2 DISTRIBUTED USER INTERFACES: USABILITY AND COLLABORATION Mar2 a D. Lozano,Jose A. Gallud,Ricardo Tesoriero,Victor M.R. Penichet,2013-10-17 Written by international researchers in the field of distributed user interfaces (DUIs), this book brings together important contributions regarding collaboration and usability in distributed user interface settings. Throughout the thirteen chapters authors address key questions concerning how collaboration can be improved by using DUIs, including: in which situations a DUI is suitable to ease the collaboration among users; how usability standards can be used to evaluate the usability of systems based on DUIs; and accurately describe case studies and prototypes implementing these concerns. Under a collaborative scenario, users sharing common goals may take advantage of DUI environments to carry out their tasks more successfully because DUIs provide a shared environment where the users are allowed to manipulate information in the same space and at the same time. Under this hypothesis, collaborative DUI scenarios open new challenges to usability evaluation techniques and methods. Distributed User Interfaces: Collaboration and Usability presents an integrated view of different approaches related to collaboration and usability in distributed user interface settings, which demonstrate the state of the art, as well as future directions in this novel and rapidly evolving subject area.

2 CRITICAL ISSUES IN USER INTERFACE SYSTEMS ENGINEERING David Benyon,Philippe Palanque,2012-12-06 This book developed from an IFIP workshop which brought together methods and architecture researchers in human computer interaction and software engineering. To an extent this introduction is a little unfair to the authors, as we have distilled the results of the workshop to give the reader a perspective of the problems within integrated approaches to usability engineering. The papers could not hope to address all of the issues; however, we hope that a framework will help the reader gain further insights into current research and future practice. The initial motivation was to bring together researchers and practitioners to exchange their experiences on graphical user interface (Gill) design problems. The two groups represented methodological and architecture/tools interests, so the workshop focused on intersection of how methods can support user interface development and vice versa, how tools, architectures and reusable components can empower the design process. There is, we believe, a constructive tension between these two communities. Methodologists tend to approach the design problem with task/domain/organisational analysis while the tool builders suggest design empowerment/envisioning as a means of improving the way users work rather than relying on analysis of current systems. This debate revolves around the questions of whether users' current work is optimal, or whether designers have the insight to empower users by creating effective solutions to their problems. Tool builders typically want to build something, then get the users to try it, while the methodologists want to specify something, validate it and then build it.
