An Interdisciplinary Introduction to Image Processing Steven L. Tanimoto,2012-04-27 Basic principles of image processing and programming explained without college-level mathematics. This book explores image processing from several perspectives: the creative, the theoretical (mainly mathematical), and the grammatical. It explains the basic principles of image processing, drawing on key concepts and techniques from mathematics, psychology of perception, computer science, and art, and introduces computer programming as a way to get more control over image processing operations. It does so without requiring college-level mathematics or prior programming experience. The content is supported by PixelMath, a freely available software program that helps the reader understand images as both visual and mathematical objects. The first part of the book covers such topics as digital image representation, sampling, brightness and contrast, color models, geometric transformations, synthesizing images, stereograms, photomosaics, and fractals. The second part of the book introduces computer programming using an open-source version of the easy-to-learn Python language. It covers the basics of image analysis and pattern recognition, including edge detection, convolution, thresholding, contour representation, and K-nearest-neighbor classification. A chapter on computational photography explores such subjects as high-dynamic-range imaging, autofocusing, and methods for automatically inpainting to fill gaps or remove unwanted objects in a scene. Applications described include the design and implementation of an image-based game. The PixelMath software provides a “transparent” view of digital images by allowing the user to view the RGB values of pixels by zooming in on an image. PixelMath provides three interfaces: the pixel calculator; the formula page, an advanced extension of the calculator; and the Python window.

Printing Crafts Annalees Lim,2013-12-30 There's a great sense of pride in carrying a colorful, distinctive tote bag or hanging a one-of-a-kind print in your living room. Using paints, homemade stencils, and some other simple materials, readers will be able to make funky decorations, clothes, and even wrapping paper. Photographs accompany each step of the crafts so readers can easily follow along. Some crafts require a bit of help from an adult, but most are simple, fun ways for readers to use their creativity to make unique pieces all their own.

Hands-On Guide To IMAGE CLASSIFICATION Using Scikit-Learn, Keras, And TensorFlow with PYTHON GUI

Vivian Siahaan, 2023-06-20 In this book, implement deep learning on detecting face mask, classifying weather, and recognizing flower using TensorFlow, Keras, Scikit-Learn, OpenCV, Pandas, NumPy and other libraries. In chapter 1, you will learn how to use TensorFlow, Keras, Scikit-Learn, OpenCV, Pandas, NumPy and other libraries to perform detecting face mask using Face Mask Detection Dataset provided by Kaggle (<https://www.kaggle.com/omkargurav/face-mask-dataset/download>). Here's an overview of the steps involved in detecting face masks using the Face Mask Detection Dataset: Import the necessary libraries: Import the required libraries like TensorFlow, Keras, Scikit-Learn, OpenCV, Pandas, and NumPy.; Load and preprocess the dataset: Load the dataset and perform any necessary preprocessing steps, such as resizing images and converting labels into numeric representations.; Split the dataset: Split the dataset into training and testing sets using the `train_test_split` function from Scikit-Learn. This will allow us to evaluate the model's performance on unseen data.; Data augmentation (optional): Apply data augmentation techniques to artificially increase the size and diversity of the training set. Techniques like rotation, zooming, and flipping can help improve the model's generalization.;

Build the model: Create a Convolutional Neural Network (CNN) model using TensorFlow and Keras. Design the architecture of the model, including the number and type of layers.; Compile the model: Compile the model by specifying the loss function, optimizer, and evaluation metrics. This prepares the model for training. Train the model: Train the model on the training dataset. Adjust the hyperparameters, such as the learning rate and number of epochs, to achieve optimal performance.; Evaluate the model: Evaluate the trained model on the testing dataset to assess its performance. Calculate metrics such as accuracy, precision, recall, and F1 score.; Make predictions: Use the trained model to make predictions on new images or video streams. Apply the face mask detection algorithm to identify whether a person is wearing a mask or not.; Visualize the results: Visualize the predictions by overlaying bounding boxes or markers on the images or video frames to indicate the presence or absence of face masks. In chapter 2, you will learn how to use TensorFlow, Keras, Scikit-Learn, OpenCV, Pandas, NumPy and other libraries to perform how to classify weather using Multi-class Weather Dataset provided by Kaggle (<https://www.kaggle.com/pratik2901/multiclass-weather-dataset/download>). To classify weather using the Multi-class Weather Dataset from Kaggle, you can follow these general steps: Load the dataset: Use libraries like Pandas or NumPy to load the dataset into memory. Explore the dataset to understand its structure and the available features.; Preprocess the data: Perform necessary preprocessing steps such as data cleaning, handling missing values, and feature engineering. This may include resizing images (if the dataset contains images) or encoding categorical variables.; Split the data: Split the dataset into training and testing sets. The training set will be used to train the model, and the testing set will be used for evaluating its performance.; Build a model: Utilize TensorFlow and Keras to define a suitable model architecture for weather classification. The choice of model depends on the type of data you have. For image data, convolutional neural networks (CNNs) often work well.; Train the model: Train the model using the training data. Use appropriate training techniques like gradient descent and backpropagation to optimize the model's weights.; Evaluate the model: Evaluate the trained model's performance using the testing data. Calculate metrics such as accuracy, precision, recall, or F1-score to assess how well the model performs.; Fine-tune the model: If the model's performance is not satisfactory, you can experiment with different hyperparameters, architectures, or regularization techniques to improve its performance. This process is called model tuning.; Make predictions: Once you are satisfied with the model's performance, you can use it to make predictions on new, unseen data. Provide the necessary input (e.g., an image or weather features) to the trained model, and it will predict the corresponding weather class. In chapter 3, you will learn how to use TensorFlow, Keras, Scikit-Learn, OpenCV, Pandas, NumPy and other libraries to perform how to recognize flower using Flowers Recognition dataset provided by

Kaggle

(<https://www.kaggle.com/alxmamaev/flowers-recognition/download>). Here are the general steps involved in recognizing flowers: Data Preparation: Download the Flowers Recognition dataset from Kaggle and extract the contents. Import the required libraries and define the dataset path and image dimensions.; Loading and Preprocessing the Data: Load the images and their corresponding labels from the dataset. Resize the images to a specific dimension. Perform label encoding on the flower labels and split the data into training and testing sets. Normalize the pixel values of the images.; Building the Model: Define the architecture of your model using TensorFlow's Keras API. You can choose from various neural network architectures such as CNNs, ResNet, or InceptionNet. The model architecture should be designed to handle image inputs and output the predicted flower class..; Compiling and Training the Model: Compile the model by specifying the loss function, optimizer, and evaluation metrics. Common choices include categorical cross-entropy loss and the Adam optimizer. Train the model using the training set and validate it using the testing set. Adjust the hyperparameters, such as the learning rate and number of epochs, to improve performance.; Model Evaluation: Evaluate the trained model on the testing set to measure its performance. Calculate metrics such as accuracy, precision, recall, and F1-score to assess how well the model is recognizing flower classes.; Prediction: Use the trained model to predict the flower class for new images. Load and preprocess

the new images in a similar way to the training data. Pass the preprocessed images through the trained model and obtain the predicted flower class labels.; Further Improvements: If the model's performance is not satisfactory, consider experimenting with different architectures, hyperparameters, or techniques such as data augmentation or transfer learning. Fine-tuning the model or using ensembles of models can also improve accuracy.
