Helicopter Flying Handbook (Federal Aviation Administration): FAA-H-8083-21A Federal Aviation Administration, 2018-09-15 The Helicopter Flying Handbook is designed as a technical manual for applicants who are preparing for their private, commercial, or flight instructor pilot certificates with a helicopter class rating.

Certificated flight instructors may find this handbook a valuable training aid, since detailed coverage of aerodynamics, flight controls, systems, performance, flight maneuvers, emergencies, and aeronautical decision-making is included. Topics such as weather, navigation, radio navigation and communications, use of flight information publications, and regulations are available in other Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) publications. This handbook conforms to pilot training and certification concepts established by the FAA. There are different ways of teaching, as well as performing, flight procedures and maneuvers, and many variations in the explanations of aerodynamic theories and principles.

Category II Low Temperature Evaluation of a YUH-1D Helicopter in the Arctic Billy L. White, 1963 The model YUH-1D helicopter was tested at temperatures down to -51 F in the Arctic at Eielson AFB, Alaska, during the period of 20 December 1962 through 17 January 1963. This report presents the data that was collected during the test and a discussion and analysis of the low temperature deficiencies that were encountered. The most significant deficiencies that were encountered were excessive engine oil pressure during starts below -20 F and erratic operation of the bleed-air driven fuel boost pump. The helicopter can be expected to operate successfully in an Arctic environment if corrective action is taken as outlined in the recommendations of this report.

Human Engineering Laboratory Helicopter Acquisition Test (HELHAT) John A. Barnes, 1974 The U.S. Army Human Engineering Laboratory conducted a series of flight tests in 1972 (HELHAT I) and 1973 (HELHAT II) in which the low-level target acquisition performances of combat-trained OH-58 and AH-1 helicopter crewmen were measured. The stationary targets used were both ordnance and high-visibility box-type targets. This study contains all of the data gathered during these tests and also reports on the 25 performance variables measured for each of the 851 recorded target acquisitions. These variables were used to form the linear equations which were analyzed by the use of a step-wise multiple-regression technique in order to identify the variables contributing to stationary target acquisition performance. There were 831 acquisitions recorded during the low-level route reconnaissance flights flown at above the ground levels of 80 to approximately 400 feet and 20 acquisitions recorded during the six nap-of-the-earth 's' search reconnaissance flights flown at above the ground levels of 1 to approximately 40 feet.

It provides troubleshooting information and theory of operation information for the Army AH-64A Helicopter only.

US Helicopter Pilot in Vietnam Gordon L. Rottman, 2011-09-20 The helicopter changed war forever. This book examines the range of duties helicopter pilots carried out in Vietnam, from air-lift, med-evac and fire-support to landing in high volume crossfires in 'Hot LZs'. Protected by little more than an armoured seat, operating in terrible conditions and flying long hours these brave men led hard, dangerous lives, and casualties were high. Following these pilots from initial deployment through to the deadly thrill of combat in a war zone, Vietnam veteran Gordon L Rottman's book is a crucial examination of the pilots who fought so valiantly for their country. Often unmoved by the politics of the war, conflicts at home and other social issues, the Vietnam helicopter pilots just wanted to fly. As the saying went 'who needs drugs, I'm already high'.

The Captive Helicopter as a Training Device Paul W. Caro,Robert N. Isley,Oran B. Jolley,1968 The research objective was to determine the effectiveness of a new device concept for helicopter contact flight training and the usefulness of such a device for predicting performance during subsequent flight training. The device was a commercially available captive helicopter attached to a ground effects machine. Two experimental groups of trainees received 3 1/4 or 7 1/4 hours of device training prior to primary helicopter training. In comparison with control groups, both device trained groups (a) were significantly less likely to be eliminated from subsequent flight training for reasons of flying deficiency; (b) required less flight training to attain the proficiency required to solo the helicopter; and (c) received higher grades during early training. Trainees who performed well on the training device tended to perform well during subsequent flight training. Instructors using devices such as this one need not be proficient in the helicopter used for subsequent flight training. (Author).
