Immunotherapy and Small Molecule Inhibitors as Combinational Cancer Therapeutics Mohd Wajid Ali Khan,Shariq Qayyum,Saravanan Rajendrasozhan,Subhash Kumar Tripathi,Mohammad Azhar Aziz,2023-09-26 Cancer is a multifactorial chronic disease, in which several factors contribute to its pathogenesis and progression. Our immune system is designed to continuously identify and destroy tumor or aberrant cells. However, a compromised immune system has been associated with the development of cancer. In such immune state, cancer cells often develop the ability to hide from the immune surveillance network and adopt intelligent survival tactics which are continuously developing. Therefore, researchers are focusing on boosting anti-tumor immunity by developing novel cancer immunotherapies. Adoptive cell-based cancer therapies are being used, including in vitro expansion and activation of immune effector cells and transfer to the patients. Tumor cells can be eliminated either by directly targeting the tumor cells or by enhancing various functions of the immune system. Other than CD8+ and NK cell-based cytotoxic cancer cell killing, there are antigen-presenting cells (APCs) such as dendritic, macrophages, B cells, and γδ T cells, which aggressively participate in the activation of anti-tumor immune response against many different cancers (myeloma, lymphoma, colorectal, melanoma, breast, colon, prostate, and ovarian cancers).

Gender and Politics in Kuwait Meshal Al-Sabah,2013-07-11 The role of women in politics in the Gulf is a much-debated and often little-understood subject in the West. In Gender and Politics in Kuwait the author sheds new light on the struggle of Kuwaiti women for political participation, examining both the positions women hold in society and politics, and the discourses surrounding feminism and civil rights. He charts the history of women and their contribution to the Kuwaiti state, from independence and the writing of the constitution in the 1960s, through the Iraqi occupation in 1990, to the struggle for the right to vote and stand for election in the twenty-first century. Drawing on the experiences of women in a range of roles in Kuwaiti society, including government, education, employment, civil society and the media, this is a comprehensive examination of gender politics and its impact in the Middle East.
