Genes, Memes, Culture, and Mental Illness Hoyle

Leigh,2010-06-14 What produces mental illness: genes, environment, both,neither? The answer can be found in memes—replicable units of information linking genes and environment in the memory and in culture—whose effects on individual brain development can be benign or toxic. This book reconceptualizes mental disorders as products of stressful gene-meme interactions and introduces a biopsychosocial template for meme-based diagnosis and treatment. A range of therapeutic modalities, both broad-spectrum (meditation) and specific(cognitive-behavioral), for countering negative memes and their replication are considered, as are possibilities for memetic prevention strategies. In this book, the author outlines the roles of genes and memes in the evolution of the human brain; elucidates the creation, storage, and evolution of memes within individual brains; examines culture as a carrier and supplier of memes to the individual; provides examples of gene-meme interactions that can result in anxiety, depression, and other disorders; proposes a multiaxial gene-meme model for diagnosing mental illness; identifies areas of meme-based prevention for at-risk children; and defines specific syndromes in terms of memetic symptoms, genetic/ memetic development, and meme-based treatment.

Polymeric Gene Delivery Systems Yiyun Cheng, 2018-09-04
The series Topics in Current Chemistry Collections presents critical reviews from the journal Topics in Current Chemistry organized in topical volumes. The scope of coverage is all areas of chemical science including the interfaces with related disciplines such as biology, medicine and materials science. The goal of each thematic volume is to give the non-specialist reader, whether in academia or industry, a comprehensive insight into an area where new research is emerging which is of interest to a larger scientific audience. Each review within the volume critically surveys one aspect of that topic and places it within the context of the volume as a whole. The most significant developments of the last 5 to 10 years are presented using selected examples to illustrate the principles discussed. The coverage is not intended to be an exhaustive summary of the field or include large quantities of data, but should rather be conceptual, concentrating on the methodological thinking that will allow the non-specialist reader to understand the information presented. Contributions also offer an outlook on potential future developments in the field. The chapter Polymeric Nanoparticle-Mediated Gene Delivery for Lung Cancer Treatment is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link.springer.com.

Beowulf Bryher, 2020-10-14 The author of Roman Wall and other well received historical novels portrays here a more recent period of history, that of the Blitz in the London of World War II.

Her portrayal of the living out of wartime days with their drabness and danger consists of cannily arranged sketches of over a dozen folk whose lives touch upon or center about the homely, comforting teashop run by two elderly ladies and fittingly named the Warming Pan. Selina Tippet is the motherly figure who presides and succors, Angelina is her militant partner who goes to battle for food rations and who brings home the plaster bulldog Beowulf as symbol of resolution. When the Warming Pan is blasted to nothingness, Beowulf remains unscathed -- and, while Angelina rejoices and thinks of hawking cakes, Selina laughs and weeps over the fact that she will never have to worry about overdue rent again and is embarrassed by the solicitude of her friends. There is an immediacy and a sharp etching in the presentation of people who seem to be caught candid and unaware by the author: the lonely widowed septuagenarian painter who hangs out at the teashop and who is mercifully spared complete poverty by the blast; young Eve, who has found freedom in the city and who worries that her friend Joe feels alive only in war; Ruby the waitress who discovers a friend she has come to mourn, alive beside her ruined dwelling; the retired colonel whom no one will put back in 'harness' ... A small, distinctively cut and polished piece.--Kirkus reviews

This book provides a survey on line and hyperplane location combining analytical and geometrical methods. The major portion of the text presents new results on this topic, including the extension of some special cases to all distances derived from norms and a discussion of restricted problems in the plane. Almost all results are proven in the text and most of them are illustrated by examples. Furthermore, relations to classical facility location and to problems in computational geometry are pointed out. Audience: The book is suitable for researchers, lecturers, and graduate students working in the fields of location theory or computational geometry.
