The Race for Containment □□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□ An Overview of the Coronavirus and the Measures Taken to Avoid an Epidemic ROBYN CURNOW, CNN ANCHOR So, scientists are trying to figure out just how quickly this virus is spreading. Of course, we've heard from Xi Jinping that it's accelerating, but how dangerous is it as well? Sanjay Gupta explains for us. Sanjay. DR. SANJAY GUPTA, CNN CORRESPONDENT One of the questions we get often is: how similar is this to SARS? And it's worth pointing out that this is the same family of viruses—this new virus and the SARS virus. You can take a look at it, there. That's the coronavirus. It's named that because corona is crown, and you can see that has a crown. What we know is that some time in December, the virus started spreading from animals to humans. We knew that that was happening, and then we also learned that it was spreading [from] human to human—that's what really got the public health's [health] communities' attention on this. And what we now know is that this is spreading [from] human to human, fourth generation, which is exactly what it sounds like—someone spreads it to someone else, they spread it to several more people, and so on and so on. And that's where the spread and the concern about this becoming more widespread really comes from. Now, when you look at a pathogen like this … take a quick look at this box … there's [there are] two things that matter, really: how quickly it spreads—what I was just talking about—and then, how deadly it is. If it's not that deadly [and] doesn't spread that much, that would put you in the A box. The concern is … the worst-case scenario is that this goes into the D box, there—highly transmissible and highly lethal as well. As far as the containment efforts, I mean, it's chaos, as you've probably seen now in … at least in this area—around Wuhan. Tens of millions of people who are on lockdown—meaning they're not allowing vehicles in or vehicles to go out. This is a … it's a very strong policy; it's an aggressive policy; it's typically a policy that is done later in stages of an outbreak as opposed to this early. And it's unclear whether China's just being very aggressive or whether they are dealing with data that we are not yet familiar with because it is an aggressive policy over there. They're also recommending everyone wear masks, for example, in Wuhan. And just a quick tidbit, I'll tell you. The masks, as you might imagine, are not going to stop viral particles from getting into your nose and your mouth. They can get through the mask or around the mask. What they really do more than anything else, as I've seen covering these stories, is that they prevent you from touching your nose and your mouth, which is also one of the most common ways this virus is transmitted.
