The Evil Twins of American Television Kristi Rowan Humphreys,2019-08-22 The Evil Twins of American Television examines evil-twin depictions in over fifty years of television. Employing the “schizophrenic split” theory of Betty Friedan, Humphreys analyzes the ways in which these alter ego characters embody the desire for a separate self and independence.

Inside Gilligan's Island Sherwood Schwartz,2011-04-13 While every new TV series has to face some problems, no show had to overcome greater obstacles than Gilligan's Island. In spite of that, no series has achieved greater success, as measured by the fact that Gilligan's Island has given rise to three TV movies, two animated series, and is the most rerun program in the entire history of television. Now, Sherwood Schwartz, creator, writer, and producer of Gilligan's Island, tells the life story of the show: from the labor pains of scripting, casting, and production to its golden years of afternoon reruns. Fascinating history that could be known only by the show's creator is enhanced by wonderful photos, sketches, and other illustrations from the author's personal collection, as well as the guest forewords by all seven Castaways. An appendix lists plots, writers and directors for every episode. All this behind-the-scenes information makes the book a special treat, not only for fans, but for anyone interested in an inside look at the television industry.

What America Watched Marsha Ann Tate,Earl Houser,2022-01-14 Although television critics have often differed with the public with respect to the artistic and cultural merits of television programming, over the last half-century television has indubitably influenced popular culture and vice versa. No matter what reasons are cited--the characters, the actors, the plots, the music--television shows that were beloved by audiences in their time remain fondly remembered. This study covers the classic period of popular television shows from the 1960s through the 1990s, focusing on how regular viewers interacted with television shows on a personal level. Bridging popular and scholarly approaches, this book discovers what America actually watched and why through documents, footage, visits to filming locations, newspapers, and magazine articles from the shows' eras. The book features extensive notes and bibliography.

Universal Terrors, 1951-1955 Tom Weaver, David Schecter, Robert J. Kiss, 2017-09-11 Universal Studios created the first cinematic universe of monsters--Dracula, Frankenstein, the Mummy and others became household names during the 1930s and 1940s. During the 1950s, more modern monsters were created for the Atomic Age, including one-eyed globs from outer space, mutants from the planet Metaluna, the Creature from the Black Lagoon, and the 100-foot high horror known as Tarantula. This over-the-top history is the definitive retrospective on Universal's horror and science fiction movies of 1951-1955. Standing as a sequel to Tom Weaver, Michael Brunas and John Brunas's Universal Horrors (Second Edition, 2007), it covers eight films: The Strange Door, The Black Castle, It Came from Outer Space, Creature from the Black Lagoon, This Island Earth, Revenge of the Creature, Cult of the Cobra and Tarantula. Each receives a richly detailed critical analysis, day-by-day production history, interviews with filmmakers, release information, an essay on the score, and many photographs, including rare behind-the-scenes shots.

Religion and Popular Culture in America Bruce David Forbes, Jeffrey H. Mahan, 2005-11-17 The connection between American popular culture and religion is the subject of this multifaceted and innovative collection. In fourteen lively essays whose topics range from the divine feminine in The Da Vinci Code to Madonna's Like a Prayer, and from the world of sports to the ways in which cyberculture has influenced traditional religions, this book offers fascinating insights into what popular culture reveals about the nature of American religion today. Revised throughout, this new edition features three new essays—including a fascinating look at the role of women in apocalyptic fiction such as the Left Behind series—and editor Bruce David Forbes has written a new introduction. In addition to the new textual material, each chapter concludes with a set of suggested discussion questions.

Polyptych: Adaptation, Television, and Comics Reginald Wiebe, 2021-09-07 Through each of its chapters, 'Polyptych: Adaptation, Television, and Comics' examines the complex dynamics of adapting serialized texts. The transmedial adaptation of collaborative and unstable texts does not lend itself to the same strategies as other, more static adaptations such as novels or plays. Building off the foundational work of Linda Hutcheon and Gérard Genette, Polyptych considers the analogy of adaptation as a palimpsest—a manuscript page that has been reused, leaving traces of the previous work behind—as needing to be reevaluated. A polyptych is a multi-panel artwork and provides a new model for analyzing how adaptation works when translating collaborative and unstable texts. Given that most television and comic books are episodic and serialized, and considering that both media are also the cumulative work of many artists, this book offers a series of distanced readings to reassess how adaptation works in this field. Comic book adaptations on television are plentiful and are nearly completely ignored in critical discussions of adaptation. This collection focuses on texts that fall outside the most common subjects of study among the corpus and contributes to expanding the field of inquiry. The book features texts that are subjects of previous academic interest, as well as studies of texts that have never before been critically considered. It also includes an appendix that provides the first list of comic book adaptations on North American television. 'Polyptych' is a unique and timely contribution to dynamic and growing fields of study. The book will be of interest to scholars and researchers in the fields of Comic Studies, Adaptation Studies, and Critical Media Studies more broadly, as well as to students undertaking courses on these subjects. It will also appeal to comic book and pop culture fans who wish to expand their knowledge on the subject.

