Learning How to Write My ABC's C. Ingram, ECE,2015-10-16 Learning how to write the alphabet using upper and lower case fonts can be a daunting task for a young child. This 80 plus page workbook will make the task easier and fun. The child is asked to write the alphabet in a lined space using upper and lower case fonts. Depending on the age of the child, the end results may or may not be within the line spaces. This is O.K. and is expected. What's important is the child is empowered by learning to write the alphabet on his or her own. Repetition is consistent as the child goes through 26 letters in the alphabet three times. The first group of alphabet requires the child to draw a picture of the word that corresponds with each alphabet. This task is designed to help the child to remember the sound associated with each letter. The second set of alphabets requires the child to practice writing each letter in upper case. The third set of alphabet is used to practice writing in lower case. Once the child understands what is required of him or her, they can be left alone to work at their own pace.
