prejudices and political affiliations turning the third branch of our government into the Most Dangerous Branch to the preservation and enforcement of the rule of law and Constitutional guarantees for all Americans.

Contemporary Issues Shaping China's Civil Aviation Policy Alan Williams,2016-05-13 The emergence of China as a future major participant in international aviation raises some interesting questions, especially from a strategic policy perspective. The progressive shift from a command to a mixed market economy under the central leadership of the Beijing administration now finds itself faced with the needs to balance a strategic duality in the context of the role of China's civil aviation industry. In a very real sense this situation requires the design and accommodation of a growing role for China's mainstream carriers within the operational context of the need to meet the complex challenges from increasing international market competition. In parallel with such major external pressures, central government must also accommodate domestic priorities with regard to internal economic development. The fruits of economic progress as a function of market reform are commonly understood to have positively reshaped the lives of only a proportion of the national population to date. The need to create greater access to economic growth for the more remote western and northern provinces has required that the rapid development of airports become a factor in the planning and allocation of developmental priorities. To complicate matters further, prevailing requirements of airspace defence remain a major parameter within the larger context of national aviation policy. This book explores the political, economic and strategic issues raised by the inevitable tension between the domestic and international aspects of Beijing's current civil aviation strategy. It also seeks to identify some of the problems that face the industry as a key sector in the larger context of macroeconomic reform and the further pressures now being exerted by China's membership of the WTO.
