The Radio Station Michael C. Keith, 2007 Publisher description

Programming for TV, Radio & The Internet Lynne Gross, Brian Gross, Philippe Perebinosoff, 2012-11-12 Where do program ideas come from? How are concepts developed into saleable productions? Who do you talk to about getting a show produced? How do you schedule shows on the lineup? What do you do if a series is in trouble? The answers to these questions, and many more, can be found in this comprehensive, in-depth look at the roles and responsibilities of the electronic media programmer. Topics include: Network relationships with affiliates, the expanded market of syndication, sources of programming for stations and networks, research and its role in programming decisions, fundamental appeals to an audience and what qualities are tied to success, outside forces that influence programming, strategies for launching new programs or saving old ones. Includes real-life examples taken from the authors' experiences, and 250+ illustrations!

The Radio Station Michael C. Keith, 2004 Updating and expanding a classic text, 'The Radio Station' includes new sections on radio and the Internet, AM stereo, cable and satellite radio, niche formats, mergers and consolidations and provides insight into an ever-changing field.

Radio in the Television Age Pete Fornatale, 1983-05-02 A history of modern radio shows why radio survived the advent of television, covers radio advertising, programming, technology, and news, and discusses radio pioneers, noncommercial radio, and government deregulation--Google Books.

Biographical Encyclopedia of American Radio Christopher H. Sterling, 2013-05-13 The Biographical Encyclopedia of American Radio presents the very best biographies of the internationally acclaimed three-volume Encyclopedia of Radio in a single volume. It includes more than 200 biographical entries on the most important and influential American radio personalities, writers, producers, directors, newscasters, and network executives. With 23 new biographies and updated entries throughout, this volume covers key figures from radio's past and present including Glenn Beck, Jessie Blayton, Fred Friendly, Arthur Godfrey, Bob Hope, Don Imus, Rush Limbaugh, Ryan Seacrest, Laura Schlesinger, Red Skelton, Nina Totenberg, Walter Winchell, and many more. Scholarly but accessible, this encyclopedia provides an unrivaled guide to the voices behind radio for students and general readers alike.

Media Programming David Wise, 2010-08 The media industry plays a vital role in informing and entertaining the public. Media ownership and the availability of diverse programming have been a long-standing concern of Congress. Despite numerous programming choices in TV and radio available to the public, independently produced programming – that is, programming not affiliated with broadcast networks or cable operators – has decreased through the years. This report discusses: (1) the extent to which the sources of TV programming have changed over the last decade; (2) the factors industry stakeholders identified as affecting the availability of independent TV programming; and (3) the factors industry stakeholders identified as influencing programming decisions in radio. illus.

Sports-Talk Radio in America Frank Hoffmann, Jack M. Dempsey, Martin J. Manning, 2012-12-06 An inside look at the hosts, hot spots, and history of sports-talk radio Sports-Talk Radio in America looks at major-, medium-, and small-market stations across the United States that feature an all-sports format, with a focus on the unique personalities and programming strategies that make each station successful. Broadcasters, journalists, and academics provide insight on how and why this media phenomenon has become an important influence of American culture, examining the “guy talk” broadcasting approach, the traditional sports-emphasis approach, “HSOs” (hot sports opinions), localism in broadcasting, how sports talk radio builds “communities” of listeners, and how reckless, on-air comments can actually build ratings. For better or worse, millions of (mostly) male listeners indulge their obsession with sports to the exclusion of virtually everything else available on the radio dial—music, news, and political talk. This unique book examines how this “niche of the niche” has formed a bond between its hosts and their rabid, passionate, and loyal audiences, spinning the dial from the largest, best-known stations in big-league markets to smaller stations in Collegetown, USA, including Philadelphia’s WIP, “The Ticket,” KTCK in Dallas, WEEL in Boston, “The Team,” WQTM in Orlando, KJR in Seattle, KOZN “The Zone” Omaha, Nebraska, WGR and WNSA in Buffalo, Kansas City’s WHB, and “The Fan,” WFAN in New York, the first all-sports radio station and the blueprint for the format. Sports-Talk Radio in America puts you in the studio with Mike and the Mad Dog, Angelo Cataldi, Howard Eskin, “The Musers” (“Junior” Miller and George Dunham), Norm Hitges, John Dennis and Gerry Callahan, Dan Sileo, Howard Simon, and Art Wander. Sports-Talk Radio in America examines: how stations create an environment in which listeners become part of a social group (social-identity and self-categorization theories) personality-driven programming the station’s commitment to local teams and their fans how exploring controversial topics beyond sports broadens station’s appeal and attracts upscale, affluent audience how an abundance of live, play-by-play broadcasting, creating plenty of available content college sports in a town without a major professional sports team how local sports is framed by hosts and callers the conflicted relationship between sports-talk radio and the print media and much more! Sports-Talk Radio in America is a must-read for academics and professionals working in radio-television and popular culture.

