Playing with Things: The archaeology, anthropology and ethnography of human-object interactions in Atlantic Scotland Graeme

Wilson, 2018-12-31 This study represents a reappraisal of the relationship between play — an activity which is most often understood in terms of something ‘set apart’ — and everyday life. Via a series of archaeological, anthropological and ethnographic investigations, it leads towards the conclusion that play is not in fact so separate as is often assumed.

Euchre for Complete Beginners Robert

Ticker,2021-01-10 Euchre is an excellent social card game, simple in concept but with a high degree of subtlety in the play. To play Euchre, you need the following: Four players: Two teams, two players to a team.A standard deck of 52 cards: Take out the ace through the 9 in each suit, making a deck of 24 cards for the game.Each player receives five cards, and you play one card at a time; the player who lays the highest card in the suit of the first card played - unless someone contributes a trump, in which case it is whoever lays the highest trump card - collects all four cards together and stacks them in front of him, thus taking the trick.In Euchre, you win a hand and score points for taking the majority of the tricks in a hand, which means winning three or more of the five tricks available. You get more points if you take all five tricks. The first to a specified total of points, generally 10, wins the match.You play the game with partners, but under special circumstances, one member of a partnership can elect to go solo, if he thinks that going alone is worthwhile.Get your copy today by scrolling up and clicking Buy Now to get your copy today

The town of Marshall, Texas, is the epicenter of intellectual property law in the US—renowned for its speedy trials and massive payouts. One of its best lawyers is James Euchre. His newest client, Amir Zawar, is a CEO forced to defend his life's work against a patent infringement claim. But when a beloved hometown hero is murdered, all signs point to Zawar, an outsider with no alibi. With the help of a former federal prosecutor and a local PI, Euchre hopes to uncover the truth. In his first criminal case, the stakes couldn't be higher. Euchre fears either an innocent man will be sent to death row, or he'll help set a murderer free. The Local is a small-town thriller crackling with courtroom tension right up to the final verdict.

The Game of Euchre John William Keller, 2015-06-12

Excerpt from The Game of Euchre Of the old and familiar games at cards, Euchre is among the most popular. This fact is due to its extreme simplicity and eminent respectability, for Euchre needs no monetary consideration to make it interesting to its devotees, and therefore suggests nothing of gambling. Like Whist, it is generally played simply as a means of amusement, the contestants being content with victory for victory's sake alone. While it does not tax the memory as severely as Whist, and is generally not so complex in character, Euchre is nevertheless a game of skill, and its many points are worthy of intelligent consideration for the intellectual pastime they afford. As a social game it has always ranked well, and is often found in the bosoms of families where no other game at cards is known, or at least tolerated. That phase of the game known as Progressive Euchre has attained especial popularity, and not infrequently is made the sole expedient of an evening's amusement for an unlimited number of pleasure-seekers. I Love This Game Sabine Auken, 2006 In the November 2001 Venice Cup final, Germany trailed France by 47 IMPs starting the last set. In this book, world champion Sabine Auken tells the thrilling inside story of their comeback world title win, every bid and every card. She also uses each of the sixteen deals from that final session as a starting point for discussion, and distills from each of them general principles and advice that will help anyone looking to improve their own game. Among the topics covered here are the rationale for her own system agreements (the pros and cons of mini-notrump openings, multi-purpose two-bids, the merits of forcing club systems, etc.) and carding methods, as well as team chemistry, table presence and even dressing for success!