Ginger--the hot, voluptuous, and wanton movie star temptress? Or Mary Ann--the sweet, innocent, and fetching farmgirl extraordinaire? You are about to experience tropical paradise of a whole other order as we venture to a place where the TV cameras of yesteryear were never allowed to go! Note: due to copyright law, the characters' names have been altered slightly. Here is a brief taste: Gina, it's okay, the Captain went on soothingly. Please don't cry. You're a very beautiful woman. Why, you're the most beautiful and sexy woman we've ever seen! Gina looked up, sniffing. Even better than Mary Lynn? The Captain's mouth opened and closed. Well, I wouldn't really know for sure about that. I mean, we haven't exactly seen--Gina glanced down at her incredible body, poorly hidden inside her glittering peach evening dress. So, you wouldn't know? She reached back and unzipped it. Then she pushed both straps from her shoulders. The dress fell to the ground in a gorgeous peachy puddle. Holy Moby Dick! the Captain groaned. Um, I think you dropped something, Finnegan replied, licking his upper lip. So, you wouldn't know, she repeated as she reached back and unfastened her bra, pulled it off, and dropped it to the ground. Then she drew her hands across her mango-sized mammaries. Slowly. Tauntingly. Sweet Jesus! the Captain breathed, his eyes, too, now bulging. Sweet move! Finnegan enthused, nodding emphatically and drooling out of both sides of his mouth. And what about these nipples? She dragged her fingertips across their pinkish-brown goodness. Do they at least meet your male standards? Mother of King Neptune, yes! the Captain reassured her. Finnegan just kept nodding like a wind-up toy. Now Gina was hooking her thumbs inside the waistband of her matching panties. Seconds later, she pulled them down over her never-ending thighs, then stepped out of them. When she was finished, she crossed one leg in front of the other, struck a mouth-watering pinup girl pose, smiled seductively, and waited. Good god! the Captain gushed. After three years of blue balls... Finnegan murmured. Aren't I curvy enough? Gina asked as she ran her hands from her thighs, around her hips, past her breasts, then straight up over her head. You're curvy enough for us! Finnegan replied. Well, what about my ass? She pirouetted slowly and caressed her exquisite cheeks for them. Isn't it at least almost as nice as Mary Lynn's? God, yes! the Captain and Finnegan answered in unison. Gina turned back and dropped her eyes toward the straining bulges in their pants. Well, it looks like your two little shipmates want to come out and play, too, she commented dryly. Why don't you let them out for a breath of fresh air?

Spy, 1995-03 Smart. Funny. Fearless. It's pretty safe to say that Spy was the most influential magazine of the 1980s. It might have remade New York's cultural landscape; it definitely changed the whole tone of magazine journalism. It was cruel, brilliant, beautifully written and perfectly designed, and feared by all. There's no magazine I know of that's so continually referenced, held up as a benchmark, and whose demise is so lamented --Dave Eggers. It's a piece of garbage --Donald Trump.

Agnes Moorehead on Radio, Stage and Television Axel Nissen, 2017-10-12 In a career spanning six decades, Agnes Moorehead (1900-1974) was perhaps unique among 20th-century American actresses in making her name in four entertainment media--radio, theater, film and television--after age 40. Focusing on 25 of her most representative performances, this retrospective analyzes her work on radio serials like Mayor of the Town (1942-1949) and Suspense (1942-1962), her stage productions of Don Juan in Hell and Gigi, her television appearances on Bewitched and The Twilight Zone and her Emmy-winning appearance on The Wild Wild West. The author presents Moorehead's roles in the context of her personal life, discusses her relationship with directors, producers and other performers and provides little known facts about the productions.
