Remote Network Monitoring System Pakeeza Samin,Rabia Riaz,Madiha Javied,2014-02 The concept is to develop the application that facilitates the Network Administrator by monitoring remote workstations in a LAN via server. Server can monitor hardware and software resources of workstation of LAN. RNMS is the way to monitor resources and in case of malfunctioning, updated information is available to inform administrator about the problem. These problems can arise due to the missing of hardware devices that can be detected. Hardware and software inventory information is also available in RNMS. Remote computers can also be restarted and shut downed remotely. All pc's can be shut downed by clicking one button. This feature is very useful at lab closing time.

  A Scalable Wireless LAN Monitoring and Auditing Scheme Shukri Afnan,2014-12-05 Promiscuous monitoring of Wi-Fi networks has often been a source of confusion. It appears logical that if any Ethernet adapter can be used for promiscuous mode monitoring in a wired Ethernet network, then any Wireless Ethernet adapter is equally good for doing the same in a 802.11 a, b, or g network. Theoretically, this is true, but in practice, this is very far from reality because not all wireless NICs support promiscuous mode. Therefore to solve the problem related to wireless NICs and when all we need to monitor is the traffic between wireless stations and the internet; the proposed network layout by using a standard, non-wireless monitor on a mirror port would make it possible to capture the packets being sent and received through the access point . In addition, a software monitoring system named Effective Wireless Monitoring Tool has been built to help the network administrator to discover network problems as soon as possible.The proposed system achieves its goals by sniffing, capturing, and analyzing the network traffic data packets without affecting or interfering with the network information flow by configuring the network in promiscuous mode.

Zenoss Core Network & System Monitoring Michael Badger,2008 Implement Zenoss core and fit it into your security management environment using this easy-to-understand tutorial guide.For system administrators, network engineers, and security analysts, it is essential to keep a track of network traffic. At some point it will be necessary to read the network traffic directly instead of monitoring application level details. Network security audits, debug network configurations, and usage patterns analyzing can all require network traffic monitoring. This task can be achieved by using network monitoring software, or network sniffers, that sniff the traffic and display it on your computer on the network.
