And I started writing in the second year of my college. I went to an engineering college for Bachelors in Electronics and Communication Engineering in Ahmedabad. I was good at my studies. Actually, this was the reason that I couldn't start writing earlier than this. I was afraid that my grades would go down if I do anything else except for studying. Also, I come from a middle-class family so I need a good job so keep studying all the way in my life. When I developed the will of writing, I had no good friends, I mean, the college was new and I had to make new friends -- honestly, I was not good at this task. This environment took me to deep thoughts about the story and its plot. Also, the college was far from my home and I used to travel alone on my Activa to college, so I got plenty of time for thinking the story during the commute. When I was done with developing the content, I found a few friends who helped me in creating the cover of my book and improve the content.