Iowa's WHO Radio Jeff Stein, 2011 When a Des Moines

insurance company started a radio station in 1924, no one imagined it would bring news from a world war home to families desperate for information, carry the exploits of University of Iowa athletics to fans nationwide, draw the ire of a Cuban dictator, and be home to a future president. From the earliest days of This is W-H-O. Who? Bankers Life, Des Moines to today's 50,000-watt, clear channel voice of the middle west, one of the most powerful radio stations in America has been part of Iowa life for nearly 90 years. With a signal that reaches from coast to coast, border to border, and then some, trusted voices such as Jack Shelley, Herb Plambeck, Jim Zabel, Lee Kline, and Duane Ellett have graced the WHO radio airwaves, while Van & Bonnie, Jan Mickelson, Bob Quinn, and others carry on the tradition today. From the Barn Dance Frolic and Phone Forum to Sportsman's Notebook and The Big Show, WHO has consistently reflected the values of Iowans.

Television in the Age of Radio Philip W. Sewell,2014-02-13
Television existed for a long time before it became commonplace in American homes. Even as cars, jazz, film, and radio heralded the modern age, television haunted the modern imagination. During the 1920s and 1930s, U.S. television was a topic of conversation and speculation. Was it technically feasible? Could it be commercially viable? What would it look like? How might it serve the public interest? And what was its place in the modern future? These questions were not just asked by the American public, but also posed by the people intimately involved in television's creation. Their answers may have been self-serving, but they were also statements of aspiration. Idealistic imaginations of the medium and its impact on social relations became a de facto plan for moving beyond film and radio into a new era. In Television in the Age of Radio, Philip W. Sewell offers a unique account of how television came to be—not just from technical innovations or institutional struggles, but from cultural concerns that were central to the rise of industrial modernity. This book provides sustained investigations of the values of early television amateurs and enthusiasts, the fervors and worries about competing technologies, and the ambitions for programming that together helped mold the medium. Sewell presents a major revision of the history of television, telling us about the nature of new media and how hopes for the future pull together diverse perspectives that shape technologies, industries, and audiences.

The Talk Show Revolution Gini Graham Scott,2008-10-01 Explores the talk show genre and how it affects society. Dr. Scott, a noted expert on social issues and a sometime radio talk show host, provides a savvy overview of how and why today's talk shows and their hosts have become so controversial, compelling, and powerful (especially if they own part or all of their own show). The first half of the book focuses on radio talk shows, the second on television talk shows. These two sections start with detailed histories of how talk shows began with the birth of each of these media over a half century ago. Subsequent chapters highlight the big movers and shakers in these arenas, with brief looks at how top hosts, e.g., Oprah Winfrey, Barbara Walters, Larry King, Howard Stern, David Letterman, and Rush Limbaugh, found professional and financial success.

Radio and TV Programming Herbert H. Howard,Michael S. Kievman,1986

Baltimore Radio and Television Gary Helton ,2019 Beginning with Calman Zamoiski's unlicensed and short-lived wireless telephone station in 1921, Baltimore would boast five commercial radio stations within the next 20 years. Before the 1940s ended, commercial television appeared with the debut of WMAR, Channel 2, in 1947. WMAR was unique in that it had no personnel with television experience and, initially, no studios, broadcasting instead from various remote locations. Over the years, Baltimore radio and television stations served as the launchpad or stopover point of some of the most beloved personalities in the industry. Garry Moore, Arthur Godfrey, and Jim McKay all got their starts here, while Gene Rayburn, Jon Miller, Oprah Winfrey, John Saunders, Nick Charles, Spencer Christian, Bob McAllister, and others passed through en route to national broadcasting prominence. Baltimoreans did not just bond with the people and programs of their local stations. It was a genuine love affair.

TV And Radio Adapting To Digital Rafeal Mechlore, 2023-11 TV and radio have gone through an emotional change lately as they adjust to the computerized age. This shift is a reaction to changing customer inclinations and mechanical progressions, which have re-imagined the manner in which we consume media. In this 300-word portrayal, we will investigate how both TV and radio have advanced in the computerized period. TV, when described by customary transmissions over the wireless transmissions or through link, has taken a critical jump into the computerized domain. With the ascent of streaming stages like Netflix, Hulu, and Amazon Prime Video, watchers currently have the adaptability to watch their number one shows and motion pictures on request. Brilliant televisions have become typical, permitting watchers to get to online substance straightforwardly through their TVs. What's more, virtual entertainment stages like YouTube, Instagram, and TikTok have led to another age of advanced content makers, affecting the manner in which we consume and draw in with TV. Radio, as well, has embraced computerized change. Customary AM and FM radio broadcasts currently stream their transmissions web based, making it workable for audience members to tune in from anyplace on the planet. Besides, web recordings have acquired massive prominence, offering a different cluster of content, from news and diversion to instructive programming. This has permitted radio to stay significant and available in a period overwhelmed by cell phones and the web. The promoting scene has likewise adjusted to this computerized shift. Television and radio notices have become more information driven and customized. Promoters can target explicit socioeconomics with pinpoint exactness, and the viability of missions can be estimated all the more unequivocally, which is a critical takeoff from the customary telecom model. Moreover, the combination of man-made brainpower and voice acknowledgment innovation has significantly impacted the manner in which we collaborate with the two mediums. Brilliant speakers like Amazon Reverberation and research Home have made it more straightforward for buyers to get to radio broadcasts and web-based features with basic voice orders.
