Business Communication: Theory and Application Raymond Vincent Lesikar,1972

Information Systems and Business Communication Raymond W. Beswick, Alfred B. Williams, 1983 Intended to provide orientation about the integration of business communication, business systems, and the researching and teaching of business communication, this book offers articles on a variety of topics concerning business communication. Titles of the articles and their authors are as follows: (1) Office Technology: Voice Store-and-Forward (Raymond W. Beswick); (2) The Integration of DP and WP (Mona J. Casady); (3) Automating the Small Business Office (Peter B. Clarke); (4) The Database: A Tool for the Business Researcher (Marie E. Flatley); (5) Introducing Dictation/Word Processing Systems in Business Writing Classes (Jeanne W. Halpern); (6) Audio Teleconferencing: A Practical Experience (Richard J. Knecht); (7) The Technology of Word Processing (Zane K. Quible); (8) Teleconferencing (N. L. Reinsch, Jr.); (9) Electronic Mail: How Will It Change Office Communication? How Can Managers Use It Effectively? (Judith Stein and JoAnne Yates); and (10) Telecommuting (Alfred B. Williams). A list of vendor references is included. (SRT)

Communication in a Business Setting Dave Tofanelli, 2009-09-01 In the 1970s, employees worked in offices. Communication was primarily face-to-face, by telephone, and through the mail. In the 1980s, we moved out of offices and into cubicles, and began using computers. As we entered the 1990s, computers became more portable, PDAs were born, and we began working from home. By 2008, 60 percent of the world's population had a mobile device capable of voice and data communications. The future of business communications is a fully interconnected world where every employee will access, create and use content from anywhere. Mobile communications is the fastest growing technology in history and is also the most effective technology known to enable individuals to participate in the global economy. There are cell phones, PDAs, e-mail, instant messaging, virtual meetings, text messaging, and now even digital video. At the same time, companies want to keep their employees connected anytime or anywhere. This requires interoperability with various wireless devices. Employees are no longer tied to their desktops, and they want the same communications options on the road or from home that they have in the office. Face-to-face communication is quickly becoming a lost art in this age of e-mail, texting and voicemail. But ultimately, when it comes to engaging an audience or making a compelling sales presentation, business is still driven by personal communication. High technology sets the stage, but speaking face-to-face seals the deal. Lack of communicative ability plagues many corporations, and the professionals that rise to the top are overwhelming those that develop communication approaches that achieve results. But, communicating with influence takes work and requires constant attention. This text will assist you in defining business communication, examine types of communication, explain how successful communication takes place, and suggest ways of improving communication in the business setting.

Effective E-mail Made E-Z Verne Meyer, Patrick Sebranek, John Van Rys, 2006 The team that developed Effective E-Mail Made E-Z polled businesspeople about their experience with e-mail. Here are some of their responses: We came to realize that our company's image rests with every employee who writes or answers e-mail. We spend a lot of time opening and reading e-mail. If the message is clear, this is time well spent. But when the messages require further e-mails to explain the original e-mail, time is wasted. I often wonder: Should I use a greeting? If so, what kind of greeting? I usually use Sincerely for my closing, but I notice that most of the international e-mails close with Regards. Should I use Regards? If I'm sending an e-mail to Sweden, do I write dates like we do here in the United States, or should I write them like they do in Sweden? Right now our biggest need is to learn how to use e-mail to better manage our teams of workers. Our second challenge is to implement an e-mail policy.

The Manager's Communication Toolbox Everett Chasen, Bob Putnam, 2012 Every manager should excel in their ability to communicate with employees in order to increase employee engagement, productivity, and retention. Strengthen your skills and become a better manager today!

Communication for Business and the Professions Malra Treece, 1983 The bestselling text in its field, International Relations is praised for being the most current and comprehensive introduction to international relations theory as well as security, economic, and global issues. From war and trade to human rights and the environment, this survey explores relations among states and the influence of transnational actors and events.
