Precarious Spaces Katarzyna Kosmala,Miguel Imas,2016 Using an arts-based inquiry, Precarious spaces addresses current concerns around the instrumentality and agency of art in the context of the precarity of daily life. The book offers a survey of socially and community-engaged art practices in South America, focusing in particular on Brazil s informal situation, and contributes much to the ongoing debate of the possibility for change through social, environmental, and ecological solutions. The individual chapters, compiled by Katarzyna Kosmala and Miguel Imas, present a wide spectrum of contemporary social agency models with a particular emphasis on detailed case studies and local histories. Featuring critical reflections on the spaces of urban voids, derelict buildings, self-built communities such as favela, and roadside occupations, Precarious spaces will make readers question their assumptions about precarity, and life in precarious realms.

Intelligent Mobile Autonomous System (IMAS). A. M. Meystel,DREXEL UNIV PHILADELPHIA PA DEPT OF ELECTRICAL AND COMPUTER ENGINEERING.,1987 This report concludes the research initiated in 1983 with the objective to contribute to fundamentals of the new emerging area of autonomous robotics. The goal of this research is to develop a theory of design and functioning of Intelligent Mobile Autonomous Systems (IMAS) to be utilized for solving various problems of combat engineering. It was the initiative of the research team to combine the fundamental research with the experimental analysis of the IMAS testbed. This work has premises different from those determined in the corresponding DARPA research. It started before the DARPA program (at January 1983), and is based upon the scientific principles, that at the time of the beginning of the research, were pioneering in this area. This research resulted in creation of a theory of nested hierarchical systems and in particular, of the structure of a multiresolutional nonhomogeneous system of representation interacting with a similarly built planning/control system (PLANNER-NAVIGATOR-PILOT-CONTROLLER). The hierarchical nested structure, together with the unique structure of knowledge-representation, as well as capabilities of minimum-time dynamic navigation, and the knowledge-based controller, are promising for IMAS, and are expected to be expanded into the domain of multilink manipulators as well. Testing has confirmed the viability of scientific premises, and has clarified the program of subsequent analysis and scientific research.

Understanding the Emotional Disorders David Watson,Michael W. O'Hara,2017-03-23 Improving the measurement of symptoms of emotional disorders has been an important goal of mental health research. In direct response to this need, the Expanded Version of the Inventory of Depression and Anxiety Symptoms (IDAS-II) was developed to assess symptom dimensions underlying psychological disorders. Unlike other scales that serve as screening instruments used for diagnostic purposes, the IDAS-II is not closely tethered to the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM); rather, its scales cut across DSM boundaries to examine psychopathology in a dimensional rather than a categorical way. Developed by authors David Watson and Michael O'Hara, the IDAS-II has broad implications for our understanding of psychopathology. Understanding the Emotional Disorders is the first manual for how to use the IDAS-II and examines important, replicable symptom dimensions contained within five adjacent diagnostic classes in the DSM-5: depressive disorders, bipolar and related disorders, anxiety disorders, obsessive-compulsive and related disorders, and trauma- and stressor-related disorders. It reviews problems and limitations associated with traditional, diagnosis-based approaches to studying psychopathology and establishes the theoretical and clinical value of analyzing specific types of symptoms within the emotional disorders. It demonstrates that several of these disorders contain multiple symptom dimensions that clearly can be differentiated from one another. Moreover, these symptom dimensions are highly robust and generalizable and can be identified in multiple types of data, including self-ratings, semi-structured interviews, and clinicians' ratings. Furthermore, individual symptom dimensions often have strikingly different correlates, such as varying levels of criterion validity, incremental predictive power, and diagnostic specificity. Consequently, it is more informative to examine these specific types of symptoms, rather than the broader disorders. The book concludes with the development of a more comprehensive, symptom-based model that subsumes various forms of psychopathology-including sleep disturbances, eating- and weight-related problems, personality pathology, psychosis/thought disorder, and hypochondriasis-beyond the emotional disorders.

Namaku Imas Binti Saidah,2021-04-01 Imas adalah tokoh sentral dalam novel ini. Seorang anak perempuan yang mengalami “metamorfosis” sebagaimana halnya makhluk hidup di muka bumi ini. Sejak kecil Imas muncul sebagai sosok yang unik, dimanja di antara keluarganya, tetapi juga menjadi bahan olok-olok oleh lingkungannya, terutama pamannya yang tidak menginginkan Imas tumbuh menjadi anak yang cengeng. Kecengengan Imas, sebenarnya bukan sebuah tanda kelemahan psikologis seseorang, walau kadang lingkungannya menganggap hal tersebut cengeng atau kekanak-kanakan, kolokan. Tetapi sebagai sebuah pribadi, keanekaragaman sifat dan sikap itu adalah hal yang jamak.

Factor X Michael Angrick,Andreas Burger,Harry Lehmann,2013-11-26 The editors of Factor X explore and analyze this trajectory, predicting scarcities of non-renewable materials such as metals, limited availability of ecological capacities and shortages arising from geographic concentrations of materials. They argue that what is needed is a radical change in the ways we use nature's resources to produce goods and services and generate well-being. The goal of saving our ecosystem demands a prompt and decisive reduction of man-induced material flows. Before 2050, they assert, we must achieve a significant decrease in consumption of resources, in the line with the idea of a factor 10 reduction target. EU-wide and country specific targets must be set, and enforced using strict, accurate measurement of consumption of materials. Their arguments are drawn from empirical evidence and observations, as well as theoretical considerations based on economic modeling and on natural science.
