🔍 WEHRMACHT KANISTER 20 LITER Philippe Leger, Stéphane Arquille, 2015-01-19 The Jerrycan, prolific in its use for nearly 80 years after its birth, deserves a specific and thorough study of its origins in Germany. Never addressed in a single work and prefaced by the grandson of one of the founding developers of the receptacle, with the variety of gas and water cans illustrating its widespread diversity. Here we have presented the most common to the most rare in a single catalog containing about 150 models. Multiple manufacturers are presented here by chapter with brief histories of each, from automotive suppliers, coachbuilders, producers of kitchen utensils, industrial conglomerates, etc. The Wehrmacht Kanister 20 liter develops all the themes appropriate to this revolutionary canister: from the original offering of the 1936 Waffenamt to post-war manufactures and industrialized uses, incidental accessories to export models and markings painted on the drums during the fuel shortages of the Third Reich. Fifty unpublished period photographs present the distribution chain and the use of the Kanister in the Wehrmacht. Various profiles and charts complement this book.

🔍 THE DEATH OF ETERNITY Adamu Kyuka Usman, 2012-06-25 Tibor, a Hungarian eco activist, has some shocking news for the residents of the West African village of Nunsä: they are at the centre of a new Bermuda Triangle in which industrial pollution, HIV/AIDS, and terrorism combined to create an environment from which no one may escape alive. Faced with ignorance, corruption, and assassination plots, Tibor must adopt increasingly extreme methods. But how far is he prepared to go in his campaign of terror? Is terrorism the only means of change? Will even that be enough to prevent the ultimate threat to all living creatures the death of eternity?

🔍 DEVELOPMENT OF A DECENTRALIZED DRINKING WATER TREATMENT PLANT BASED ON MEMBRANE TECHNOLOGY FOR RURAL AREAS IN VIETNAM Ngoc Dao Trinh, 2018-06-28 Membrane technology with effective removal of microbial contaminants has been applied widely in drinking water treatment (DWT), but its sustainable and efficient application in rural areas still needs practical research. Backflushing and chemical cleaning are well investigated for membrane-based systems. However, these methods are not always followed properly and in full, especially in cases of applications for remote areas in developing countries. Important key challenges in real world applications are how the system would actually sustain with unskilled personnel, with no electric power for backflushing or with no chemical cleaning on the long run. These challenges were addressed within the framework of this dissertation. A dead-end ultrafiltration (UF) with flat-sheet membranes was configured to a stationary DWT system working with low pressure and simplest maintenance, in combination with a suitable chlorination solution without energy demand. In the literature review of this dissertation, an overview of many up-to-date membrane based systems in different categories of use is given in detail, covering different aspects of technology, service efficiency and economics. Hydraulic performance of membrane-based systems is normally studied in lab-scale in limited periods from hours to days. Thus, highlight of this research is the investigation of a full-scale demonstration plant based on UF flat-sheet membrane with pore size of 40 nm, conducted in the Hydraulic Workshop at the University of Kassel, operated continuously day and night for long-term tests. The long-term examination focused on many aspects, from hydraulic performance including flux, permeability, transmembrane pressure, efficiency of the simple membrane cleaning methods, to biological quality of treated water and also efficiency of chlorination by using a mechanical chlorine dosing device. During long-term examination, the phenomenon of gas generation from the water in the plant was recognized. The influence of this phenomenon on the permeate flow rate was evaluated and solution for this problem by the gas trapping device was investigated in this research. The experimental results from long-term examination of the Pilot Plant at the University of Kassel served for the materialization of the system into life. Two DWT plants were implemented in a rural village in southern Vietnam. It could be proved that the product of this research is realistically an economic relief of the long lasted insufficient supply to the crucial demand for safe water in the rural communities of developing countries.

