The Court of Arbitration for Sport I. S. Blackshaw,Janwillem Soek,Robert C. R. Siekmann,2006-03-02 I am very pleased and proud to write the Foreword to this Book on the occasion of the Court of Arbitration for Sport (CAS) having completed its first twenty years of operations. And I warmly congratulate the ASSER International Sports Law Centre and the Editors, Ian Blackshaw, Rob Siekmann and Janwillem Soek – in cooperation with Andrew Gibson, Griffith University, Brisbane, Australia, and Steve Cornelius, University of Johannesburg, South Africa –, on their joint initiative in putting together and publishing this Book. The CAS has come a long way since the idea of establishing it was first mentioned by Juan Antonio Samaranch, the former IOC President. His vision and confidence in its future have been truly vindicated. Since its creation and up to 31 December 2003, 576 cases have been submitted, of which 550 were requests for arbitration and 26 for an advisory opinion. In 2004, there was a sharp rise in the number of cases handled by the CAS and this trend continues apace. Thus, the CAS goes from strength to strength and has a great future, having, in the words of the Swiss Federal Tribunal in its landmark judgement of 27 May 2003, "built up the trust of the sporting world [and] . . . now widely recognised . . . [as] . . . one of the principal mainstays of organised sport.

Football Society & The Law David Mcardle,2013-03-04 An analysis of the relationship between the law and football, looking at such diverse issues as discrimination, drugs, violence and stadium safety. The book draws upon the author's work on the history, sociology and politics of sports law and locates these within the context of the industry.

The Heart of Hearts of Rumi's Mathnawi - Vol 1 Mawlana Husayn Wa'iz-e Kashifi,2017-02-15 In Persian-speaking Sufi circles it is almost as famous as the Mathnawi itself. Surprisingly enough, it has never been published in the West. But now it is available to students of mysticism and the many lovers of Rumi's work.

Lex Sportiva: What is Sports Law? Robert C.R. Siekmann,Janwillem Soek,2012-01-19 The important theme "What is Sports Law?" was the topic of the international Conference on "The Concept of Lex Sportiva Revisited", which took place in Jakarta in late 2010. Academics and practitioners are still in debate to agree on this concept as is evident in this book. This book not only contains the worked out contributions of this Conference, but also other related chapters on the subject. It produces a reassessment of the content of Sports Law and its terminology keeping a close eye on the current literature. The book appears in the ASSER International Sports Law Series, under the editorship of Prof. Dr. Robert Siekmann, Dr. Janwillem Soek and Marco van der Harst LL.M.

The Bosman Case Roger Blanpain,Rita Inston,1996 This is an analysis of a significant issue affecting the sports and leisure industry, and rooted in contract and competition law. The issue concerns a battle waged by Jean Marc Bosman, a Belgian professional footballer, to secure his freedom of labour. The judgement of the European Court of Justice settled the European dimension of the dispute. The landmark decision made by the European Court applies to all professional players who are nationals of member states and active in the European Union, and also covers EFTA countries. The book includes a full analysis and history of the Bosman cases, and is supported by the relevant regulations, statutes and transcripts of the court proceedings.

Global Law Without a State Gunther Teubner,1997 This work deals with legal pluralism in an emerging world society. It central thesis is that globalization of law tends to create a decentred law-making process which occurs in multiple sectors of civil society, independently of nation states. Technical standardization, professional rule production, human rights, intra-organizational regulation in multinational enterprises, contracting, arbitration and other institutions of lex mercatoria are forms of rule by private governments, claiming world-wide validity independently of the law of the nation states. They have come into existence not by formal acts of nation states but by strange paradoxical acts of self-validation.

EU, Sport, Law and Policy Simon Gardiner,Richard Parrish,Robert C. R. Siekmann,2011-03-25 I am honoured to have been invited to write the foreword to this book. Since the publi- tion of Professional Sport in the EU: Regulation and Re-regulation (edited by Andrew Caiger and Simon Gardiner, T.M.C. Asser Press 2000), there have been a number of dev- opments in the European Union in sports law, both in the European Commission and the European Court of Justice. The most significant of these was probably the adoption by the Commission of the White Paper on Sport on 11 July 2007. The White Paper takes stock of the acquis communautaire — the rather prodigious body of European Law including judgements and preliminary rulings of the ECJ — in the sports field and sets out the position of the Commission on three significant aspects of European sport: its societal role, its economic dimension, and its governance. The White Paper also contains concrete proposals for further EU action as part of an Action Plan named after Pierre de Coubertin, the founder of the modern Olympic Games.