🔍 THE KOB ANTELOPE WOMAN AND OTHER HUMAN-ANIMAL FOLKTALES FROM THE MWAGHAVUL OF NIGERIA Peace Sorochi Longdet, 2021-05-10 The Kob Antelope Woman and Other Human-Animal Folktales from the Mwaghavul of Nigeria is a collection of thirty-eight indigenous folktales from the Mwaghavul people, an indigenous community in the central zone of the present Plateau State of Nigeria. These folktales are well cherished by the Mwaghavul people. Folktales are rich and authentic sources of African values. Used deliberately to inculcate positive values in children, they are, therefore, didactic and morality-laden. These tales contain unique cultural knowledge. This book is written in a bilingual style and the translation is done with precision and clarity in order not to lose the flavour of its original form. The tales, though traditional, include contemporary real-life lessons and insights from a wide spectrum of experiences.

🔍 DU KANISTER AU JERRYCAN Philippe Leger, 2008 Surprisingly, given it's ubiquity, very little has been written on the subject of the Jerrycan over the years--only a small number of articles published in magazines about history or vehicles refer to it in any detail. This book relates the story of this ingenious container, bringing together in one collection, documents, many color photographs (particularly valuable to collectors), as well as different points of view on this topic from a wide variety of sources. Industrial production of the Kanister started in 1937 in Germany, then in 1941 the USA created its own gas can, inspired by the German model. British production started only in 1942. Italy also manufactured the taniche for its army, but due to the absence of dates for the Italian version, it is hard to say exactly when production was launched. Finally, towards the end of the conflict, in 1944, France started to manufacture different models, with varying degrees of success. Seventy years after it was first used by the German army, the original design of the Jerrycan remains in production today for civilian use, and is still employed by a few armies around the world. Lighter models in PVC have now replaced the original steel model in the US army. But that is another story. Philippe Leger was born in 1955. A hospital nurse, he is a World War II fanatic and avid collector. REVIEWS ...I've never seen such a comprehensive look at the subject, and I'm sure it will not be surpassed...superb. ModelMadness, 08/2008 Lavishly illustrated, meticulously researched and documented, this new book explores everything you could want to know about the ubiquitous Jerrycan. Internet Modeler, 11/2008 ...a must have for military historians and collectors alike. IPMS, 11/2008

🔍 LIQUID CHURCH Tim Lucas, Warren Bird, 2019-09-10 In today's fluid culture, many churches are adrift--longing to reach spiritually thirsty people, but failing to make an impact. Have you noticed? Congregations are stuck or declining. Millennials and Gen Z are walking away. Volunteers and their generosity are drying up. Is your city, town, or neighborhood spiritually dry? Do you long to see more of the living water of Jesus flowing freely through your community, generating a fresh wave of ministry momentum? Buckle up: you're in for a whitewater ride! Liquid Church tells the fascinating story of a New Jersey church that began on accident and grew into one of America's 100 fastest-growing churches, with over 5,000 in weekly attendance and more than 2,400 baptisms to date. Their secret? They harnessed the power of six powerful ministry currents sweeping across North America including: special needs, creative communication, ministry mergers, compassionate cause, radical generosity, and leadership development. With powerful stories and scriptural insights, backed by national research, Tim Lucas and Warren Bird describe dozens of fresh ideas, new ministry wineskins, and hard-won leadership learnings that resonate with rising generations in today's show-then-tell culture. Each chapter includes practical tools, real-life examples, and links to other churches making waves with cutting-edge ministry ideas designed to help saturate your city for Christ. Ready to dive deeper? Whether you serve a brand-new church plant, fast-growing congregation, or an aging ministry ready for reinvention, Liquid Church is an inspiring and practical guide for leaders ready to reach their spiritually thirsty neighbors--those who have given up on church, but haven't given up on God.

🔍 SECURING SAFE WATER SUPPLIES Erik Voigt, Henry Jaeger, Dietrich Knorr, 2013 Available water disinfection systems rely mainly on large-scale filtration and the combination of filtration (to remove solids), and subsequent application of chemical disinfectants. This has proven to produce water of acceptable quality. Important points for application in household systems are low complexity, few training requirements, and easy transportation and distribution as well as a sufficiently high acceptance by the user. Written and endorsed by the European Federation of Food Science and Technology this book compares a variety of purification systems. There is a growing evidence base on targeting water quality
